N.W. Bell Co. Plans Big Expansion in '58

Northwestern Bell Telephone Company said today the continually increasing demand for telephone service in Minnesota will make it necessary for the firm to spend a record-breaking $38,000,000 for expansion of facilities in 1958.

In announcing its plans for the next 12 months in Minnesota, the phone company said the 1958 construction total will be some $1,000,000 higher than the 1957 expenditure, a record to date.

The 1958 program will include: Expansion of the new Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) system. Customers in Minnesota communities that have DDD will be able to dial more cities, including some large metropolitan areas throughout the nation, and more state cities are scheduled to get DDD service. The new system was placed in operation last summer, enabling half a million Minnesota telephone users to dial many of their own long distance calls to 9,000,000 phones in 150 communities within the state and around the nation.

Placing of additional cable, poles and wire and installation of new central office equipment to meet an expected increase of about 45,000 telephones and additional 1,800,000 long distance messages. The company expects that the number of Bell System phones in the state will be boosted to near the 1,000,000 mark by the end of 1958.

Continuing the program of telephone service improvement by changing at least eight more Minnesota communities to dial operation. This will include installation of new long distance facilities, paving the way for more operator and customer long distance dialing.

Construction of building additions in several communities to provide space for necessary dial switching equipment and long distance facilities to handle the ever-growing calling rate.

In addition to the inauguration of District Distance Dialing in Minnesota in 1957, the company found the year one of the busiest in its history in other ways too in the state.

More than 45,000 telephones were added, boosting the year-end total to 937,000. Total number of long distance calls handled during the year was 30,000,000, or an average of 112,000 each business day.

Continuing its program of telephone service improvement, the company installed dial switching equipment in three more Minnesota communities, including Thief River Falls. At the present time, 91 per cent of Bell System telephones in the state are dial.

To provide additional space for equipment to serve more telephones, the company either completed or started new telephone buildings in seven communities. Substantial additions to present buildings were started in seven communities and completed in three others.

7 Drivers Fined In Court Monday

One Man Is Fined $100 for Drunken Driving

The holiday season had no meaning in municipal court Monday as seven persons appeared before Judge H. O. Chommie on various traffic law infractions.

Only one case was brought before Chommie by the highway patrol. Budd C. Wennerstein, Lake Bronson, pleaded guilty to speeding and was fined $10, suspended, $3.50 costs paid.

All other cases were brought by city police. Arthur L. Kilen, Greenbush, speeding, entered a plea of guilty, drew a $10 fine plus $3.50 costs.

Carl M. Swenson, rt. 1, city, leaving the scene of an accident, pleaded guilty and was fined $25.

James R. Johnson, city, careless driving on the river ice, pleaded guilty and was fined $15, which was suspended. According to Police Chief Elton Cummings, careless operation of an automobile is not permitted at any time or any place.

Fred Brandvold, city, pleaded guilty to failure to yield right-of-way, which led to an accident and was fined $10.

Gottfried Hagenbeck, city, also for failing to yield right-of-way, drew a $10 fine after pleading guilty.

Gordon H. Anderson, city, charged with driving under the influence of liquor, pleaded guilty and was fined $100 plus $4 costs.

In one other case heard Dec. 26, James F. Binler, St. Paul, charged with careless driving, pleaded guilty and was fined $15 plus $4 costs.

Coal from under the sea makes an important annual contribution to Britain's total tonnage and in 1954 undersea mines produced upwards of 30 million tons, or about nine per cent of the years' volume.

4,500 Nazarene Churches to Note 50th Anniversary

In each of 4,500 Nazarene churches in the U. S. and around the world, including Thief River Falls, special hymns, testimonies and sermons of praise will arise at simultaneous worship services Sunday, Jan. 5, opening the denominations' golden anniversary year.

Since the Nazarene church started at a union service in a small tent at Pilot Point, Texas, on October 13, 1908, it has girdled the world with its message and slogan, "Holiness unto the Lord."

Among U. S. Protestant denominations, Nazarenes now stand 30th in membership, 15th in Sunday school enrollment, and 9th in publishing house business.

Membership has increased about 30 times — from 10,000 to nearly 300,000 in 50 years.

The value of all church property has increased about 340 times, from $500,000 to $180,705,000.

Appliances Kept for About Fifteen Years on Average

Figures Compiled by the Census Bureau for U. S. Agriculture Department

How long do you keep most of your house hold appliances?

U. S. Department of Agriculture home economists predict that the shiny new range that appeared under this year's Christmas tree will probably be used to cook about 15 more Christmas dinners.

The prediction is based on new information on the length of time homemakers keep household appliances.

New electric and gas ranges are kept in service in most households about 15 years, new electric refrigerators also about 15 years and new washing machines of all types about 9 years. A range, refrigerator or washing machine purchased new generally is kept by the homemaker about twice as long as a used one according to a recent study.

Researches point out that these figures show how long, in the average, the homemaker keeps these appliances, but the figures do not indicate how long they could have been made to last. The appeal of newer models and other factors may influence a homemaker to replace an appliance that could still give service.

Differences were found between the average life spans of equipment in farm and city homes. Non-automatic washing machines, for example, are kept longer in farm than in city homes, while ranges have a shorter life span in rural areas.

The figures come from Census Bureau data collected for the U. S. Department of Agriculture's institute of home economics.

N. W. Clinic for Mental Health Is Allocated $24,000

State Department of Public Welfare Grants Funds for Institution

A $24,000 grant to establish a mental health clinic at Crookston, to serve Pennington and six other area counties, was announced recently by the Department of Public Welfare. The grant, one of two, is to help local communities set up the clinic for early detection and prevention of serious mental illness, it was reported.

Counties served by the Crookston clinic which is to be set up in a wing of Sunnyrest Sanatorium will be Roseau, Polk, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington and Red Lake. The counties will share the costs of operation.

In all cases state funds will provide roughly half of the operating budgets of the clinics, it was reported.

Norman Peterson of Thief River Falls is on the board of the clinic which is headed by Earl Bagley, executive secretary of the Polk county welfare board. The clinic will serve approximately 100,000 in this area.

Bagley reported that the anticipated budget for 1958 is $45,000 and said the board will meet early in January to start recruiting a staff. Present plans call for a psychiatrist, a clinical psychologist and a psychiatric social worker.

The $100,000 appropriated by the legislature for establishment of clinics has now been exhausted.

Billy Graham New York Crusade to Be Shown Here Jan. 11

Movies of Huge Crusade to Be Presented in High School Auditorium

"Miracle in Manhattan," the unusual documentary film account of Billy Graham's New York Crusade will have a premiere showing at Lincoln high school Saturday, Jan. 11 at 8 p. m. There will be no admission charge. Jinx Falkenburg and Tex McCrary report the sixteen-week coverage of Mr. Graham's largest Crusade for Christianity. This popular "Mr. and Mrs. New York" team head their own television program emanating daily from the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

They "set the stage" with a photographic tour of Manhattan, followed by the excitement of the Crusade's Opening night in Madison Square Garden. Successive meetings in Brooklyn, Central Park, Forest Hills, Harlem and Wall Street's financial district emphasize Greater New York City's spiritual interest in the Crusade.

In the gigantic sports arena of Madison Square Garden, the film offers a "front-row" perspective of the Graham team. The arena becomes a Cathedral and the dynamic preaching of the evangelist is augmented by the singing of George Beverly Shea and the music of the Massive choir under the direction of Cliff Barrows.

2 Minor Traffic Mishaps Tuesday

Estimated $115 Damage Caused by Collisions

A fairly quiet celebration of the New Year was reported by city police here and no traffic accidents have occurred to mar the 1958 safety record thus far.

Two minor mishaps Dec. 31 caused an estimated $115 property damage but no injuries were reported.

The first of these occurred about 7 a. m. Tuesday, in a collision of two city drivers at the intersection of E. Eighth st. and Atlantic av. Gerald B. Flattum was driving east on Eighth when he collided with Edward Ness, who was going north on Atlantic. Only $25 damage to the Ness car was reported, none to the Flattum vehicle.

About 3:10 p. m. the same day Mrs. Vivian Peterson Saastad, city, was going west on W. Fourth st. when she was in a collision with Mrs. Gerald Shern, city, who was travelling south on Duluth av.

Damage from the collision caused $75 damage to the Shern car and $15 to the Saastad car.

No charges were reported filed in either accident.

1958 Tax Exemptions Held Off Their Arrival

Other cities make a big fuss over the first baby born in the new year. Other cities have 'em on New Year's Day, too.

Apparently, though, couples in the area served by Northwestern Hospital prefer to celebrate the New Year by NOT HAVING new tax exemption to get the year off to a good start.

At any rate, no babies have been born here since 1958 started ticking off, according to Norm Peterson, interim administrator at Northwestern Hospital.

Furthermore, Peterson said, there may not be any born here for some time, from information he has.

It's nothing to be alarmed over, though. The same thing happened last year, with no babies born until several days of 1957 had gone by.

Oddly enough, this reporter remembers being called to the hospital about two or three weeks later last January, to take a picture of a nursery that was literally overflowing with new babies.

Intensified Cold War Due in 1958, Babson Predicts

increase fear of war, which could greatly affect retail sales.

2. Russian policy will be aimed at securing control of the United States, the countries of Western Europe, and the Middle East by infiltration.

3. The cold war costs the United States billions of dollars annually. This can be paid for only through increased taxes or inflation, or by the adoption of the Hoover Commission's recommendations for radical economy.

4. Profits will be further squeezed during 1958, as a result of higher costs and pressure for lower prices.

5. Competition at all levels will increase during 1958.

6. Only more advertising by both manufacturers and retailers will enable them to keep up their present gross volume during 1958.

7. Failures will increase in 1958. These will apply mostly to small concerns, but some one of the big companies in the Dow-Jones Averages may collapse.

8. Predicting a lower total volume of business for 1958, compared with 1957, I forecast a moderately lower trend, on average, for wholesale commodity prices. Expect a gradual decrease in the cost-of-living during 1958.

9. Wise labor leaders will hesitate to fight for higher wages, but will try for shorter hours, pensions, and other "fringes."

10. European countries will have less to spend for American goods, and foreign trade will decline in 1958, compared with 1957.

Money Outlook

11. Money will continue to be "tight" during 1958 for new borrowers who have not established a satisfactory line of credit.

12. Owing to declining demands for funds, interest rates will decline in 1958.

13. Concerns with large numbers of employees will receive first consideration both by banks and by the government.

14. For fear of World War III, and due to declining business, many plans for expansion of plants will be postponed.

15. Money rates may be 'fixed' during 1958 by an economic dictator.

16. Lower money rates will make it easier to sell long-term bonds during 1958.

17. The supply of non-taxable state, municipal, turnpike, and other "Authority" bonds will increase during 1958.

18. I forecast higher prices for many corporate bonds.

19. Investors will continue, during 1958, to switch from stocks to attractive bond issues; fear of war will rule all markets.

20. Bankers will fear that the government — as a part of the cold war — will appoint a dictator to direct the policies of all national banks, the leading stock exchanges, and investment dealers.

Labor Outlook

21. There will be a general fear that the government — as a part of the cold war — will fix wages in many industries and prevent further increases during 1958.

22. The revelations brought about by the investigation of the Teamsters Union may lead to important new labor legislation.

23. The Taft-Hartley Law will not be repealed in 1958, and may be made more severe. Much, however, will depend upon President Eisenhower's physical and mental condition.

24. Congressional attempt will be made to eliminate the present exemption of labor unions from anti-monopoly laws.

25. 1958 will be a sad year for labor leaders. I forecast that there will be an increase of unemployment during 1958.

26. I forecast that with the possible exception of the auto industry, there will be no national strikes during 1958.

27. I forecast that automation will slowly increase during 1958.

28. If wages should be fixed as a part of the cold-war program, retail prices will also be fixed.

29. All workers, especially office workers, will be more efficient in 1958. It will be more difficult for the next group of college graduates to get good positions at high wages.

30. For the past few years labor has been sitting in the driver's seat. Many industrialists and political leaders have feared that the country is headed for a socialist or labor government. A cheerful sign now is that such fears may, temporarily at least, be forgotten. The American working man is himself becoming disgusted with too powerful labor leaders. This should be good news to all honest employers.

Outlook for Real Estate

31. Land adjoining cities and towns will increase in value during 1958. This especially applies to small farms.

32. Large commercial farms will continue to prosper during 1958, but the small farmer will continue to suffer if dependent on farming.

33. Under an economic dictator, farmers would receive no increased price supports. If farm prices are fixed, they will be at lower levels.

34. Large cities may continue to lose in population. Large city real estate will sell for less, for fear of Russian missiles.

35. The growth of suburbs will continue, although many houses now occupied by well-paid executives will be forced on the market as their owners lose their present high-salaried positions.

36. Construction activity in many communities will decline. Older houses will come on the market.

37. In many sections of the country there will be a greater demand for co-operative modern apartments than for single houses, although old apartment houses will sell for less. More young people and old people will insist upon every modern convenience and upon locations not absolutely dependent on automobiles.

38. Well-located woodlands will continue to increase in price. This certainly applies to pine wood tracts, especially in the South.

39. Canadian oil reserves should begin to recover in price unless there is rationing of gasoline in the United States in late 1958.

40. The most important factor in connection with real estate is the parking problem, which is a curse of almost every city. Suburban real estate and farms owe much to the automobile, but the automobile industry is now reaching a stage where it could revolutionize present real estate prices. We owe the automobile industry a debt of gratitude for our present prosperity. It is a bellwether of general business for 1958. It is, however, like everything else, subject to the business cycle and may be a cause of the next depression. Another probable cause will be the failure of one of the big corporations whose stock is among the "30 Blue Chips" of the Dow-Jones Industrials.

Stock Market Outlook

41. The "bloom is off the stock market." We will have rallies and reactions during 1958, but the broad trend will be downward. This is the first time for many years that I have said this in my annual report. There is too much talk about missiles, bombs, and fallout.

42. While the stock market has been going up during the past few years, the bond market has been going down. The reverse will take place during 1958. While the stock market is going down, the bond market will begin to creep upward. This especially applies to tax-free bonds, the purchase of which I strongly recommend.

43. Good cumulative non-callable preferred stocks will also be in demand during 1958. Owing to the money market, they recently suffered in price; but owing to lack of supply, they will be the first stocks to recover. Remember, I am now recommending only high-grade cumulative non-callable preferreds.

44. The large fortunes made in the stock market have come from buying non-dividend-paying stocks at $5.00 a share or under. These will be the first to reach a buying level. If you are to buy these low-priced stocks, you should seek companies without too much cumulative preferred stock outstanding. This is the opposite of the "preferred" recommendation in paragraph 43!

45. Large bank balances will continue to be a good investment in 1958. Many savings banks are now paying 3% to 3¼% interest. These balances, however, should not be looked upon as permanent investments, but rather as a means of enabling you to have cash available when common stocks reach a low level. This time may NOT come in 1958. Here again, much depends upon President Eisenhower's condition.

46. Although many corporations interested in atomic energy, electronics, rare metals, and other growth industries will become more prosperous and profitable to investors, some of these new companies will be wiped out. Hence, investors should be very careful in connection therewith.

47. Utility stocks should hold their own with regard to dividends and marketability. Electric power will always be in demand.

48. Most railroad stocks should be avoided. Most passenger business is now being operated at a loss. Trucks, busses, airplanes, and private automobiles will ultimately force the government to take over the railroads. In the meantime, the securities of the long-haul railroads, which specialize in heavy freight, will be the best to own. The short-haul roads should be avoided by investors.

49. Not withstanding the above, we cannot now become panicky or too bearish. Our country is not now operating on the Gold Standard which was responsible for many of our national crises, but is now on a Political Standard. Although Newton's Law of Action and Reaction must continue to operate, yet Congress can for a while lengthen the prosperity cycles. This it will attempt to do even if it requires an economic dictator to temporarily regulate money, wages, prices, rents, taxes, and industry in general. I cannot forecast disarmament in 1958. It appears to me now, however, that the present race in guided missiles, atomic underwater navies, surprise satellites, and other tremendously destructive military equipment could ultimately rob us of our freedom and turn us back to slavery unless disarmament becomes a serious goal. The Sputniks should hasten either another military world war or the elimination of world wars. Sputniks should shorten the cold war now in progress.

50. Speaking realistically, the hope of the United States and the world depends upon our spiritual relationships. Only as we grow spiritually, along with our material growth and military power, can the world be kept in balance. Therefore, my final ap*peal is for the support of all* churches of all denominations and their ministers, priests, and rabbis who are carrying the torch of righteousness.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

Our city has had a reputation for production of juvenile delinquents, though I don't believe that we are any worse than any other community. I do feel that we fail in the way we handle many of them. I think it is recognized that the Youth Conservation Commission has failed miserably and yet they keep groping and clutching at straws. I would suggest that the people investigate the percentage of those who "return" after having once been released from YCC custody. It is surprising!

I think we fail miserably in the way justice is administered in our local community in respect to juvenile treatment. When a juvenile judge will state in court that he intends to make an example of a boy and commit him to YCC custody in spite of the fact that no previous court appearances had been made, something is out of hand.

And why, when a sentence is given, isn't the sentence given to all? I know there can be extenuating circumstances, but I doubt if they always exist. Some persons boast that "my child will not be sent away if he or she gets into trouble", and so far, they have been right. It seems that our local justice is a hand with five fingers; each of the fingers exerting unequal pressure. The pressure depends on the so called "social position" of the parents.

Some of our boys are in trouble again. Rumor has it that again, "those in control will see that they are immune from punishment". We have a reputation that we will not be able to talk away.

I trust that it is only rumor. It has not been rumor in the past. Let's get to the point of equal justice for all—and let's have the justice publicized. The names of persons who are arrested for drunkenness or any other offense should be public knowledge if they are not minors. It would be easy to name those who have "gotten off", but it would serve no useful purpose. I believe the Governor is sincere and I believe he will listen if facts are presented to him.

Tips on Removing Stains from Linen

Home Economist Advises Removing While Fresh

Stains on table linens often become a problem to homemakers during the holiday season when there is a good deal of entertaining.

Elizabeth Rivers, extension home economist at the University of Minnesota, says that treating stains promptly, while they are fresh, and knowing what fibers make up the fabric are important rules for success in stain removal. Stain removers safe for one fabric many damage another.

Here are some suggestions for removing some common stains on table linens:

Cranberry or other fruit stains. If the material is white, pour boiling water through the stain from a height of three or four feet. If a stain remains, rub it between the hands and pour water through it again. Try squeezing a little lemon juice on the remaining stain. For colored fabrics, use warm rather than boiling water. If the acid from the fruit changes the color of the cloth, hold the moistened cloth over an opened bottle of ammonia or sprinkle both sides of the moistened stain with baking soda to restore the color. Rinse well.

Grease. Lay cloth wrong side up on a pad of soft cloth. Sponge with a clean, soft lintless cloth and carbon tetrachloride or other grease solvent. Use a small amount of solvent and work rapidly, starting at the outside of the stain and working toward the center. Use grease solvents in a well ventilated room. Keep away from pilot light or other flames.

Coffee or tea stains. Remove by the boiling water method. Then wash in hot soapy water.

Cocoa or chocolate. Scrape off as much as possible with a dull knife. Wash in warm, soapy water. A weak solution of sodium perborate bleach may be used to remove the stain. Be sure to rinse well.

Candlewax. Scrape off the wax with a dull knife. Place stained part between clean white blotters or paper towels or tissues and press with a warm iron. Set the temperature of the iron to suit the fabric. Change the blotters as they absorb wax. Next, sponge the spot with dry cleaning solvent. If color remains, sponge with a solution of 1 cup denatured alcohol and 2 cups water. Use of dripless candles will prevent the possibility of candlewax stains.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—I am planning to sell my house and let the buyer take over my GI loan. I also want to apply to VA for release from liability. Our house is in my wife's and my name. Will she also be released from liability?

A—If you are released from liability, she will be, also.

Q—I am the widow of a World War I veteran. VA is paying extra death compensation on behalf of my 17-year-old daughter. If she goes to school under the War Orphans Education program, will those extra payments stop? She already has finished high school and is ready for college.

A—If she enrolls in college under the War Orphans Education program, she may receive both the extra death compensation and her educational allowances. However, once she reaches age 18 the death compensation payments must stop.

Q—A friend of mine, a World War II veteran, recently died of a service-connected condition. Will his widow have a choice of obtaining death compensation payments or payments under the Survivor Benefits Act?

A—No. Since his death occurred after January 1, 1957, his widow does not have a choice. She may be eligible only for benefits under the Survivor Benefits Act. Had the death occurred before January 1, 1957, the widow would have had a choice between the two benefits.

Q—I am taking on-the-job training under the Korean GI Bill, and my entitlement has nearly run out. Is it possible to have my entitlement extended, as is the case with veterans in school?

A—No. The law prohibits the extension of entitlement for veterans taking on-the-job training under the Korean GI Bill. Your GI training will end as of the date your entitlement expires.

Heavy June Rains and Fargo Tornado Mark '57 Weather Picture

A look into the past at 1957 weather would reveal a picture of frustration for northwest Minnesota residents.

Mother Nature was particularly harsh with the farm folks of this area, dishin out hail and rain indiscriminately and considerable crop loss was experienced in many localities for the second year in a row.

In Fargo a black funnel swooped out of turbulent skies, taking several lives and devastating wide areas of that city. The tornado was one of the worst on record in this part of the upper midwest.

A month-by-month perusal of the weather for 1957 would reveal that January and February, as usual, were the coldest months. No records are available from the second month but a minus 33 Jan. 20 was the coldest day of the year from records on hand at the Times.

Snowfall was very light for the whole year.

An early thaw was experienced in the area and spring started off on the right foot in March. Unfortunately, it lost its way sometime in June, which was a cool, wet month.

Temperatures went as high as 54 in March and reached 82 April 30. The river ice was still here April 10 and there was no sudden break. One might say it "just faded away," and was gone by late April.

The first heavy precipitation was noted here in April, with 2.31 inches recorded. May was an average month, cool at first but warming toward the latter part. Only one inch of rainfall noted.

The skies fell in, in June. That was the month of floods in the Ruffy Brook-Clearwater River areas and farmers in the vicinity were badly affected. That also was the month of the Fargo tornado and several tornado scares were had in our own area due to ugly, black clouds which threatened at various times.

In June a near-record 6.15 in. of rainfall was recorded by observers at KTRF in Thief River Falls.

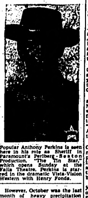
July was the warmest month in 1957 with a high of 94 recorded the 11th. Another 1.15 inches of rain fell here that month.

Disaster struck again in August when rains came during the harvest, and again in September. Generally, August is a very warm month but in our area it was comparatively cool. The high registered here was 92 and on the whole it was much cooler.

Grain farmers in the area suffered severe losses from the 3.18 inches that fell in August and the 3.80 inches that fell in September amounted to compound tragedy. The first frost of the new fall season arrived September 23.

October continued the warm, wet trend that started in April, with two inches of rain noted in the month. Duck and upland bird hunters were still wearing light clothing and slapping at mosquitoes in the early part of the hunting season.

The abnormal but nice autumn weather continued right into the winter months and it wasn't until the later part of December that temperatures dropped to below zero and stayed there for several days at a time.



Popular Anthony Perkins is seen here in his role as Sheriff in Paramount's Perlberg - Seaton Production, "The Tin Star," which opens Sunday at the Falls Theatre. Perkins is starred in the dramatic Vista-Vision Western with Henry Fonda.

However, October was the last month of heavy precipitation and November and December saw area farmers at last combining the last of the small grain crop that was worth salvaging.

Most ironical of all in 1957 was the fact that, despite the approximately 19 in. of rain that fell April through November, the area didn't have a white Christmas. With the New Year come and gone only a trace of snow is discernable on the ground here.

Mercury Hits —14 Here December 31

Temperature Rises to 6 Above New Years Day

The weatherman has held temperatures down to a bare minimum since Christmas day but, apparently a little mellowed by the spirit of the new year, promises a little relief from the well-below-zero readings of the past few days.

The mercury reached or topped the zero mark every day thus far this week and 1958 got off to a good start with a six-above reading for the high temperature of the period.

The low was reached Dec. 31 when a 14-below reading was registered here, which is still relatively mild considering the time of year. Precipitation amounted to only a trace, coming as very light snow early Jan. 1.

The forecast, as provided by KTRF, calls for fair skies and slightly warmer temperatures today and tonight. Cloudiness will increase tonight.

The high expected today is 12 above, the low tonight about five below. Light northerly winds will pervail.

The qualities of leadership are an important item in the minds of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. One of the basic drives of this young man's organization is to develop the desire and initiative in its members to assume a responsible role in the community.

To highlight this drive, the Jaycees annually honor a young man, between 21 and 36 years, for his outstanding contribution to the civic responsibilities of Thief River Falls.

Whether he be a Junior Chamber member or not, the Jaycees believe that a selfless attitude towards improving our community is a desirable and worthwhile trait for young men to possess.

This week the Thief River Falls Jaycees have launched a campaign to locate such a young man in this community. You are asked to help. If you know of a young man who has contributed in an outstanding way, you are asked to fill out a nomination blank (printed elsewhere in this issue of the Times) and send your candidate's name to the Jaycees, Box 53, Thief River Falls.

During Jaycee Week, (January 14, 21) a responsible member of our society will be selected to be awarded the distinguished service award for his contribution to his work or profession and his contribution to the general welfare of the people. This citation observing the good offices of the individual by his contemporaries, reflect the esteem in which we hold the Junior Chamber organization.

Andy Geer

A news report, out of California gave the information that Andy Geer, a one-time Crookston Pirate and Minnesota Gopher athlete, and later a Marine officer, had died in a hospital out there after a brief illness.

Geer was a stellar athlete with Crookston in the mid 1920's, spending his junior and senior years at Crookston with his sister, who was a teacher in the Crookston schools.

We can well remember Andy, and in particular the Crookston high school cheering section which had composed a cheer just for Andy. As we recall the yell it recited something like this: "High Gear, Low Gear, Any Gear, Andy Geer." We Prowlers thought that was pretty corny.

Following his graduation from Crookston, Andy enrolled at Minnesota, and he entered the sports picture at the Gopher school, being a member of Doc Spears varsity football squad, and winning the schools' light heavyweight boxing championship.

Andy had a fine war record, joining the Marine Corps at the outset of hostilities. Previous to the United States entry in World War II, Geer had been a member of the British forces.

Following his war service, Geer became a successful writer, some of his novels being carried as serials in magazines of nationwide circulation. Geer had his writing career interrupted by the Korean War, and in this fracas he commanded a batalion of Marines of the Second Division.

Beck to the Bombers

Loren (Sid) Vraa, the former Prowler who was instrumental in giving the M.S.T.C. Dragons a 10 to 9 win over the Concordia Cobbers in football last fall, booting a conversion point and a field goal, tells us that the Dragons' fine fullback, Bill Beck, has signed a pro contract with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Beck is the former Lancaster and Argyle athlete and who is remembered as being a member of the Argyle Maroons baseball team a couple of seasons ago. Beck played several games against the Thieves, being a hard-hitting—infielder—and doing a stint or two on the mound.

One for the Book

A group of local anglers made an ice-fishing trip to Crow lake in Ontario last week. Included in this group was Herb Dill, manager of the Mud Lake Refuge.

In the preliminary plans for the trip the proposition was offered to Dill that if he, Herb, would pay for the gasoline the other boys would pay the ferry toll charges at Baudette. To this Dill agreed.

Comes the payoff. The Rainy river at Baudette is frozen solid, and has been for several weeks, and the motorists have been and are driving across the river for free.

The boys, and Herb Dill, won't soon be forgetting those "toll charges". Incidentally, the fishing wasn't too good at the lake, but that was due to the fact that the party apparently didn't fish the "right" spots.

Jack's Sauger

Approximately two hundred anglers registered and paid their entry fee to participate in the "fishing derby" held at Warroad on Lake of the Woods last Sunday.

Late Sunday night we received a telephone call informing us that J. A. (Jack) Narverud won first prize money in the sauger division with a fish that weighed one pound four ounces. That catch was worth, we heard, thirty dollars; but when Jack was finished paying for the treats and the steak suppers, he was out about five dollars.

One of the boys in the back shop, who owns a cottage on Loon and McDonald lakes near Frazee, has been making belittling noises and disparaging remarks about this prize winning sauger. Not that this individual has any criticism of Jack and his skill in catching the sauger, but his complaint is that such a vast and highly-publicized lake as Lake of the Woods should produce a better fish than the one-pound four-ouncer. Well, we don't see this complaining individual bringing in any prize winning fish.

Death of Bemidji Man Makes State Traffic Toll 680

The death of a Bemidji man struck by a car Tuesday as he walked down a street at Bemidji brought 1957 traffic fatalities to 680. This is 31 more than the old mark set in 1936 and 40 more than the 1956 total.

Police said the victim, Clarence Lunde, 47, was hit by a car driven by Mrs. Leo Will, Bemidji. She told authorities she didn't see Lunde, who was walking down the middle of the street.

New Year Holiday Mishaps Lacking

Capt. Anderson Reports No Fatalities in Area

Capt. Walter Anderson, 8th district highway patrol chief in Thief River Falls, reported today that the New Year holiday was a safe and sane one as far as traffic on highways in the district was concerned.

Anderson said no fatalities occurred in the district over the mid-week holiday, and that generally, he was quite well satisfied with the performance of the driving public in the district.

With the passing of New Year's day the spot-checks conducted on highways in the district since Dec. 21 came to an end.

Anderson said the checks netted the usual number of drivers who drove while drinking and that a number of suspensions and revocations resulted, along with some complaints about being stopped often.

However, he credited the brief spot-checks with perhaps saving the lives of some drivers and passengers who may have tempted fate by drinking while driving and otherwise using poor judgment had not the checks been conducted.

Annual Meeting of State Safety Council Jan. 14

Two national awards will be presented to the state of Minnesota at the annual meeting of the Minnesota Safety council. For outstanding achievement in its driver education program in elementary and high schools, Minnesota will receive from the Association of Casualty and Surety companies its highest national "Award of Excellence" for the third consecutive year. The Farm Safety section of the council will receive a performance award from the National Safety council for Minnesota's efforts in reducing farm accidents.

Council president A. V. Rohweder, Duluth, has called the meeting for Tuesday, January 14, beginning with a luncheon at Hotel Saint Paul, in St. Paul. The annual meeting will bring together several hundred safety leaders of the state to hear the president's report, reports of various activies of the council, and to elect officers for 1958.

Presently serving with Mr. Rohweder as officers of the Minnesota council are George W. Lawson, St. Paul, and E. Ray Gory, Austin, vice president; Stafford King, St. Paul, treasurer; and Alfred W. Luecke, St. Paul, secretary.

The Goodwill Industries organization, providing jobs for handicapped and aged persons, was founded in Boston in 1900 by Rev. Edgar J. Helms, a Methodist minister.

Exports of manufactured merchandise from Puerto Rico totaled $429 million in 1956, a record year and the first year manufacturing income had exceeded income from agriculture.

Conservation Dept. Reviews 1957 Record

From the annual reports of 1957 achievements made by the divisions and bureaus of the Minnesota department of conservation to George A. Selke, commissioner, — the following items are representative of the outstanding progress for one year, says the commissioner.

Bureau of Information

The bureau has used various means to inform the public, such as The Conservation Volunteer sent to 32,000 people, schools, libraries and groups; a weekly newsletter sent to more than 500 newspapers, radio and TV stations; 300,000 pieces of literature distributed; 1,800 requests for conservation films; more than 10,000 high school students wrote Outdoor Recreation essays in the annual contests; and the continued radio programs beamed to schools by more than 125 transcriptions.

Bureau of Administration

Improved control and administration of department finances; records of 1,200 permanent and up to 500 seasonal employees; supervision of plant and equipment construction and maintenance; plans for the department offices in a new State Office Building for the future.

Division of Waters

Continuation of assembly of basic information about waters of the state; coordination of local and state solutions to water problems by the watershed method; progress on the steel sheet barrier at the outlet of Big Stone Lake; additional work on the inventory of names, areas and locations of all lakes over 10 acres in size.

Division of Lands and Minerals

During year July, 1956 to June 30, 1957 the iron royalty, permits and miscellaneous sales amounted to $4,381,324 and land payments and sales amount to $204,056, for a total of $4,585,380 from land and iron resources. These moneys were deposited in trust funds; school, $3,414,644; swamp, $647,734; University, $424,604; consolidated, $39,183; tax forfeited, $51,489 and miscellaneous, $4,726.

Division of State Parks

All types of use of the state parks showed an increase during the year; tourist camping, 100% over last year; organized youth camping, 44,067 camp days; eight parks conducted "learn to swim" programs, with 720 youngsters enrolled at one park; additional park buildings and facilities improved during the year; and Frontenac, Mille Lacs-Kathio, Cascade River, Temperance River, and Bois Brule are established as new parks or additions.

Division of Forestry

Receipts from the sales of timber from state lands, the highest on record, $1,209,748 to trust funds; 120 acres cleared and improved as additions to the three state tree nurseries; more than 3 and 3/4 million trees planted on state lands; a most dangerous fire season for some years, but the destruction held to 871 fires, 23,881 acres and $73,600 damages to resources; cooperative agreement with U.S. Forest Service for a watershed protection program and a new forestry program for the state.

Division of Game and Fish

With the close of 1957 the division of game and fish can look back over a year that has seen the reorganization of the bureau of game into 4 regions to provide greater local service; establishment of 3 field research stations; the total acreage of wetlands acquired top the 40,000 mark; the inception of a vigorous program of public access acquisition; the establishment of the Lac qui Parle game refuge and public hunting grounds (22,000 acres); the first grayling season in Minnesota; the rehabilitation of 8 cold water lakes for trout; winter rescue of over 1½ million game fish; completion of 32 lake and stream improvement projects; a strengthened firearms safety training program; establishment of fixed open dates for hunting seasons and a new fisheries research laboratory at St. Paul.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota
JIM KIMBALL
Director of Game & Fish

Did you ever stop to think how much of your time is spent solving problems? It seems we all devote most of the year to solving one problem or another. Why not devote the first week of the new year to analyzing these problems—decide which are the important ones and how to solve them efficiently.

In fish and game management most of our problems roll into one big problem—we lack knowledge. It may be considered the wrong approach but I would like to break from the accepted technique of trying to convince people how much we know and admit how much more we do not know.

Wildlife conservation is a state program which can progress only as the people will it. Let a few critics gloat over our admitted deficiencies. People know that necessity is the mother of invention, and if they see that deficient knowledge is impeding progress in conservation, they will help and they will insist on a program aimed at filling the gaps in our knowledge.

We have, for example, few reliable and economical methods of censusing either game or fish—we run our business without a reliable annual inventory. We do not have economical methods of removing undesirable fish from lakes. We know too little about the feeding habits of fish and the competition for food between species. Our knowledge of disease is very limited—raccoon die of distemper, muskrats die of unkown causes, rabies is largely uncontrolled in wildlife and we have a new deer disease in the country. Grouse rise and fall in 10 year cycles and we don't know why. There are but a few of the blanks in our knowledge.

Answers to these problems provide the greatest potential for more fish in the creel and more game in the bag. For example, after years of intensive research, a poison has been developed which will kill 95% of the sea lamprey larvae in streams without damage to fish—this may save our lake trout in the Great Lakes. Another poison is so selective it will kill one variety of sunfish without affecting its close relatives. We need poisons selective for carp and other overabundant species.

An example of what may be accomplished through greater knowledge of biological controls is the case of the screwfly in the South. By depositing eggs in cattle wounds which hatch and cause ugly, and sometimes fatal sores, this fly causes damages totalling millions of dollars a year to cattle growers in the United States.

The Island of Curaco, off the coast of South America, was chosen for an amazing experiment. This island had a long and costly history of screw fly infestations. A laboratory was built in Florida and millions of screw flies were propagated. The males were then subjected to irradiation which rendered them sterile without impairing their "masculine attraction" to the female screw flies, which mate but once. These ambitious but impotent males were then released by the millions each week over the Isle of Curaco. Result—infertile eggs and before long complete elimination of screw flies on the island. It is now just a matter of time until this pest will be eliminated in the South.

Experiments are underway to develop a carp poison. One interesting method is the coating of carbide pellets with fat. Carp, being bottom feeders, eat the pellets. When the fat is digested the carbide in the moist stomach produces ethylene gas which floats the carp to the surface, frequently even exploding them. Too bad the carbide doesn't produce helium gas—we might get the carp air borne.

Well, the purpose of this story is not to tell what mean tricks biologists play on screwflies and carp, but to illustrate what will be accomplished in wildlife management when we have greater knowledge.

Highway Patrol to Hold Series of Training Sessions

Six week-long sessions of the 1958 review school for the Minnesota highway patrol begin Monday, January 6, for the 330 officers in the state traffic enforcement agency.

One-sixth of the force will assemble each Monday at Camp Ripley, north of Little Falls, as part of the in-serve training program conducted by the patrol in maintaining the highest efficiency possible for its activities, Chief Paul R. Martz reported.

Under the direction of senior officers, the men will have a 40-hour course which will include accident investigation, traffic law, court procedures, registration, reciprocity and first aid.

A special subject will include films and discussion of precautions to be taken when high voltage wires are involved in traffic accidents.

Capt. Lawrence W. Nelson, St. Paul, plans and training officer for the patrol, will be in charge of the school. Sergeants Ralph Potvin, St. Paul; Bert Johnson, Willmar, and Walter Whitson, Brainerd, will assist with the instruction.

All patrol personnel will attend for one week each at the school which will end Feb. 15.

Editorials . . .

"Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his posterity, swear—never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country and never to tolerate their violence by others.—Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in schools, seminaries and in colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling books, and in almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. In short, let it become the political religion of the nation."

—Abraham Lincoln

Safety Valve Worked

The outstanding accomplishment of the year was the Federal Reserve Board's [illegible] on inflation. By its action the board has proven that inflation can be checked.

We know from experience with our slight recession that curbing inflation has its painful aspects. But we also know from actual past experience that uncurbed inflation results in a bust that is far more disastrous than the present recession.

The Federal Reserve Board is an independent agency of our government, neither Republican nor Democratic. It was made independent and free from political pressure because it was realized that there would be times when it would have to do unpopular things.

One of its responsibilities is to act like a safety valve on a boiler, to relieve pressure when pressure becomes dangerously high. By making it a little more difficult to get credit the inflation pressure has been reduced and, for the time being at least, we are out of danger.

As is to be expected, a few small-bore politicians will try to make political capital out of the fact that the nation's safety valve has accomplished its purpose. Tight money is never popular. But the critics will never be more than a noisy minority. The sane leadership in both parties will oppose any tinkering with the safety valve.

Unoccupied Farms

There are wide differences of opinion as to whether the Soil Bank program is good or bad. Most people will agree that it has some notable shortcomings, but many believe, too, that with a few changes it can be made workable.

In five counties in this area in 1957 it meant a cash crop of more than three million dollars, distributed largely in territory in which crop damage was heavy. Under the circumstances it was good for us this first year.

Following are the payments made to participating farmers in these five counties: Roseau, $878,070; Kittson, $671,765; Marshall, $888,848; Pennington, $106,940, and Red Lake, $404,000. These add up to a total of $3,810,027.

There will be considerably more participation in our area in 1958, encouraged by 1957 crop failures and prospects for a late start next spring because little fall plowing was possible. This increased participation may not be so good for the overall economy of the area.

In Roseau county, for instance, where there were 671 conservation reserve contracts in effect in 1957, there now are 358 additional applications on file. The county has about 2,200 farming units so this means that the cultivated acreage of the county will be drastically reduced. It is estimated that about 40 percent of those participating will include all of their cultivated acres, although many of these will live on their farms and continue with some livestock. Most of the contracts will run from three to five years.

The soil bank program has special appeal for aging farmers who are able to use it as a means of partial or complete retirement. Some younger farmers are using it to permit them to supplement their income by wages, and their absence from the community probably is temporary. But in this area we are confronted with the hard and disagreeable fact that our losses of farm population are becoming serious. It is obvious that we are carrying more than our fair share of the state and national crop reduction program and that in self defense we will be justified in setting up a regional counterattack.

It has been suggested that as one approach to this problem we should consider the fact that most of the land being soil-banked is on farms that are best suited for livestock production and on which the livestock operation has been greatly reduced or eliminated entirely. One shrewd observer has stated with considerable truth that one of the worst things that happened to this area was a good crop of seven-dollar flax.

We can't recall any year of failure for the butterfat crop and the records indicate that butterfat can be grown here at just as low a production cost as anywhere in the country. Some day cotton may be a good crop for this corner of the state but it isn't now, and in the meantime we probably should concentrate on the kind of production for which our area is best suited.

At any rate we shouldn't sit back and watch without concern this trend toward unoccupied farm buildings. We think all will agree that for the area as a whole we have too many empty barns, an enormous investment in production equipment that now is idle.

It is a problem that deserves a lot of consideration by those interested in the future of our community.

Paying Debts Too Fast

The season of greetings and good wishes has ended. That however, is not a good reason for discontinuing the greetings and good wishes. It still is possible to say Good Morning and make it sound just as cheerful as Happy New Year.

We will have to adjust ourselves to the sad fact of course that Santa Claus is not going to keep right on loading us down with gifts; durn it. There will be days during the new year when we will wonder if the best things in life really are free. One of those days will be the day we pay our taxes.

Our taxes are going to be higher mainly because, through our various public agencies, we are spending more money. Maybe some of these agencies are spending more than they should. Certainly the expenditures are becoming so great, and the resulting taxes so burdensome, that some questioning is justified.

One of the factors in public spending that has not been receiving the consideration it deserves is our ability to pay. Our local ability to pay is geared to the earnings of a farm economy that has not shared in the general prosperity.

A substantial part of our taxes are levied for the purpose of meeting our obligations of debt. Paying bills never was fun, but bills must be paid. Our public debt represents money we have already spent, and whether or not it was spent wisely no longer enters into the question of taxes.

Here in Thief River Falls, however, taxpayers might reasonably question the time factor in the amortization of our local debt. We think the officials who decide such things are asking us to pay these obligations too fast.

The city and the school district together owe about three million dollars, an obligation that falls largely upon the same group of taxpayers. All of this total obligation has been contracted within the last ten years. Most of it represents improvements that will provide service for the next fifty years.

Of this three million dollar obligation we are being asked to retire two million of the principal, plus interest, in the next ten years. Such a fast pay-off is not fair to the present taxpayers.

This fortunately is a burden that can be partially relieved if the city and school officials will deign to lower themselves to each others level for a joint study of the issues involved, in the interests of the taxpayers.

Maybe what we need most of all in the present situation is an old-fashioned taxpayers association to offset the demands of pressure groups that are clamoring constantly for increased spending. Or shall we keep right on living in the spirit of the season of Santa Claus?

THIS WEEK

—In Washington

With

Clinton Davidson

Nineteen hundred and fifty eight will be an exciting and unusual year. Government, business, labor and farm leaders all agree that is the outlook.

Uncertainty and change are the key words used by almost everyone we have talked with to get a forecast for the year ahead. There is more apprehension than at any time in the past 10 years.

State Department and Defense officials think the cold war will become considerably warmer. Neither Department, however, thinks that we will become engaged in a shooting war in 1958.

Russia will become increasingly belligerent and aggressive. Khrushchev will step up the tempo of his war of nerves, not only against the U. S. but also against both neutrals and our friends.

Russia will try to find out just how much trouble-making around the world, especially in the Southwest Pacific and the Near East, we'll put up with without going to war. We may be forced to issue an ultimatum sometime during the year.

Congress will give major attention to a build-up in our military strength, and especially in missile development. But, we probably won't catch up with Russia in 1958.

Business leaders expect a "sinking spell" in building, industrial output and employment during 1958. The dollar volume of business is expected to be down by about 6% from 1957, but still larger than for any year prior to 1956.

The consensus we get from business forecasters is that there may be a rather sharp business slump during the first half of the year, followed by considerable recovery starting next fall. Price reductions, however, will be few and small.

Predictions that unemployment will reach 4.5 million by February or March—about double late 1957 figures—are the biggest worry of labor leaders. They talk of postponing wage increase demands until later in the year.

Labor, too, will continue to have "family troubles." Expulsion of the big Teamsters' Union and others on strong evidence of racketeering and leadership corruption may lead to widespread and serious labor troubles that would delay business recovery.

Farm leaders expect no let-up in the surplus and cost-price squeeze problems during 1958. While prices received remain about the same, prices paid by farmers have reached a new all-time record high in each of the past four months.

Congress, farm leaders and Agriculture Secretary Benson are set to renew the farm program free-for-all battle when the legislators return to Washington next week. No one here expects that any helpful new farm legislation will be passed in 1958.

Often confusing and sometimes obscuring all other issues will be the constant Washington drumbeat of politics, for 1958 also is a congressional election year. Party politics is never far from the thought of Washington.

And with that, here's wishing you a Happy New Year.

Company pension funds, which totaled $13.3 billion in 1951, grew to $28.9 billion at the beginning of 1957 and are increasing at the rate of about $4 billion annually.

When he stops being cute

This is his very first New Year. He's celebrating it in his own talented fashion, just being cute.

Last year thousands of boys and girls were arrested as juvenile delinquents. They had all been cute—once!

But did they have the priceless example of active Christian parents? Were they given moral and spiritual training in the Church? Did they grow up in a Christian atmosphere?

This young fellow can't be absolutely sure that the New Year is worth celebrating. His future is in the hands of his parents. But he's smiling because of his confidence in them.

During this New Year their faith in God, and the sincerity of their relationship with the Church will begin to determine just what their son is going to be when he stops being cute.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Secretary Explains How Christmas Seal Funds Are Employed

Christmas Seal funds are at work each year in Pennington County financing tuberculin testing of pupils, teachers and all other school personnel in both rural and town schools, according to a New Year's summary by Mrs. Earl D. Jensen, Thief River Falls, secretary of the Pennington County Tuberculosis and Health association.

Most recent testing has been at St. Hilaire, Goodridge and in the rural schools where Dr. L. H. Flancher, medical director of Sunnyrest sanatorium, gave the tuberculin skin test to 354 pupils and teachers this fall. In addition, he tested 98 residents of nursing and rest homes in Thief River Falls in December. Miss Margaret Race, schools nurse, made the arrangements for testing of the school population.

Approximately $800 was paid by the county TB association to the clinic and hospital at Thief River Falls for follow-up chest x-rays. The association also paid $57.50 to Sunnyrest sanatorium for x-rays of tuberculin reactors.

"One of the most effective ways of preventing tuberculosis is to check our children for possible TB infection," Mrs. Jensen reports as she reminds local residents that Christmas Seal funds are now needed for the 1958 tuberculosis control programs.

"The tuberculin test allows whether or not a person has come in close enough contact with an active TB case to become infected with the germs," states Mrs. Jensen. "When a school child has been infected, we know that child must be watched carefully for the rest of his life to make sure he does not break down with active disease. We know, too, that someone with whom that child has associated, is spreading germs of tuberculosis.

"Therefore, a newly found tuberculin reactor among school pupils is a signal that we must look in the community for the man or woman who has untesting, them, can help safeguard

TRF Power Plant Output Increased 8 Per Cent in 1957

Plant Produced 17,952,400 Kilowatts Compared to 16,601,800 Kw. in 1956

The Thief River Falls municipal power plant in 1957 handled a total of 17,952,400 kilowatts of electricity, compared to 16,601,800 kw in 1956. The increase of 1,350,600 kkw., or 8.13 per cent, compares favorably with those of former years, it was reported by Morris Owen, chief engineer.

The 1957 output, Owen added, included 1,138,600 kkw. of bureau of reclamation power supplied since the local hookup was established November 30.

The two water turbines also get a good workout during the past year, supplying a total of 3,018,100 kw, or about 15 per cent of the aggregate output.

The 2,800-horsepower Nordberg diesel unit, operating 5,201 hours, supplied 6,867,000 kwh in 1957, while the 1,920 horsepower Fairbanks Morse unit, in operation 4,615 hours, furnished 4,457,600 kw, and the 1,600-horsepower unit, operated 3,114 hours, produced 2,423,600 kw. The old Busch-Sulzer unit produced only 27,500 kw.

181 Local Firms Asked for Data

Dun & Bradstreet Ask Financial Statements

The mail this week will bring to some 181 business concerns in Thief River Falls the annual request for financial statements from Dun & Bradstreet. And a familiar piece of mail it will be, too because these requests for financial data have been a yearly practice of the country-wide mercantile agency since some time in the 1870s.

W. F. Boese, district manager of the St. Paul office, indicated that the St. Paul branch has sent a total of 50,000 requests to retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers in Pennington County and 166 other counties comprising its district.

As one phase in reviving credit ratings and keeping them up-to-date, every year the credit reporting agency writes to all businesses who are listed in the Reference book to request their year-end balance sheets. Mr. Boese says that this letter speeds up the flow and processing of some of the facts on which credit ratings are based. "More than 95 per cent of all commercial transactions in the U. S. are made on credit terms," he added. "The purpose of the Reference Book is to help businessmen in any part of the country make credit decisions to ship or sell to businessmen in any other part of the country."

Insurance on Crops Pays Big Claims in Area

Over $500,000 Paid in N.W. Counties During Past Season

Valley farmers carrying federal crop insurance on wheat and flax were paid more than one-half million dollars in 1957, Ralph Childs, state director, of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation reported today.

Childs stated that more than $125,000 has been paid to wheat policyholders and in excess of $400,000 to flax policyholders in the 11 valley counties in Minnesota where federal crop insurance is now offered.

He said much of the wheat crop and most of the flax crop in the valley was of poor quality in 1957. Wet weather at harvest time was the principal cause of loss on wheat and plant disease, particularly aster yellows, the primary cause of loss on flax.

According to Childs, many fields which appeared to have good stands during the growing season had little value at harvest time and many fields were not worth combining because of moisture damage during the late fall. He explained that loss from any unavoidable cause is covered under a federal crop insurance policy and that where poor quality grain is produced the best market price obtainable is used in settlement of the insurance claim.

In 1957 many fields producing 15-20 bushels of flax per acre were of such poor quality that the production could not be made to meet CCC loan requirements for No. 2 flax. Claims were paid in many such cases, said Childs.

All-risk crop insurance covering wheat and flax is offered in Becker, Clay, Kittson, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Polk and Wilkin counties. Insurance on flax is offered in Pennington and Roseau Counties and on wheat in West Ottertail county. Barley is also insured in Kittson and Polk counties. The program is designed to protect the production costs in raising a crop and is handled through local agents located in each county seat town. Practically every policyholder in Pennington county received an indemnity on their flax insurance contract in 1957.

A total of 153 deaths occurred in Pennington county in 1957 thru December 26, compared to 162 for the entire year in 1956, it was announced Friday by Henry Storhaug, clerk of court.

Births recorded up to December 13 aggregated 378 for 1957, indicating that the full year would outstrip the 1956 total of 380.

Marriage licenses issued in 1957 numbered 96, or nine less than the total of 105 reported for 1956. Nine divorces were granted to county residents in 1957, while for 1956 the total was seven.

Postal Receipts Exceed $100,000 in TRF for 1957

Mental Health Center Plans Going Forward

Norman Peterson of TRF Named Vice Chairman of Board

The board of directors of the Northwest Mental Health Center, now in process of organization, elected officers for 1958 at a meeting in Crookston Friday evening.

Emil Bagley of Crookston, who had served as acting head of the board, was elected chairman, with Norman Peterson of Thief River Falls as vice chairman, and Rev. Raymond Heglin of Crookston, secretary. The matter of selecting a location for the center was deferred to the next meeting February 18.

At Friday's session, the board voted to accept the application of Kittson county for participation in the center, making a total of eight counties in Northwestern Minnesota. Each county will contribute to the support of the center on a population basis.

The state has also made a grant of $24,000 to the center, and the board Friday made application for an allotment for the first quarter. July 1, 1958, has been set as the target date for getting the center into operation.

Two applications for the two principal posts of psychiatrists and clinical psychologist were reviewed, and were referred for further study to a committee including Emil Bagley, Dr. Clifford Stadem, Twin Valley; Warren Saetre, Warren; and Dr. Wykoff, Crookston. Action to fill the positions may be taken at the February 18 meeting, when also it is planned to arrange for equipment needed for the center.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA contact representative at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—I want to ask VA to deduct my GI insurance premiums from my disability compensation payments. Where do I send my requests—to the VA regional office that handles my compensation or the VA district office that handles my insurance?

A—Send your request to the VA regional office handling your compensation.

Q—I understand that in order to change my course under the Korean GI Bill, my school must certify that my conduct and progress have been satisfactory. I was absent from class much more often than I should have been. Would that stand in the way of my school certifying satisfactory conduct and progress?

A—An unsatisfactory attendance record could result in a denial of further GI training benefits, unless you can show that your record was due to reasons beyond your control.

Q—If I can get a release from liability, I plan to let the buyer of my house take over my GI loan. Is there any cost involved in getting this release?

A—Either you or the prospective buyer must pay the cost of a credit report on the buyer. Also, either of you must pay the cost of recording the assumption agreement and release, if recording is necessary.

Q—I was discharged from the Armed Forces with a 20 percent disability, and received a lump-sum disability severance payment. Will that payment have any effect on VA disability compensation, if VA approves my claim?

A—Yes. If VA grants you compensation, it will withhold your payments until the amount recovered equals the amount of severance pay you received. After that, VA will send you your regular compensation checks each month.

Shootin' the Breeze BY Mack Draper

Another new year . . . another year gone. You know, 1957 wasn't such a bad year in some respects. It treated some of us downright nice, others it gave a slap in the face.

We Americans found we don't have a monopoly on brains when Sputnik and Mutnik were orbited by the Russians—but, on the other hand they may have done us a big favor by telling us.

Midst all the furore resulting from our discovery that we are somewhat behind in science developments, this small fact stands all alone: we can profit from past mistakes and be better off for them, if we don't get lost somewhere in a congressional investigation in the meantime.

Re Norm Holen's remark concerning people's sleeping like babies not having one; the first two months are the hardest, Norm—after that, no sweat! Our boy does sleep like a baby—all night.

The weather in Minnesota—at least in the northwest corner—seems to be cooperating with the state centennial committee in their claim that our climate is one of the most healthful and invigorating in the country.

While temperatures have fallen somewhat from December's, it still hasn't been too bad. We could have a short winter!

Huck Olson loaned us a good article on scattergun shooting the other day. The title, "You Can't Buy Skill" is most appropriate, too. Nowadays though, Huck, shotgun ammo is so expensive one can hardly afford to buy enough shells to acquire skill, either.

After last hunting season it would appear that one will never have sufficient shooting at game birds to acquire any amount of skill.

We'll just have to spend more time on the clay pigeon farm if we're to improve our aim despite the expense.

Our local flying club has finally found a pipeline of movie film on flying subjects. Piper Aircraft Corporation has a list of films available and the club will be viewing these starting in February.

You don't have to belong to the club to enjoy these films. Anyone interested — businessmen, farmers, whoever you are, come on down to the city Auditorium the second Wednesday of each month and learn something about this flying game!

We've an idea the best way to take some of the pressure off the taxpayer is to dissolve some of the pressure groups who want to spend ever more of the taxpayers' money.

Freezing Rain on Sunday Creates Traffic Hazard

Mercury Hits 33 above Here Sunday; Slump to 5-15 Below Is Forecast

Northwest Minnesota residents had their respite from below-zero temperatures this past weekend. But, you can't have your cake and eat it too. Much colder temperatures are coming today!

Trouble was, the mild temperatures of Saturday and Sunday resulted from a warm front moving through the area. The disturbance brought sleet, freezing rain and approximately two inches of wet, sticky snow, all of which fell within a few hours late Sunday. A fall of six inches of snow in four hours was reported in Duluth last night.

The conglomerate precipitation made driving conditions hazardous over a wide area and all motorists are urged to take it easy.

A 44-degree spread between the high and low temperatures from Thursday through this morning was recorded by KTRF. The low today was 0.

Old Mill Is Restored for State Centenary

Dedication of the restored Old Mill located midway between Newfolden and Argyle will be held, Sunday, June 1, according to action taken by directors of the Marshall County Statehood Centennial committee at Viking Friday, Dec. 27. Other actions of the group involved the ox cart trek and selling of souvenir booklets and bags of flour.

Andrew Strandquist, chairman of the Old Mill State Park advisory committee, Mrs. Oscar Peterson of Warren and Park Superintendent Ernie Jewell were named to a committee to arrange for a program for the dedication of the restored Old Mill.

Jewell reported the Old Mill is nearly ready for operation and he was given approval to go ahead and secure the necessary rye to grind with which the souvenir flour bags will be filled.

Another project announced which will be used to raise money to finance Delmar Hagen's ox cart trek. Neil Mattson reported he is assembling material to write a brief but authentic booklet on the history of the Red River Trails and the origins of the Red River cart. This booklet will also be sold during the trek as a means of financing.

After consulting the committee and airing his ideas, it was decided to start the ox cart trek from Pembina possibly about July 10. Hagen would arrive at the Marshall county fair and his departure from the fairgrounds in Warren on July 20 would be the real start of his trip. The start at Pembina will be made to conform to history as close as possible.

Selection of the route was made made with the trek to follow as close as possible what is generally known as the East Plains route. This route follows the ridge from Pembina through Marshall county near Viking, crosses the Red Lake river at Huot and goes in the general direction of Fertile, Fergus Falls, Alexandria, Sauk Centre, St. Cloud and St. Paul. Selection of the actual route is pending awaiting the receipt of maps from the various counties showing the historic path of the trail.

Parachutes would be useless on the moon, because it has no atmosphere.

known, contagious TB. School our children and can help weed out tuberculosis in the entire community."

"The search for hidden tuberculosis is a major part of the TB control problem," Mrs. Jensen says, "but research — studies to learn more about the disease and new and better ways of treating tuberculosis — is equally important." Last year, $200 in county Christmas Seal funds was appropriated to the H. Longstreet Taylor Research foundation at the University of Minnesota.

"Most important work of the Christmas Seal organization is health education," Mrs. Jensen says. "It is only when people know the facts that they can act intelligently to safeguard themselves and their families against tuberculosis."

"It is not too late to send in your Christmas Seal contributions," Mrs. Jensen concludes her statement. "Tuberculosis is everybody's danger and everybody's fight. We are helping to win that fight when we buy and use Christmas Seals."

Beef Feeding

Feed additives — particularly stilbestrol and terramycin — are a boon to beef cattle raising in Minnesota.

You can get 25 percent increases in beef gains from these two materials and the cost is about 1½ cents per animal per day to add them to the feed.

That's one of the major findings in recent beef feeding experiments at the University of Minnesota. O. E. Kolari and A. L. Harvey, University livestock scientists, summarize recent Minnesota research with feed additives this way:

Stilbestrol alone, fed at 10 milligrams per animal per day, boosts gains in steers by about 15 percent, compared to animals receiving no stilbestrol. It also reduces the amount of feed needed for each 100 pounds of gain. Implanting stilbestrol at 24-28 milligrams produces similar results as far as gain is concerned.

Heifers will also make better gains and require less feed per pound of gain with stilbestrol fed or implanted, but normally, you can expect a somewhat smaller increase than you'd get with steers.

Steers fed terramycin alone, at 80 milligrams per head daily, gain about 13 percent faster than terramycin and stilbestrol in steers getting no terramycin, and combination result in an increase of about 25 percent. The combination also results in greater feed efficiency than either additive fed alone.

Heifers will also make gains and require less feed per pound of gain with stilbestrol fed or implanted, but normally, you can expect a somewhat smaller increase than you'd get with steers.

Steers fed terramycin alone, at 80 milligrams per head daily, gain about 13 percent faster than steers getting no terramycin, and terramycin and stilbestrol in combination result in an increase of about 25 percent. The combination also results in greater feed efficiency than either additive fed alone.

Heifers gain about 5 percent faster with terramycin alone and the two additives together increase gains in heifers by about 14 percent.

The stilbestrol-terramycin studies have been conducted during only one year of feeding trials so far at Minnesota; but research shows the combination appears to be a good one for Minnesota cattle feeders to use.

Both materials can be mixed in the feed supplement by the feed dealer and both are available in most areas. Cost runs about 1.75 cents per animal per day for the combination.

Income Tax

While there are important changes in income tax regulations this year as far as farmers are concerned, there are still some major points to keep in mind.

Anyone who had $600 or more gross income during the year needs to file a return. This applies to minors, too. Filing deadline this year is February 15, unless you file a declaration estimated tax by January 15. In that case, April 15 is the deadline for the final return.

One thing to watch, is to be sure you don't county CCC loans as income twice. This could happen, if they are entered as income in one year when the money is borrowed and next year when the crop is old or delivered.

There are two ways of handling CCC loans in your record:

First, you can treat them as income when you receive the loan. This can be entered as a crop sale. If you plan to feed the crop to livestock or sell it on the open market, show the loan repayment as a feed purchase. Then when the crop is sold on the open market it is entered as a crop sale.

Second, the loan can be entered as money borrowed when loan papers are received. Then when the crop is delivered the following year, enter it as a crop sale. If the crop is used for livestock or is sold on the open market, show the loan repayment as debts paid. If sold on the open market, it's a crop sale.

Here are some other tax pointers to keep in mind:

* Check your records to make sure you get all your allowable deductions — farm magazines, overnight business trips, bank service fees, organization memberships.

* Get a tax advisor's help, if possible. He can help you avoid paying excessive taxes and still make sure you meet all regulations. A tax guide is available at the extension office.

A MATTER OF PRIDE

By F. L. Rowley

MRS. EMILY TRISWELL had been graduated from Glenbard College in New Hampshire. Now you might expect a fact of this nature to be overlooked in a thriving midwestern community such as Hillcrest—until you've met Mrs. Emily Triswell. Not that she specializes in blowing her own horn; she delights rather in giving it an occasional toot.

The PTA, the various women's clubs, and on one occasion even the SPCA, had been subjected to windy lectures by 'our distinguished guest, graduate of Glenbard College — that's in New Hampshire, you know.'

I'd been enjoying all this for years, mainly because I'd been able to dodge most of Emily's delightful meetings. Who—me? I'm George Triswell. Our family is rounded out by daughter Anna. One day Anna started things by announcing:

"Mama, I'm going to Glenbard College. I want to be just like you."

"Why?" I asked.

"She should be proud to have a brainy daughter," I said stoutly. Then I got an idea; if Anna were to break Emily's record I might have less crowing to listen to—so I said: "Tell you what, Anna. Let's write to Glenbard on the sly; at least we can find out what a fancy school like that charges these days."

Anna was all for it. Emily was guest speaker at one of her endless meetings after supper, so Anna and I had a good chance to send a letter off to Glenbard. Anna was as nervous as a kitten until Saturday morning. Then the bomb burst!

Emily was on the porch gathering in the mail. Suddenly there was a snort like the noon whistle at the rubber works. Emily charged into the living room, her lips quivering.

"Who wrote this letter to Glenbard?" she challenged.

I looked guiltily at the letter. Across the face of it were the purple words: NO SUCH OFFICE IN STATE NAMED. "We just wanted to find out what the rates are," I said timidly. "Funny it wasn't delivered."

Well, I never did see Emily in such a dither. As far as I could reason there hadn't been much harm done; the thing hadn't even been delivered.

"Gosh, don't take it so hard, honey. Your mother will get over it. After all, Glenbard didn't even get the letter."

"That's just it," sobbed Anna. "All we've done is ruin mother's big, beautiful dream. There isn't—there never was—a Glenbard College."

Suddenly I realized how much Glenbard had meant to Emily. And we had taken it away from her.

Anna started toward the kitchen. I caught her arm. "Don't say anything yet. We still have a chance. Let's go see Bill Phelps, the printer. He has a sister in New Hampshire. Maybe Bill could help us compose a letter—?"

Three days later Emily bounced into the living room bursting with happiness. Proudly she thrust a letter under my nose. The last paragraph read:

'—since I'm a relatively new member of the faculty I regret to say that I don't recall a Miss Emily Triswell. As for your daughter's joining us as she requests; please explain to her that it's a physical impossibility. Our waiting list is much too long now.'

Cordially,
Miss Beverly Parker

The printed letter-head read: Glenbard College, Briar Gate, New Hampshire. Oddly enough, Bill Phelps' sister lives in Briar Gate. One thing I like about Bill though—he ain't the talkative kind.

And Emily? Sometimes she takes the letter out of her purse and stares at it, then hard at me and Anna. She asks no questions though. With her I guess you might say it's a matter of pride.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Grace Arterbern, Webb City, Missouri: I remember I always walked two miles to our one-room country school with about 80 scholars and one teacher who taught all classes . . . and we learned our lessons.

We girls had two new calicos in fall which we wore week about. We had spelling and ciphering matches some Friday afternoons and others came from neighboring schools.

In the late nineties kids wore campaign caps with printed names, gold for McKinley or silver for Bryan. Also campaign lapel pins and to this day I still have a badge bearing a picture of McKinley and a lapel pin with the picture of Teddy Roosevelt . . . and the old double deck dinner pail with the motto of a "full dinner pail."

We had double seats at our school, but sometimes there were three pupils to a seat. All were contented with the little things of life.

Lincoln Quintet Edges Ada 46-45

Lynn Nicholson's jump shot from the lane with thirty seconds of play remaining and Ada leading the Prowlers by a 45 to 44 score, swished into the west basket and gave coach Al Adams' gritty squad a 46 to 45 win over the Vikings in an inter-district basketball game played here Saturday night.

The Prowlers will continue in inter-district play on Tuesday night, and against district thirty competition when they meet the Halstad Pirates on the local floor. On Friday Jan. 10th, the Prowlers will meet the Bagley Flyers at Bagley, and on Saturday night, Jan. 11th, the powerful Fosston Greyhounds will play the Prowlers on the local court.

It was a reshuffled lineup that took the floor for the Prowlers against Ada on Saturday night. Center Dave Hanson, due to a violation of the Minnesota State High School rules, is lost to the Prowlers for the season; and guard Jim Benned was out of action because of an attack of the flu.

The game was a thriller from start to the cliff-hanging finish, with both teams showing remarkable rallying powers.

In the first period, Ada sped away to an 8 to 2 lead, only to have the Prowlers, with Phil Hanson hitting on some long tries, overcome that deficit to gain a 13 to 11 advantage.

And opening the second period, the locals moved away to a commanding 21 to 11 lead, but an Ada field goal and six straight free throws (capitalizing on their bonus tries) pared that lead to 21 to 19. The two teams played near-even ball to leave the game in a 24-all tie at the intermission. Ken Weber's goal in the final seconds of the period giving the Vikings their tying points.

With the two teams rocketing along in rugged fashion the Prowlers held a 42 to 37 lead with 4:02 to play, but at that point they lost their center, Ken DeLap, via the personal foul route. Weber added an Ada free throw, and Jim Ellingson tallied a field goal and a free throw, to narrow the margin to a point. Mickey Hanson, who proved to be the Prowlers' sharpshooter throughout the game, hit with a field goal. Weber pumped in a long shot, and when Ellingson, with 1:32 to play, sifted in to score from close in, the Vikings held a one-point lead, setting the stage for Nicholson's game-winning basket.

TRF Thieves Whip Fargo Flyers 10-1 at Arena Sunday

Superior Passing by Thieves Gives Locals 5-1 Lead in 1st Period

The senior hockey Thieves won their third successive Northwest hockey league game on Sunday afternoon when they defeated a young and inexperienced Fargo Flyers sextet, 10 to 1, on the Arena rink.

The Thieves, flashing a superior passing attack, opened a 5 to 1 lead in the first period of play. Art Cloutier opened the scoring at the 4:47 mark of the first stanza, and Glenn Carlson, Micke McMahon, Mouse Efteland, and Sid Vraa followed with goals to give the locals their commanding lead. Ron Kristofitz, the Fargo center, spoiled goalie Rod Blodgett's hopes for a shutout when he beat the former Minneapolis Roosevelt goalie with a hard drive at the 12:28 mark.

Goals by Vraa and Durgin increased the Thieves' lead to 7 to 1 in the second period, and in the final period, Durgin, Carlson, and Al Steenerson dented the laces with goals.

Fargo's goalie, Don Williams, played a creditable game for the Flyers, with the nimble netminder kicking out forty-one on-goal shots.

Barley Ailments Topic at Grygla

'U' Extension Specialist to Speak Next Thursday

To discuss plant diseases and the new work being done, Herb Johnson, extension plant pathologist, will conduct a meeting at Grygla, Thursday, January 9 at 2:00 p.m. in the soil conservation district office.

Barley has long been one of the major crops of Marshall county, but the past years have not been kind to this old standby, said William Henderson, county agent.

Stunting and excessive stooling, poor yields, unfilled heads, sterile and underdeveloped kernels are the result of diseases of barley. Some of these can be controlled, others will be controlled when resistant varieties are developed.

Big Prizes Given in Sewing Contest

Singer Company Sponsor of Event Starting Jan. 2

The New Year heralded the start of the third annual Singer Sew-Off, and the beginning of a new era in competitive sewing, according to Charles F. Bruder, vice-president of the Singer Sewing Machine company. More than $125,000 in prize awards will be distributed in this contest, and, with the new rules in the contest, it will be possible for one woman to win as much as $30,000 cash, plus merchandise valued at about $500.

Registration for the special contest sewing courses conducted through local Singer Sewing Centers began on January 2, and runs through the middle of April. The Sew-Off, to be held in New York, will take place after regional judgings are completed.

The 1958 Sew-Off will feature 35 Sew-Off participants, two more than the 1957 Sew-Off. There will be five top prizes, which are: first prize, $25,000; second prize, $10,000; third prize, $5,000; fourth prize, $2,500, and fifth prize, $1,500. The remaining thirty winners will receive $250 each.

Extra prizes will be offered by the addition of the Young Homemaker Division, as an added inducement for women aged 18 through 25. These women may win both a grand prize and a National Young Homemaker prize.

The $125,000 Singer Sew-Off competition is open to women over 18. Women registering in any of the company's more than 1,700 sewing centers for the Singer Course in Home Dressmaking and completing a dress by mid-spring are eligible. Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Young Scoring Leader

Art Stratton, the young Winnipeg Warriors' hockey player who, several years ago, played with the Warroad Lakers in the Northwest league, is currently leading the individual scoring race in the prairie division of the professional Western Canada hockey league. Art moved into the scoring lead this past week.

Senior hockey fans will recall that Art Stratton played center on the junior line that performed so capably for the Lakers during the 1954-55 season. As line-mates Art had brother Gordy at left wing and Joe Cyr at right wing. That line played with a junior hockey club in Winnipeg that season, too.

The other week we had an interesting conversation with Jack Perrin, the owner of the Warriors, and he expressed himself as being highly pleased with the play of young Stratton. It's not beyond the realm of possibility that Art Stratton will move up into the National hockey league in a couple of years. While he isn't a spectacular performer on the ice, he is a "solid" hockey player and a fine team man.

"If and when Art Stratton makes the "big league" in hockey, fans in this area will be able to say that they "knew him when."

Yackel with the Regals

Ken Yackel, the former Minnesota hockey and football star, and later a coach at Edina-Morningside, has decided to give pro hockey a whirl. Ken has joined the Saskatoon-St. Paul Regals of the Western Canada hockey league.

Yackel's presence in the Regals' lineup should bolster that team's attack. Ken is playing at a wing. And, too, the fact that Yackel is in the lineup should be an attraction to the fans, particularly in the games that are played in St. Paul. He's a crowd pleaser.

Destination Unknown

Al (Eighteen Points) Holzknecht left town, hurriedly, on Thursday morning, the day after New Year's and the day after the Rose Bowl game, in which Ohio State was extremely fortunate in posting a 10 to 7 win.

According to the rumors, Al intends to by-pass the state of Ohio by plenty. Oh yes, he didn't leave any forwarding address.

Incidental Information

Auburn university, which produced one of the nation's top-ranked football teams this past season, is the familiar name for Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and it is located at Auburn, Ala. As of last year, Auburn had an enrollment of 8,687 students.

And the University of Alabama, with an enrollment of 8,485 students, is located at University, Alabama, a small station near Tuscaloosa, Ala.

What This?

What's this we hear about one of the Thieves' official referees, one Dennis (Spanky) Sullivan in particular, being several minutes late for the second period of play at Grand Forks on Friday night.

And where was Spanky when Frenchy LaCrosse whistled the puck into play to start the second period. Spanky was at the lunch counter having a couple of hot dogs and coffee, and engaging in social conversation. We realize that Spanky has to follow his diet, and that he is entitled to between-meal lunches, but these lunches shouldn't be taken between periods of a hockey game.

Goalie Jack McGill expressed himself as being bitterly disappointed in Spanky's lack of interest in hockey officiating. Spanky, according to Jack, has the personality to be a first-rate referee, but hes' somewhat worried about Spanky's appetite. These between period lunches can become a problem.

Goodridge PTA to Meet Wednesday

The Goodridge PTA unit will meet Wednesday evening, January 8, at 8 o'clock. A program will be presented, and lunch will be served by the parents of fifth grade pupils. The public is invited to attend.

Thieves Six Takes G. Forks Jets 9-1

Coach Paul Bedard's senior hockey Thieves, flashing fine passing by their three forward lines, and with goalie Jack McGill performing in his capable fashion in the nets, defeated a young and inexperienced Grand Forks Jets team, 9 to 1, in a Northwest hockey league game played at Grand Forks on Friday night.

Next Sunday, Jan. 12th, in an afternoon game, the Thieves will play the Crookston pirates at Crookston. Face-off time is at 2:30 p.m.

Friday night's tilt at Grand Forks found the Thieves gaining a 2 to 0 first period lead on goals by Glenn Carlson and Gordy Bjerken.

After Grand Forks' Ron Geatz had scored for the Jets at 1:05 of the second period, the Thieves shoved six goals past goalie Bob Kennelly to take decisive 8 to 1 lead. Jimmy Reese closed out the game's scoring with a Thieves' goal at 16:18 of the third period.

Revenue Service to Advocate Self-help Plan to File Returns

The internal revenue service during the 1958 income tax filing season will again stress self-help as its basic theme of taxpayer assistance, district director A. R. Knox of the St. Paul office announced today.

"The self-help program has now been in effect about three years," Mr. Knox said, "and we believe that more and more taxpayers are becoming familiar with the requirements for sound preparation of federal income tax returns. Essentially self-help means that taxpayers complete as much of their returns as possible before asking help from us. Most taxpayers can do the whole job after a careful reading of the form itself and its accompanying instruction booklet.

"We are still going to provide help to those who actually need it and we shall again stress our telephone assistance program, which will enable taxpayers with a problem or two to call us up for a quick answer designed to enable them to complete preparations of their returns. Office assistance will be available where required but will naturally entail considerably more of the taxpayer's time.

"The most important thing to the taxpayer in preparing a return or in seeking telephone or office assistance is to have all of his 1957 financial records in hand and to have all the necessary facts in mind. And again, let me remind taxpayers that it will be much easier to prepare a return or to obtain any help needed now, early in the filing period, rather than waiting until the late stages of the season when telephone lines are jammed and offices are crowded."

Knox urged that taxpayers needing help on specific problems contact Internal Revenue offices by telephone and ask for "Income Tax Information."

"Those who do not believe they can obtain adequate aid over the telephone may, of course, make a personal call at our offices," Mr. Knox said.

Personal calls and telephone calls may be made at the area office in Crookston Fridays from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

St. Paul Carnival Offers Tickets to 'Queen for a Day'

Popular TV Show to Be Broadcast from St. Paul During Week of Jan. 27

Free tickets for the "Queen for a Day" network radio and television show, which will appear in St. Paul during the annual Winter Carnival, are now available to the public.

The popular day-time program will salute Minnesota's 100th birthday and the Winter Carnival in the St. Paul auditorium theater from Monday through Friday, January 27 through 31. The Statehood Centennial Commission is joining with Saintpaulites, Inc., festival sponsor, in bringing "Queen for a Day" and its master of ceremonies, Jack Bailey, to St. Paul.

Tickets are available by writing St. Paul Winter Carnival, 356 Cedar Street, St. Paul 1, specifying date preferred. A second day choice should also be given. Telephone or telegraph requests will not be honored. The tickets will be distributed on a "first come, first served" basis. They will be non-transferable, and will be limited to four per person. Requests must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Children under 12 will not be admitted.

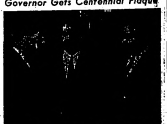
Contestants for "Queen for a Day" title will be picked each day from the auditorium theatre audience.

Don Smith, Winter Carnival general chairman, said the show will be televised to an audience of more than eight million persons over more than 150 NBC television stations. It will be aired locally by KSTP-TV from 3 p. m. to 3:45 p. m. Visitors must be in their seats by 2 p.m. each day.

"Queen for a Day" is television's most popular day-time show. It has been a radio attraction for 12 years and still is carried by more than 350 Mutual Broadcasting stations. Its appearance in St. Paul will mark the first time it has originated from any spot outside of Hollywood since it became a network TV show 18 months ago.

More than $5,000 in prizes will be given away each day that the show is in St. Paul. In addition, elaborate vacation trips will be awarded daily.

Governor Gets Centennial Plaque



Bronze plaques of the Minnesota Centennial emblem are presented by Warden Douglas Rigg (center) of Stillwater Prison to Governor Orville L. Freeman and State Representative Peter S. Popovich of St. Paul (right) on the first day of Minnesota's 100th statehood anniversary year. Representative Popovich is chairman of the Centennial Commission. Prison inmates hand tooled the heavy metal emblem dies for casting. They are mounted on Minnesota walnut wood.

Americans Enjoy Improved Diets

Abundant Supplies Help Improve Eating Habits

Americans are eating more wisely.

Better knowledge of what constitutes a good diet and how to "balance" meals has gone hand-in-hand with abundant food supplies in helping American women to improve their families' eating habits.

Periodic dietary surveys of various population groups have shown that considerable improvement in family diets has taken place in this county in the past few decades. In the 1930's a third of the families surveyed had poor diets. By 1955 diets had improved to the point that only a tenth of the families studied had poor diets.

Calcium and ascorbic acid or vitamin C are the nutrients in shortest supply among families whose diets still fall short of recommended standards. Three out of 10 families receive less than recommended amounts of calcium and one out of four families lack sufficient vitamin C or ascorbic acid. Extension nutritionists at the University of Minnesota point out that milk and dairy products are the best sources of calcium and that citrus fruits are one of the best sources of ascorbic acid.

A number of factors have contributed to the improvement in American diets in the last few decades, University nutritionists say. Food supplies are ample to meet demand, quality is high and higher incomes have made it possible for more people to have the kinds of foods they want. Enrichment of bread and other grain products has restored some of the food values previously lost in milling. Continued emphasis on research and education in human nutrition has helped family food buyers to choose the kinds of foods and the variety needed for a good diet.

HIGH SCHOOLS IN LIVELY COMPETITION

State high school ski meet is scheduled for February 14-15; announcement doesn't say where, but a shrewd guess is Duluth. State debate tournament will be held the 18th, followed by the increasingly popular hockey tournament, February 20-21-22; for which the region pairings are 2-5, 7-8, 3-6, 1-4. Swim meet and wrestling tourney will take place February 28 and March 1, gymnastic meet March 8. District basketball tournaments March 3-8, regional March 10-15, state March 20-22; pairings are Regions 1-7, 3-5, 6-8, 2-4. High school wrestling competition has attracted 117 schools this year, regions 7 and 8 each with only four entered, region 5 leading with 30 schools competing. Fall cheerleader clinics drew a remarkable attendance of 2,711 pupils from 391 state high schools.

Northwest Station Reviews '57 Weather

The outstanding weather feature for 1957 was the lack of snow for the Christmas season. However, in looking back over this past year, the weather pattern was similar to the long-time average according to the weather records maintained by O. C. Soine at the Northwest School and Experiment Station at Crookston. There were a few variations when a month by month comparison was made, but the total precipitation and the mean temperature were nearly identical with the long-time averages.

The most noticeable variation was the low snowfall for the fall months of October, November and December, and the mild temperatures for December. The nearly "snow-less" December did not break any records for this area. The snowfall for December 1943 was similar to that of the past month, and the records show that there was no snow on the ground for Christmas Day, 1943.

The coldest month of the year was January with a mean temperature of 0.6 degrees — nearly 5 degrees below normal. The rest of the winter months were slightly above average except December which had a mean temperature of 9 degrees above average.

The warmest month was July with a mean temperature of 73.9 degrees, 4 degrees above normal. April and May were slightly warmer than usual.

The highest temperature of 95 degrees was recorded on two different occasions, July 10 and August 7. The lowest temperature was 31 degrees below zero and occurred on January 29. There is a spread of 126 degrees from the highest to the lowest temperature of the year.

The greatest amount of precipitation came during June and measured 4.97 inches. The lowest precipitation occurred during December when .07 inches of moisture was measured. August, September, October, and November were above normal in precipitation and accounted for the wet soil conditions during the fall months.

The last heavy spring frost occurred on May 9 when the temperature dropped to 27 degrees. However, a light frost was recorded on May 27 when there was a reading of 33 degrees. The first killing frost in the fall was the temperature dropped to 28 recorded on September 23 when degrees.

The frost-free period for 1957 was 134 days. This is 6 days shorter than the long-time average of 128 days.

Farm mechanization in the U.S. has enabled the average farm worker to increase the number of acres he can take care of from 21 harvested acres in 1880 to 47 in 1950 and by 1960 this may go up to 56 acres.

MINNESOTA CENTENNIAL STORY

CHAPTER ONE

History, Hills and Rivers

★ The history of Minnesota goes back hundreds of years, to mountains, lakes and rivers which have had great influence in the creation and development of Minnesota.

Across Minnesota, in a northeasterly direction, from the valley of the Minnesota river to Lake Superior, there was once a great chain of mountains, caused by vast internal upheavals of the earliest earth. The legacies of the mountains are the rounded hills of today. As they were eroded and worn down they bequeathed a great layer of sandstone to the valley of the upper Mississippi.

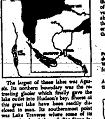
The mountains which remain in Minnesota comprise the Sawtooth range, visible from Lake Superior. Sailors named them. These great hills are a succession of elevations with a gradual, wooded slope on one side and a steep, rock wall on the other. Mount Josephine constitutes the east wall of Grand Portage bay and rises 700 feet above the level of Lake Superior. At the west end of the Sawtooth range is Carlton peak, 927 feet above the lake. This has long been a landmark to those who sailed Superior's waters.

Further inland, behind the coastal Sawtooth, lie more remains of once great mountains. These are known as the Misquah hills. Among them stands out the Giants range, in whose sides are found the iron ore that is one of the greatest industrial resources of America. The highest known point in the state is in the Misquah hills southeast of the east end of Winchell lake. That point is 2230 feet above sea level.

Age of the Glaciers

In comparatively recent days, as nature records her dates, came the ice age of Minnesota. Except for a small area in southeastern Minnesota the state was covered with a tremendous sheet of ice, in some places thousands of feet in thickness. Gradually the sun drove this cold intruder back. But as the ice retreated it left rocks, soil and debris. It left water courses for rivers and beds for lakes.

The lakes which once covered so much of Minnesota were a heritage of the glaciers.



The largest of these lakes was Agassiz. Its northern boundary was the retreating glacier which finally gave the lake outlet into Hudson's bay. Shores of this great lake have been readily disclosed to man. Its southernmost point was Lake Traverse where some of its waters thundered through Big Stone into the valley of the Minnesota river. To the east its border was irregular, following a general contour line of about a thousand feet. Its shores passed southward of the present Red lakes and then continued north to include the Lake of the Woods and Rainy.

Wealth at the Bottom

The waves of Lake Agassiz mixed silt, vegetation and minerals to create what later became the fields of the Red river valley, the richest lands of the temperate zone and the greatest wheatlands known to mankind.

The boundaries of 25 other glacial lakes have been well defined. Lake Minnesota covered a substantial part of Waseca, Faribault and Watonwan counties and left a level lake bottom which is one of the richest agricultural areas of the state. Joseph N. Nicollet outlined and named Lake Undine in 1841. The waters of this lake covering much of what is now Blue Earth county, formed when Lake Minnesota suddenly drained away down the Minnesota river.

Lake Hamline covered much of the central part of Ramsey county and was named for the university which reclines on its level plain. Lake Upham was vast in size, nearly as wide as the state. Part of its bottom is marked by the swamp lands which lie south of the Mesabi hills.

The Lakes of Today

In time the glacial lakes lost their waters. In the areas once ruled by waves there came deep forests and rich prairies. Also left were the lakes that Minnesota now knows, about 11,000 of them.

The romance of lakes has overshadowed one of their greatest benefits to mankind. This is the effect upon temperature.

It is known that lakes and their breezes cool the hot temperatures of summer, much to the comfort of so many. There are more than five thousand square miles of Minnesota that are covered with water. The earth may freeze and the ice may form upon the waters. Yet below that ice is an almost incalculable source of warmth, a great reservoir of heat, a vast furnace whose temperature is always above freezing, though near and about the land may be gripped in zero weather. Lakes hasten the planting season for the farmer. They delay the frosts of fall.

The Great Rivers

When the glaciers receded, they rubbed the mountains down to hills and dug out hollows for the glacial lakes. When the glacial lakes drained off they formed great waterways.

Minnesota lies near the center of North America and occupies a crest of the continent. It has its own continental divides which form important watersheds. Consequently, three of the great river systems of North America have their sources in Minnesota.

The Minnesota divides separate the water that flows north in the Red river from that which flows south in the Minnesota and Mississippi. The streams that flow east into the St. Louis river and Lake Superior begin the St. Lawrence drainage system. Thus, rain and snow falling in Minnesota may eventually reach Hudson's bay, the Gulf of Mexico or the Atlantic ocean.

Hundreds of years later these same waterways formed Minnesota's first highways for the French pathfinders.

This first chapter of the Centennial story, to be published serially each week in the Times, is sponsored by THE ROBERT J. LUND INSURANCE AGENCY of this city.

Founded in 1911 by Daniel Shaw, a colorful and public spirited citizen of that period of the city's history, the Lund Insurance Agency is the oldest agency in this comparatively young community. It is nearly half as old as the state itself.

Robert J. Lund entered into a partnership with Mr. Shaw in 1927—30 years ago—and it was operated as the Shaw-Lund Agency until 1929 when Mr. Lund became the sole owner. The agency deals in general insurance, fire, wind, hail, auto, bonds and casualty.

Mr. Lund came to this community in 1922 when he became cashier of the newly organized Marshall County State Bank at Holt. Following his graduation from St. Olaf college in 1916 he had been employed in banks at Tioga, North Dakota, St. Ansgar, Iowa, and Wanamingo, Minnesota. And in the intervening time he had also served with Uncle Sam during the first World War. From 1925 to 1927 he served as cashier of the First National Bank of Thief River Falls.

During his 30 years in this city he has been active in many organizations of both local and statewide interest. For many years he was secretary of the Pennington county fair, a member of the board of the Federation of County Fairs of Minnesota; and for 16 years he was a member of the board of managers of the State Fair, being president two years.

For a period of six years he was manager of the Thief River Falls branch of the Minnesota Wool Growers Ass'n. Since it was organized here in 1933 he has been secretary-treasurer of the Thief River Falls Production Credit Association serving 6 counties of northwestern Minnesota.

At the present time he is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America. At the district level he was a director of the Red River Valley Development Ass'n., one of the organizations sponsoring the Winter Shows at Crookston. He was active in promoting the improvement of the channels of the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers and at the present time he is treasurer of the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy District.

"Bob" Lund has always been a busy man but he has never been too busy to lend a hand in the promotion of a worth-while cause.

Editorials . . .

"A little child, when asked his idea of work, said, 'Anything I have to do is work, and anything I want to do is play,'—which answer showed that the child recognized his relation to that form of activity known as work; also it demonstrated that work had been presented to his mind as drudgery.—The secret of the true love of work is the hope of success in that work; not for the money reward, for the time spent or for the skill exercised, but for the successful result in the accomplishment of the work itself."

—Sidney A. Weltmere

Congress Reconvenes

Congress convenes again tomorrow and with an important election ahead of us we may expect the coming session to serve mainly as a sounding board for campaign speeches. For citizens of our own country this doesn't make much difference. The average American makes due allowances for the probable inaccuracies that run-of-the-mill politicians hurl at each other in their appeals for votes. Here at home little harm is done by the many meaningless promises and appeals to prejudice.

Unfortunately some of our neighbors are not quite so understanding, and our friendly family fight is apt to be misconstrued, especially by those of the neighbors who hope our happy home will fall apart. Politicians being what they are, and not likely to change, there probably isn't much we can do about it.

But the '58 campaign probably will follow the usual course. The speeches will lend a lot of color to the months that are ahead of us. The arguments probably will generate more heat than light.

The Texas Lesson

The country's top college football teams provided us with excellent entertainment on the afternoon of New Years Day and we are happy to make this acknowledgment to a rival industry that is threatening us with some loss of advertising revenue. We have concluded that television is here to stay and that it will be up to us to figure out how we will be able to live with the rascals. All is forgiven.

In one of the good games we found ourselves pulling hard for Mississippi over Texas, and we later discovered that folks generally were happy because Texas got licked, and good.

Maybe it was just the normal American tendency to wish well for the underdog. Will Rogers once said you could always tell an American at a bull fight because he would be cheering for the bull.

But probably a more important factor in the pro-Mississippi sentiment was the Texas reputation as a state of brag and blow. Texas is a great state, and Texans are likeable people. Much of their feeling sorry for the rest of us no doubt is good natured ribbing.

Maybe our pleasure in seeing Texas take a licking is similar to the attitude of many of our friends in other countries of the world who would enjoy seeing us get our nose rubbed in the dirt just a little.

We are sure the people of the world, even those that classify us as an enemy, respect us. It is also quite evident, however, that among the people who are friendly, there is an undercurrent of resentment toward us. It is understandable.

Maybe a little study of the mistakes made by our good friends the Texans might give us some valuable pointers on how not to lose the good will of our many friends thruout the world.

Calendar Reform

Many of us still are having difficulty writing "1958". By the time we get it grooved we probably will be struggling with 1959. The years are not nearly as long as they used to be.

Talk of calendar reform persists but all of the new ideas we have seen advanced seem to include the greatest defect in our present calendar. They do not make the years longer.

The proposal for a new calendar that now seems to be gaining support departs from the thirteen month idea we have heard so much about. It would continue with our present 12 months but would give our 12 months greater uniformity.

Each of the four three-month quarters would be identical with each other, having 91 days. The first month would have 31 days, followed by two 30-day months. Each quarter would start of Sunday and end on Saturday. Each month would have the same number of work days.

Four of these 91-day quarters would take care of 364 days. New Years Day would have an extra-day designation and would of course be an extra holiday. The new year, however, would always start on Sunday, January 1.

The Leap Year extra day would be an extra holiday between Saturday, June 30, and Sunday, July 1, providing an extra long mid-summer weekend.

This proposed calendar reform is not a new idea. It was first proposed by an Italian priest, Marco Mastrofini, in a pamphlet published in 1834. It now has received full recognition by the World Calendar Association, an organization that has been working to secure an arrangement of the months, weeks and days that would provide more satisfactorily for modern needs.

It is interesting to note that our present calendar is of comparatively recent origin, having been introduced less than 400 years ago by Pope Gregory. The English-speaking Nations did not adopt it generally until 1752, 200 years ago.

Prior to that we had the Julian calendar which started the new year on our March 25, close to the first day of Spring, and which was still being used in some European countries 50 years ago.

In favor of this new calendar is the fact that it could be adopted without seriously disrupting the status quo.

Milk More Popular

During the three-month period, July to September, whole milk sales increased substantially and sales of butter decreased, according to agriculture department figures released recently. Skimmed milk and nonfat milk powder also gained in popularity.

Sales are the most accurate market measuring device we have in determining demand. The cash register is a fairly dependable barometer as a guide to what tomorrow's customers will be asking for. Whole milk probably will continue to increase in importance in the dairy products market.

One of the important factors in the growing popularity of milk is dependable high quality. It is accepted as a beverage because the consumer has confidence in the health and sanitation regulations that govern its production, processing and sale. The industry itself deserves much of the credit for restoring consumer confidence in milk.

Minnesota and Wisconsin dairymen have taken the first steps in establishing high quality standards for butter but in too many areas of the country butter is still a product the consumer cannot buy with confidence. Until a uniformly high standard is made effective nationally we may expect butter substitutes to continue to gain in popularity.

Junkets End

(Algona Upper Des Moines)

Congress is preparing to reconvene. And that means that from the four corners of the world, the junketing members from both parties will now be returning home.

Each junketing congressman is estimated to spend about $4,000 in public funds on his junket—or the amount equal to the total year's paycheck of an average taxpayer.

The junketing figure is just a Washington estimate. The exact figures are hidden from public record under a law which congressmen passed for their own protection.

Most of the congressmen make use of "counterpart funds" when overseas. This is sometimes called "funny money." It works this way. Our government gives millions in foreign aid to countries around the world. The nations, in turn, credit the U. S. When a visiting congressman arrives in say, Paris, he contacts our embassy; there. He is handed an envelope which contains cash in francs which has been taken from our "credit" or counterpart fund in that country. Congressmen may spend this money without making any accounting whatever.

Not so long ago, Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico, a Democrat, picked up $50,000 in this type of deal in Spain. He had quite a vacation.

Two women secretaries from Washington took a 15-week trip around the world, and took along a 22 year-old page boy as "aide-de-camp". The middle-aged women spent 20 days in Paris doing "committee work" mostly in the city's night clubs. When they got home, however, they were fired—they were not members of Congress.

THIS WEEK

—In Washington

With Clinton Davidson

The Congress which returned to Washington this week begins what is generally regarded as one of the most critical sessions since the early days of the Republic.

International problems predominate, but a score of more of serious domestic issues also demand attention. It is a session that will test the metal of the legislators of the Nation.

Events of the past few weeks have left no doubt in the minds of congressmen that the United States, and in fact all of Western civilization, are in grave peril, perhaps the most serious any of us have ever known.

This session is to be no place for weak-kneed or faint-hearted congressmen. The decisions to be made will take courage of the highest order. Fortunately we have that kind of men and women in Congress.

Some of the most important questions which Congress will debate include:

Shall we attempt to appease and bargain with Russia?

How large should the budget for defense be?

Should the ceiling on the national debt be raised?

Will a tax increase be necessary to finance defense spending?

How much, and what kind, of foreign aid?

What about the business slump and growing unemployment?

Should a new farm program be adopted?

Congress already has been given positive evidence that Russia has made tremendous military gains, even that she has in some respects surpassed the United States and our allies.

The majority opinion in Washington seems to be that Russia will attempt to bargain for an easing of the cold war only on her own terms, and that those terms will be unacceptable to the Western Nations.

Our answer to Russian threats more probably will be a quick effort to build Western defenses. There is, of course, no assurance that Russia will not provoke a war if she is convinced she could win quickly. That is the chance we have to take.

Time is more important to the United States than it was only a year or two ago. We were ahead then in military strength. Then, it was Russia that wanted time to build long-range missiles to give her the advantage.

A quick recovery from our lag in missiles will require substantial increases in defense spending. To meet that increase, Congress must either increase taxes or raise the ceiling on the national debt.

There will be considerably less opposition this year than last to a substantial increase in foreign aid, both military and economic. The price of maintaining friends and allies in many parts of the world is going up.

On purely domestic issues, faltering business and rising unemployment should be watched. The feeling here, however, is that this is only a temporary dip. Rising living costs are another problem.

The farm recession that has continued for almost six years shows no sign of improvement and Congress will be under pressure to try something new. Then, too, this is an election year.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor the Times:

The poor showing of the collections in this year's drive of the Pennington County Community Chest disturbs me. The late start may have been a factor, but I wonder if part of the trouble is that many do not realize the purpose of a community chest.

The original idea was to have just one drive for funds during the year instead of many. This sounds fine but then many people would give no more to the community chest than to each separate drive. Since many organizations can get more money by a separate drive they never joined the community chest or have withdrawn. If our community chest does not meet the needs of the organizations now belonging we may be faced with further withdrawals and more separate drives. Is this what the people of the county want? From the evidence to date this appears to be the case.

One objection some organizations have to the Community Chest is that they must submit their budget and financial report to the Minnesota Research Council. This council appraises the organization and makes a recommendation for a county quota. In this way the people of Pennington County can feel sure that they are not asked to pay more than is their fair share to any cause. For example, if I remember correctly, the Pennington county share for the United Seaman Service is about $10. While we are a long way from salt water I am sure there are some from Pennington county who have or will use this service.

My personal opinion is that all drives for monies from the public should be through the community chest or the united fund approach. If the public wants this I am sure it can be accomplished. If they want drives for money all during the year, as appears to be the case in Pennington County, they can have that.

It is my hope that everyone in Pennington County will get behind the drive of the community chest and enable it to reach its goal.

Yours truly,
David M. Brown
President

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

On Saturday of this week I will be giving the first of a series of reports to the people of our state. The opening report, in which I will attempt to give a half-hour summary of over-all progress in Minnesota, will be given at noon on January 11, over Twin Cities television and radio. I should like to personally express my thanks to these and other media of communications for their effective cooperation in providing information about our government to the people of our state. The daily and weekly press in Minnesota, as well as our radio and television stations, are indispensable in helping to insure that Minnesota citizens are among the best informed in the nation.

A Big Subject

It is obvious that such a big subject as the business of the State of Minnesota cannot be covered in thirty minutes. And our people deserve a complete report. Therefore, only the highlights will be covered on Saturday, and other more complete discussion will follow during most of the rest of the month of January.

A State-Wide Report

The later reports will be given in many parts of our state. Arrangements have been made for me to report in nearly two-thirds of our counties, and at most major centers of population. Where available, radio and television will be provided in these outstate areas. And citizens will be encouraged to ask questions and to present their opinions on the problems under consideration. Other state officials will accompany me and participate in the discussion.

Schedule of Reports

As of now, our schedule for bringing our report to the people in various parts of the state is planned to include the following stops in Northwestern Minnesota: Thursday, January 23: Morning-Fergus Falls; noon-Wadena; afternoon-Detroit Lakes; evening-Moorhead. Friday, January 24: Morning-Thief River Falls; noon-Fosston; afternoon-Bemidji; Evening-Duluth.

A Two-Way Exchange

Heavy as this schedule is, I look forward to it because it gives me an opportunity to hear the point of view of people in all parts of our state. Just as we want you to know how the business of your state progresses, so it is extremely important for us to know what problems concern you the most, and what your opinions are. You are all most welcome at the meetings we have scheduled.

"A second thought on first aid"

We're constantly amazed at the number of children who cut, scrape and bruise themselves within sight (and sound) of our pharmacy. We do a big business in antiseptics, bandages, and other first-aid items. Same everywhere, probably. But sometimes we wonder if people don't depend too much on first aid—neglect proper medical attention. If there's the slightest question in your mind following what appears to be minor injuries, see your physician. First aid has definite limitations. You can only be sure of proper medical care by seeing your doctor. A prompt visit can save a half dozen later.

Centennial Plans Topic at Regional Clinic on [illegible]esday

Centennial Train Coming July 11 to Thief River Falls

Six Centennial chairmen from as many Northwest counties, addition to committee members from others, were included in a group of about 75 workers from ten counties who attended a regional Statehood Centennial clinic in the Thief River Falls Auditorium Tuesday morning and afternoon.

Tom Swain of St. Paul, executive director of the Centennial commission, and his staff of assistants were present to outline statewide plans for the observance and to discuss participation of counties in this area.

As an outstanding example, Swain praised the oxcart trek along the old Pembina trail from Pembina, N. D., to St. Paul, sponsored by the Marshall county committee. Delmar Hagen of Gatzke, who is to make the trip, starting about July 10, was present to discuss various aspects of the trek. He plans to reach St. Paul during state fair week.

Swain stated that numerous leaders and royalty from European countries will be in the Twin Cities for Statehood Centennial week May 6 to 11, which will conclude with a huge parade May 10 and the observance of Statehood Day Sunday, May 11, with appropriate religious services thruout the state.

Other features of the observance will include the Centennial train to travel thruout the state, a special postage stamp to be issued May 11, and special projects in the fields of agriculture, education, women's activities and sports events.

John Young of Minneapolis, Centennial train coordinator, announced that the train will make 97 stops in the state, and that it will visit Thief River Falls July 11 and Warren July 8. Details of the makeup of the train appear elsewhere in this issue of the Times.

Ray Speer, director of the Centennial parade, stated that it would include about 300 floats, historical exhibits and bands and other marching units, which will take form at the state fair grounds in St. Paul. Entries, he said, are invited from thruout the state, and must be received not later than March 20.

Reporting for the committee on the arts, Mrs. Anne Simeshkin, coordinator, stated that many cultural projects are planned during the year, including contests for poets, playwrights, music and art.

Robert Snook stated that approximately 30 Centennial pageants have been scheduled thruout the state to date, in addition to musical and dramatic productions, and he offered the aid of his committee in making plans.

Neil Champagne, coordinator of sports and recreation projects, said that numerous national sports events are scheduled in the state this year. He also stated that the Minnesota Jaycees have been assigned the task of selecting 1,000 sports and recreation leaders from all counties in the state. They will be honored at a banquet in the Twin Cities during statehood week.

Dinner Tuesday to Open Sportsmen's Club Member Drive

Roast Beef Meal to Be Served Free to All 1958 Paid-up Members

The Pennington county Sportsmen's Club will start its activities for the new year next Tuesday, when the group will hold its kick-off dinner of the 1958 membership drive in the city Auditorium.

A roast beef dinner will be served free to all paid-up 1958 members of the club and sportsmen are invited to bring their wives to the feed, President Ray Johnson announced. The meal will be served cafeteria style, from 6 to 8 p. m.

Annual dues may be paid at the door for those who have not yet procured their 1958 memberships, Johnson added. Only $1 will be charged for members' wives.

In addition to the regular meeting to be held after the dinner a movie, "Hazards of Deer in the Forest" will be shown, Johnson said.

Preparations to serve over 200 persons are being made and it was emphasized that anyone who is interested in outdoor sports or conservation is invited to the dinner, and the meeting which follows.

Authorities Solve Two Break-ins Here

Merchandise Taken from Sjoberg's is Recovered

Two break-ins in Thief River Falls in December were solved this week by city police, Chief Elton Cummings announced today.

Orvin Morstad, 51, was bound over to district court Wednesday after waiving preliminary hearing in municipal court on two counts of burglary in the 3rd degree and one count of receiving stolen property.

Two local juveniles were also involved in the break-ins, Cummings said.

Morstad is charged with breaking into the Farmers Elevator about Dec. 8, and with the burglary of Sjoberg's Appliance Dec. 11, in which a large amount of electronics supplies was taken.

Very little was taken in the elevator burglary, although considerable damage was done to records in the office.

Morstad, an ex-convict, put under $1,500 bond, not furnished on each of the three counts. He is in custody in the city jail awaiting further action.

The loot from the Sjoberg burglary along with other items was recovered at a house occupied by Morstad, in this city.

Donald L. Olson New Chairman County Board

1958 Organization Session Conducted Here Last Tuesday

Donald L. Olson was elected chairman of the county board of commissioners and Odin C. Hanson elected vice-chairman at the annual meeting of the board held Tuesday at the Pennington county courthouse. Olson succeeds Glenn Tass.

Routine business concerning budgets and allowances for the year ahead was the order of the day and no projects for 1958 were discussed.

An increase of $50 was made in the annual appropriation to the Red River Valley winter show at Crookston, for a total of $150, as compared to $100 in past years.

Odin C. Hanson was also appointed, along with Chairman Don Olson to serve on the county extension committee in 1958. A budget of $5,465 was set up for the county extension office, an increase of $80 over the 1957 budget.

Dr. L. R. Twete, Pennington county livestock inspector, presented his annual report to the board and was afterwards reappointed to the inspectors post for the coming year.

On the controversial question of predator bounties, the board discussed the matter and finally set bounties at $3 on adult foxes and $1 on cubs, with these figures each $1 lower per category than in previous years. The Pennington County Sportsmen's club went on record last fall as opposed to the county's paying such a bounty.

Mrs. Thomas Braaten Victim of Holt Crash

They Combined Oats December 23

An unusual Christmas week scene in Pennington county is this picture taken December 23 showing combining operations in progress on the Art Stenberg farm a short distance east of Thief River Falls.

Shown on the combine as it threshes a field of oats is John Johnson of Johnson Bros., owners of the outfit. They covered about 30 acres of the field, and reported the oats ran as high as 30 bushels to the acre.

Earlier in December, the brothers had combined a field of flax on their own farm, but it proved to be not worth harvesting. The snow held off until Sunday, January 5, when about two inches arrived.

Several other area farmers took advantage of the bare fields in December to complete harvesting operations made impossible by wet weather earlier in the season.

Former Local Man Burned to Death in Truck Collision

Mrs. Emily Braaten, about 72, of this city was killed about 5 p.m. Wednesday when the car driven by her husband, Thomas, collided almost head-on with a Holt school bus driven by Andrew Hjelle, Holt.

The highway patrol reported that the accident occurred 1.7 mile south of Holt on highway 32. The vehicles met left-front corner to left-front corner. No damage estimate was available.

At the time of the collision, the patrol said, the two vehicles were meeting at a point along the road where two trucks were parked opposite each other on either side of the road.

The highway was very slippery at the time and it is believed that Braaten may have lost control of his car when he attempted to slow down to meet the school bus between the two parked trucks.

Braaten was brought to Thief River Falls for examination and released after it was revealed his injuries amounted only to a large bump on his head. Hjelle, the school bus driver, was uninjured.

A former city resident, Allie Webakowski, about 50, was killed Wednesday afternoon about 19 miles from Moorhead on highway 9, when the furniture van he was driving hit the rear of a state highway gravel truck.

Webakowski and Arley Henry, about 36, both of Windom, Minn., were trapped in the cab of the van after the collision, and died in the ensuing flames. The two men in the gravel truck were injured and hospitalized in Moorhead.

Webakowski's mother, Mrs. John Webakowski, a sister, Mrs. James A. Kelly, and a brother, W. A. "Bud" Webakowski live here. The funeral will be held at Sleepy Eye but date and other details have not been announced, Mrs. W. A. Webakowski said this morning.

Blue Crutch Sale on Saturday 1st Phase of '58 Polio Campaign

First phase of the polio fund campaign in Pennington county will be the sale of miniature blue crutches Saturday, January 11, conducted for the third year by the Rebekah and Odd Fellows lodges, with Mrs. John V. Olson as chairman.

Richard G. Mabey, general chairman of the drive, stated that the solicitation in the Thief River Falls business district will get under way next Monday, January 13. The township canvass, he added, will be handled by the town boards or their appointees.

Wednesday evening, January 29, has been set as the date for the annual Mothers' March on Polio, to be conducted in the residential areas of the city under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harold Rasmussen.

Merle A. Lindberg again will serve as March of Dimes treasurer, Mabey announced. Girl Scouts, as in past years, will handle the delivery and pickup of dimes containers to be placed in the business places.

Mabey stated that he has available for club and group meeting a short film, "Survival Is Not Enough", which is the slogan of the 1958 campaign. He pointed out that thousands of victims of the disease are still partially or completely paralyzed, and that it is these persons the March of Dimes must continue to aid.

Pennington Rural Teacher Making Centennial Plans

To Stress Minnesota History and Geography in All School Grades

Pennington county rural teachers met with County Superintendent Martha Matheson at the court house on Friday, Jan. 3, to make plans for the second half of the school year.

Since this is Minnesota's Centennial year, plans were made for its observance in the schools by stressing Minnesota history and geography, not only in sixth grade, but in all grades and culminating in a Minnesota Quiz contest which will take place during Minnesota Statehood Week, May 11 through the 17th.

During that week, pioneers and local people will be invited to the schools to tell of their experiences in the early days as they settled in a new country.

Another event planned for the near future is the annual county spelling contest to be held at the court house Saturday, Jan. 18, at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Mary Vattendal, field nurse of Sunnyrest sanatorium at Crookston also reported on results of the Mantoux tests given recently to pupils of the rural schools. These tests were free of charge and were sponsored by the Christmas Seal Organization. Arrangements were made by Supt. Matheson and transportation was furnished by the bus drivers, parents and teachers of the different districts.

Any one with a positive reaction may have a chest X-ray at Northwestern Hospital in Thief River Falls or Sunnyrest Sanatorium at Crookston.

Billy Graham Film Shown January 11

New York Crusade Movies In Lincoln Auditorium

"Miracle in Manhattan", the unusual documentary film account of Billy Graham's New York Crusade will have a premiere showing at Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls, Saturday, January 11th at 8:00 p. m. There will be no admission charge, it was announced.

Jinx Falkenburg and Tex McCrary report the sixteen-week coverage of Mr. Graham's largest crusade for Christianity. This "Mr. and Mrs. New York" team head their own N.B.C. television program emanating daily from the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

They set the stage with a photographic tour of Manhattan, followed by the excitement of the crusade's opening night in Madison Square Garden. Successive meetings in Brooklyn, Central Park, Forest Hills, Harlem and Wall Street's financial district emphasize Greater New York City's spiritual interest in the crusade.

Salvation Army Voices Its Thanks

Officers Thank Public for Christmas Donations

Lieut. Robert Burkhardt, in charge of the local branch of the Salvation Army, today issued the following statement, thanking local citizens for their support of the organization's work during the recent Christmas holiday season:

"I would like to express a sincere thank you for the splendid support that was given the Salvation Army during our Christmas appeal. Because of your generosity it was possible to make Christmas a little brighter to those in need.

"I wish to report that 55 baskets of food were given out, 391 toys and 221 articles of clothing. May I also say that to you who gave whether through devotions, letter appeal or by Salvation Army Christmas kettle, you had a part in making families happier during this time of year; and your contribution made it possible for us to give aid to the needy.

"May God Bless each of you in this coming year." Lt. and Mrs. Robert D. Burkhardt

Nine Counties Are Represented at 4-H Leader Session

Pennington County Has Enrolled 6 Pct. More Members During 1957

4-H leaders from nine northwestern Minnesota counties gathered in Thief River Falls today. They reviewed county and state enrollments and discussed programs in 4-H work for the year ahead.

Counties represented by delegations were Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Clearwater, East Polk, West Polk, and Norman counties.

Three 4-H leaders from the state 4-H office, University of Minnesota, presented material on the theme "Lets Keep Our Younger 4-H Members Longer." Attending the institute were State 4-H leader Leonard Harkness, and assistant state 4-H leaders Stanley Meinen and Evelyn Harne. The present status of Minnesota 4-H enrollment was also discussed.

The state leaders pointed out that the programs for the 48,000 4-H'ers in Minnesota demand talent, time, and energy from their leaders and good programs in 4-H clubs are essential to produce successful 4-H members. The details and possible improvements in county programs will be discussed by the delegates in their respective counties at county 4-H institutions.

"Growing a Good 4-H Tree" was also discussed by the state leaders, who emphasized the functions of 4-H members, junior leaders, adult leaders and relationship to extension workers.

The present status of Pennington County 4-H enrollment was discussed by county agent Paul Stelmaschuk, who pointed out a six percent increase enrollment in 1957 in the county.

Representing Pennington county 4-H leaders council were delegates Bernard Myers, Ray Parnow, Mrs. Martin Finstad, Mrs. Wendel Corbet, Mrs. Roman Radniecki, Mrs. Norton Nelson, and Mrs. Sig Folkedahl.

Kjos Tells Lions about Centennial

Chairman Tells of Plans for Local Observance

Paul Stelmaschuk showed a motion picture, "Minnesota, Star of the North," which depicted the state's resources in agriculture, industry, cultural fields and sports and recreation.

The club accepted an invitation extended by Stan Nelson, director of the area vocational school, to make a tour of inspection of the school on its next meeting date Wednesday, January 15.

Municipal Court Monday Was Quiet

Rural Resident Fined $100 for Drunk Driving

Monday's municipal court session here was relatively quiet, with only four persons appearing before Special Municipal Judge Stanley N. Mortenson.

Two other persons also appeared in court Wednesday, one on a minor traffic violation and another charged with burglary. (Story elsewhere in Times.)

Two cases were brought by Sheriff Charles Richards. Carl F. Lindholm, rt. 4, city, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 plus $5.50 costs. His license was also revoked.

Pearl Myers, St. Hilaire, pleaded guilty to driving without a drivers license and was fined $25 plus $5.50 costs.

Three cases involving two persons were brought by city police. Duane L. Taggert, city, pleaded guilty to driving too fast for conditions and was fined $10 plus $3.50 costs.

Taggert also pleaded guilty to illegal use of a muffler and was fined $5 plus $3.50 costs, both suspended.

Gary W. Larson, city, received a 5-day jail sentence, plus $3.50 costs after pleading guilty to speeding. The jail sentence was suspended, costs paid.

Richard D. Anderson, Grand Forks, N. D. forfeited $15 on a speeding charge.

The case involving Ronald Erickson, city, on a charge of improper parking, was heard Wednesday. After pleading guilty he was fined $5.

Look Over Plans at Centennial Parley Tuesday

County Board in '58 Organization Meeting Tuesday

posed by several farmers, however, and the lower figure was agreed upon, rather than complete abolishment. At least two other northwestern Minnesota counties, Kittson and Marshall have discontinued bounty payments.

Matters pertaining to the county welfare board were discussed and the decision was that the board should be composed of seven members, to act as a unit in matters pertaining thereto.

A list of 72 voters was drawn for grand jury duty in the county and 104 for petit jury service.

Three beer license applications were approved by the board. These were Jesse Anderson, Erie store; Mrs. Gertrude Carpenter, Carpenter's store and the Thief River Falls Golf club. This figure was down two from 1957 but at least one more application is expected in the county later.

Hjalmer Rafteseth was reappointed county veterans service officer for 1958 by the board, while the Times was designated as the official county newspaper. County depositories named were the Union and Northern State Banks of Thief River Falls, and the Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis.

Also acted upon during the meeting was a request, by representatives of the Pennington County Crop Improvement Association present at the meeting, for assistance in putting on a seed and feed show in 1958. The request was approved and an appropriation of $100 was made to the association.

A resolution asking the state highway commissioner to set speed limits on county roads adjacent to the city was acted upon and approved. The resolution is an outgrowth of complaints about 30 m.p.h. speed limit signs south of the city limits on the airport road.

The county engineer does not have authority to place such signs, making it necessary to file such a request with the highway commissioner.

Other business consisted of setting allowances for the various offices in the court house to take care of salary increases and adjustments for the year ahead.

Local Men Form Thief River Falls Foundation

terms; E. O. Peterson and William LaFave for two-year terms, and Dr. Milton Starekow and O. G. Ekeren for one year.

As provided in the by-laws of the corporation, the voting membership will consist of the trustees and three groups of elected public officials serving ex-officio will be all members of the county board, the members of the school board of the Thief River Falls school district, the mayor of the city of Thief River Falls and the county auditor of Pennington county. Directors of each of the local banks and the First Federal Saving & Loan Association will be asked to name three directors for one-year terms.

These members may elect any citizen of the community to serve as a trustee but publicly elected officials serving as members ex-officio may not serve as trustees unless elected prior to their terms of office as public officials.

It is hoped that under this form of control the organization will remain perpetually young, directed by a group of citizens well informed on the needs of the community and deserving of public confidence.

The organization will start with a fund of $1,000, subscribed by the trustees, to be available for student loans. Two gifts from employees to L. B. Hartz, to be made available through the Rotary Club for any purpose designated by Mr. Hartz, have also been turned over to the Foundation.

Contributions from public spirited citizens and memorials of various kinds will be encouraged as will larger gifts in the form of bequests. All of the activities of the corporation will be audited regularly and there will be a complete public accounting of all activities.

The Thief River Falls Foundation is patterned after similar organizations that have been generally successful and have served a useful purpose in many cities.

Growing of Sugar Beets Subject to Acreage Allotment

1958 Crop to Be Curtailed Because of Carryover from Previous Years

The farmers who plan to grow and market sugar beets for the extraction of sugar in 1958 were reminded today by Oscar J. Houske, chairman of the Pennington county ASC committee, that January 31 is the final date for filing requests for farm proportionate shares (acreage allotments). One of the requirements which must be met by producers to qualify for payments under the Sugar Act is that the marketing of sugar beets for extraction of sugar must be limited to the production from the proportionate shares established for the farms.

Curtailment of the 1958 crop is required because of a carryover from previous crops and an anticipated heavy demand for sugar beet acreage by old growers in other sugar beet counties Mr. Houske said. Due to the fact only 300 acres are to be allocated to all growers in the 7 northwest counties, it is doubtful if any acreage will be allocated to Pennington County producers in 1958.

Requests for farm proportionate shares must be made on Forms SU-100 which are available in the ASC office. Failure of any person to file the request with the county office by January 31, 1958, may result in the request being disapproved by the state committee.

Jaycee Column

Contributed

Have you ever noticed who the volunteers are when the time comes for supporting our civic and social agencies, promoting enthusiasm for civic improvements or leading the way in providing a better city for your children to grown up in?

~~Why it's the Jaycees everytime.~~

What is there in this organization of young men that compels them to be in the front ranks when there is work to be done? The Junior Chamber of Commerce must be an excellent training ground for young men, who are willing to assume the responsibilities of civic leadership.

The Jaycees, who now number 200,000 strong in 2,900 chapters across the nation, actively promote member participation in civic responsibilities with the idea in mind to (1) develop in young men the qualities of personal leadership, (2) offer young men an avenue with which to improve their communities and (3) afford young men an excellent medium for vigorous expression of their opinions.

More specifically, the Jaycees of Thief River Falls this week propose to select an outstanding young man of this community, whether or not he be a Jaycee, and honor him with the highest honor which is in their power to confer. The distinguished service award may be considered a badge of honor and esteem by the recipient, whoever he may be. Announcement of the award winner will be made at the annual Bosses Night Banquet which will be held on February 6, in Thief River Falls. The week of January 19 is another special Jaycee date as that is the week they will celebrate Jaycee week all over the nation. Jaycee week will be a good time to give our thanks to this selfless group of young men, who are our good neighbors.

Halstad Loses to Prowlers 64 to 36

Sprinting away to a commanding 24 to 7 lead in the first period of play here Tuesday night, coach Alan Adams' Prowlers had a comparatively easy time as they defeated coach Ray Kerrigan's Halstad Pirates from district 30, winning by a 64 to 36 score.

The victory marked the seventh win in eight starts for the Prowlers. On Friday night the local squad will travel to Bagley for an inter-district game against the Bagley Flyers; and on Saturday night the Fosston Greyhounds will invade the local court for another inter-district tilt.

Dave Rasmussen sparked the Prowlers' high-scoring first period on Tuesday night as the aggressive forward looped in four field goals. The Prowlers exhibited well-balanced scoring in that first period as they rolled thru the Halstad defense for lay-up shots. Phil Hanson had a field goal and free throw; Ken DeLap rang up a pair of field goals; Jim Bennes had a field goal and a free throw; and Mickey Hanson, who gained the game's high point honors, had a pair of field goals and a couple of free throws during that first period spurt.

The Prowlers continued to outpoint the Pirates during the remaining three periods of play, having a 12 to 10 edge in the second period, a 15 to 13 margin in the third period, and a 13 to 6 margin in the fourth quarter.

Warren Olson, the Pirates' husky center, getting eight points in the third period, was the high-point man for Halstad with 13 points.

Prowler Hockey 6 Blanks Red Lake Falls Wednesday

Lincoln Sextet Scores One-sided 6 to 0 Win over Short-handed RLF

A short-handed Red Lake Falls Eagles hockey club put up a surprisingly strong game against the manpower of the Prowlers in a high school game played on the Arena ice sheet here Wednesday night, losing to the locals by a 7 to 0 score.

The win was the first of season for the Prowlers, who have lost three and tied one. On Friday night the Hallock Polar Bears will play the Prowlers in a conference game on the local rink; and on Saturday the Prowlers will make the trek to Williams for a conference game against the Wolves.

Red Lake Falls' goalie, Mike St. Michel, turned in a sparkling game in the nets for the Eagles, and it was not until the 13:35 of the first period that the Prowlers were able to dent the laces, with Jerry Jorgenson beating St. Michel on a 15-foot shot after taking a center-out pass from Arlan Hjelle. A short while later Mike Poole notched a goal to give the Prowlers a 2 to 0 first period lead.

The Prowlers continued to apply the pressure on the Eagles, and the locals added a cluster of three goals in the second period, and finished up with a pair of tallies in the third period.

Coach Johnny Matchefts used numerous reserves in third and final period, and these youngsters performed ably.

One of These Things

"It was just one of those things," so said a member of the high school coaching staff in commenting on the dismissal of Dave Hanson from the Prowler basketball squad last week for violating a provision of the State High School league code.

There can be no denying that the Prowlers' hopes of retaining their district basketball title, and making a strong bid for the regional crown, were given a jolt by the loss of big Dave. In his three years on the local squad, Dave has been a great player. In his two full seasons of play, and including the four games of this season, Hanson, a six-foot, five-inch, 215-pound center, has rolled up a total of 1088 points, setting a school scoring mark.

To the home fans, and around the district and region, Dave developed into a top-flight attraction. And his duels with Bemidji's Ray Cronk drew state-wide attention.

The Prowlers' cage hopes, though, aren't entirely hopeless, and it even could happen that Hanson's loss will rebound to the better balance of the squad. Now that the 'big man' is out of the Prowler lineup, the other boys may gain and develop a greater measure of self-reliance. The Prowlers, without Dave Hanson, and with Jimmy Bennes sidelined by illness, showed remarkable staying power in defeating a highly-regarding Ada Viking club here Saturday night, winning by a 46 to 45 score.

And on Tuesday night, on the local court and with Bennes back in the lineup, the Prowlers made a shambles of their game with the Halstad Pirates. Tuesday night's game wasn't too much of a test, though, for by coach Ray Kerrigan's admission, Halstad "hasn't got it this year." The Prowlers will be tested, and good, come Saturday night when they meet the Fosston Greyhounds, rated as a district 30 favorite, on the local court.

This Could Happen

Elmer Poole, who is our source of information on the progress of the North Dakota Sioux hockey club, tells us not to be too surprised if the Minnesota Gophers succeed in upsetting coach Bob May's fast-skating Nodaks in the up-coming series.

If this event should occur, Elmer believes it will be due to the strategy of the Gophers in getting the Sioux to "beat themselves." This strategy revolves on getting several of the short-tempered Sioux "riled up". Among the quick-tempered Sioux are such stars as Jim Ridley, Ed Willems, Bill Steenerson, and Ralph Lyndon. And all it takes to irk these boys is a jab in the ribs with the butt-end of a stick.

It is beginning to shape up to a "contact" series between the Sioux and the Gophers, with Hudson Bay rules being in force.

Clearing the Rebounds

Ken Johannson, the former North Dakota All-American hockey star, and later a member of the Warroad Lakers and coach of the Warroad Warriors, is now playing with the Rochester team of the Central league. Ken is a first liner with Bud Brossolt and Arley Carlson as linemates. In a league encounter against the KSTP team of St. Paul on Sunday, Ken and Bud and Arley each turned the "hat trick," getting three goals apiece, as Rochester scored a 13 to 0 win.—Jackie Poole, also a member of the Rochester team, has been plagued by a knee injury, and it has been recommended that he undergo surgery. Jack is somewhat skeptical about such drastic treatment, and he has been attempting to cure the injury by playing hockey.—Les Sabo, a defenseman with the state high school hockey champion Prowlers of 1954, was in town on Sunday playing as a member of the Fargo Flyers. Les is an able and popular announcer with Fargo's KFGO radio station. — Jimmy Doyle, a sturdy defenseman on the state tournament hockey Prowlers of 1945, and later a captain of the Michigan State Spartans hockey squad, has applied for a teaching certificate in Florida. If he is successful in obtaining this certificate, Jim will join the school system in Fort Lauderdale.

Cathedral Six Takes Prowlers 4-2 In Tilt on Crookston Rink

Although outshooting their opponents by a considerable margin, having 28 on-goal shots to the Blue Wave's 19, coach Johnny Matchefts hockey Prowlers dropped a 4 to 2 decision to the Crookston Cathedral sextet in a game played at Crookston on Tuesday night.

The two teams entered the final period with the score deadlocked at 1 to 1. After a scoreless first period, Roger Breken tallied for the Wave at 2:00 mark of the second period, and at 2:17 Dale Wennberg notched the equalizer for the Prowlers.

Bob Charron broke the tie with a goal in the opening minute of the final period, but Wennberg, with Curt Ness assisting, evened the game at 2-all at the 5:00 mark. Mark Laliberte's two goals, at 5:15 and 12:30, provided coach Bill Sullivan's team with their winning margin.

The Prowlers will be facing a busy weekend, with the blue-and-gold playing Hallock here on Friday night, traveling to Williams on Saturday, and playing the Grand Forks Redskins at Grand Forks on Monday.

Centennial Train Is Biggest Project of '58 State Observance

First official plans for the 1958 Minnesota Centennial Train, the biggest single project of the Minnesota Centennial Commission's year-long program, were announced Wednesday by the train committee.

Co-chairmen of the eight-man group are President John Budd of Great Northern Railway and Vice-president John Haines of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co.

John A. Young, director of creative services at Minneapolis-Honeywell, whose services have been "loaned" to the Commission as director of the train project, said plans are to open the train's tour April 20 at Winona.

From there the nine-car train, similar in nature and purpose of the 1948 national Freedom Train, will shoe-lace its way northward through the state and end its schedule at the State Fair in St. Paul September 1 after traveling nearly 4,000 miles.

The rolling museum of Minnesota's past, present and future has a tentative 87-stop itinerary in Minnesota. More than a million persons are expected to pass through the six exhibit cars which will be devoted to displays of history, resources, agriculture and food products, industry, social progress and welfare and the future. Three cars will carry train crewmen and maintenance equipment.

The Centennial train committee co-chairmen said individual county train project chairmen now are being named and that definite dates for specific communities will be announced soon.

Serving with Budd and Haines on the Train Committee are Norris Carnes, C. W. Moore and Lloyd Leider of St. Paul and Clarence Chaney, Samuel C. Gale and John C. Cornelius Sr., of Minneapolis.

Included in the display cars will be historic state documents, working models, maps, pictorial displays, paintings and animated exhibits.

The train is being prepared in the Twin Cities. Its design requires complete renovation of exterior and interiors of baggage cars donated by 10 cooperating railroads. The railroads are making other contributions which include locomotion, rights-of-way and other special material.

The 10 railroads are the Milwaukee Road; Chicago Northwestern; Minneapolis and St. Louis; Soo Line; Great Northern; Northern Pacific; Duluth Messabe and Iron Range; Chicago Great Western; Burlington; and Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific.

Tax Bill Is Higher Than Food Costs

Taxpayers Association Cites Tax Foundation

If you think your food bill is high, consider the fact that the cost of food now takes a substantially smaller percentage of your income than your share of the cost of government.

Norman A. Borgen, executive secretary of the Minnesota Taxpayers Association, quoted Tax Foundation, Inc., a national research organization, as authority for the statement that over an 11-year period consumer spending for food has lagged behind government spending (Federal, state and local) to such an extent that in 1956 government spending totalled $104 billion as compared with consumer spending for food of $71 billion. Between 1946 and 1956, total government spending has grown from $47 billion to $104 billion, while consumer spending for food has increased only from $40 billion to $71 billion.

In 1946, $933 is estimated to have been spent per consumer unit for food as compared with $1,086 on account of government. By 1956 the proportion was $1,352 per consumer unit for food as compared with $1,976 on account of government. Only in 1947 was more spent on food—$990 for government and $1,029 per consumer unit for food.

The national income in 1956 was $343,020,000,000. The average consumer unit spent 20.9 percent of this income for food, and 30.5 percent for government.

3 State Youths Are Selected as IFYE Delegates

Three Minnesota young people have been selected to go to foreign countries in 1958 as International Farm Youth Exchange delegates.

Stanley Meinen, assistant state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, in charge of the program for this state, announced that the three delegates are Alice Huber, 20, Manchester, Freeborn county; Larry Adams, 20, Verndale, Wadena county; and Donald Powers, 20, Granada, Martin county.

Tentative plans are that Miss Huber will go to France and Adams will go to Portugal in June. Both will return in November. Powers will spend October to April in Argentina.

The three young people will live and work on farms in the country to which they have been assigned. As IFYE delegates, they will serve as "grass roots ambassadors," helping to further international understanding, objective of the program.

Two Warren Men Honored by State Hardware Assn.

Walter Bahner, Foley hardware dealer, was elected president of the Minnesota Retail Hardware Association at the organization's 61st annual convention in Minneapolis this week.

He succeeds A. J. Pierre of North St. Paul as head of the organization of 1,000 hardware firms from throughout the state. Elected vice president was Lars Mohagen of Elbow Lake.

Highlight of the three-day convention at the Leamington Hotel was the presentation of 50-year pioneer awards to four Minnesota hardware dealers and 25-year anniversary awards to 13 others. Making the presentations was H. R. Caley, chairman of the American Hardware Mutual Insurance company.

Recipients of 50-year awards were F. C. Larson and Ralph B. Taralseth, both of Warren; F. A. Ulven of Rose Creek, and Gus Grunert of Northfield.

Job Insurance Funds Decline During 1957

As 1957 waned, there was $114.8 million in Minnesota's unemployment insurance fund.

This represents a reduction of $3.5 million from the amount available for benefits at the beginning of the years, say an analysis released this week by Commissioner Frank T. Starkey, of the department of employment security.

During the year, $21 million was paid out in benefits and $16.4 million was collected, in the form of contributions, from the 40,000 employers covered by the State law. The fund earned $2.0 million in interest during the year and an additional $1.1 million was received in repayment to the fund by the federal government, under the provisions of the Reed Bill. The Reed Bill funds represent Minnesota's share of excess federal taxes paid by employers for the administration of the Employment Security program.

The drop in the unemployment insurance fund's balance does not tell the full story of the fund's adequacy, says Mr. Starkey. While the fund has been declining from a high point of $134 million in 1954, the obligations have been increasing and has resulted in a marked decrease in the amount of protection for each insured individual, he added.

This is illustrated by the fact that at the close of 1949, there was $214 in the fund for each of the 570,000 insured workers and the maximum obligation of the fund to any individual was $625. The persons covered by the fund were protected by a reserve of 34.2% of their maximum claim against it.

In 1956, the maximum claim was $858 and the balance available per insured individual was $175, the fund provided a reserve of 20.4% of the maximum claim. At the close of 1957 the maximum claim against the fund had increased to $988 and the balance available per insured individual was $162.

At the end of 1957 the fund provided an average reserve of 16.4% of the maximum claim against it by each of the more than 700,000 workers, who have protection against the hazards of unemployment.

With both the balance in the fund and per worker reserve substantially less adequate, Mr. Starkey aid that legislative action in 1956 was needed. He added that he probably would renew remedial proposals that, in 1957, were passed only by the House.

Driver Examiner Training Slated at Camp Ripley

The first of two review schools for Minnesota's driver license examiners opens next Monday, January 13, at Camp Ripley, north of Little Falls.

One half of the examining force of 55 men will assemble at that time to begin a 40 hour course as part of the in-service training program conducted by the Minnesota Highway Department for its employes. The remainder of the men will begin their course the following Monday.

Under the direction of examining supervisors, the men will have five days of study in such subjects as drivers' standards, vision screening, driver education, uniform scoring, and chauffeur and school bus driver licensing.

Special emphasis will be placed on the creation of good public relations through courtesy and personal contacts.

Ray Baseman, St. Paul, will be in charge of the school. He is the chief examiner in the Drivers License division of the Highway Department. Baseman recently completed a 360 hour advanced course in examining techniques at Northwestern University Traffic Institute, Evanston, Ill.

Your savings dollars flow into first mortgage, monthly payment home loans in your community. To meet your current needs, we have at hand Cash and U. S. government securities. Finally to back up your savings account, we are required by law to establish substantial reserves…and ours more than meet this provision. If you do not have an account here, why don't you enjoy financial health and progress, too?

"Measured by the achievements of the years I have seen, I am one of the oldest men who have ever lived; but I do not feel old, and I propose to give you the recipe by which I have preserved my youth. I have always given a friendly welcome to new ideas, and I have endeavored not to feel too old to learn, and thus, though I stand here with the snows of so many winters upon my head, my faith in human nature, my belief in the progress of man to a better social condition, and especially my trust in the ability of men to establish and maintain self-government, are as fresh and as young as when I began to travel the path of life."

City's Problems

Increased demand for water and electricity during 1957 is an encouraging indication of the city's growth. Since 1951 the water demand has increased from 160 to 275 million gallons a year. Power output totalled nearly 18 million kilowatt-hours, an increase of more than eight percent.

Both the water and light departments need improvements. At least one new water storage tower and tank must be provided and this need has a high priority from the standpoint of fire protection. While we no longer have a power problem, our power distributing system, inadequate for present loads, needs extensive improvements. These are healthy growing pains.

The big problem with which we are now confronted is surface drainage. The need for adequate storm sewers has long been recognized but has been postponed from year to year largely because of the cost and, partially, because when it doesn't rain we don't need storm sewers. Most of the time it doesn't rain.

Recent developments make it necessary to meet this problem head-on. Adequate drainage is a "must" for streets that are a part of the new state-city street system. State funds will not be available for surfacing until provision has been made for adequate storm sewers. In the rebuilding of Third street, as a part of the new highway approach from the west, the state will either provide for the storm sewer needs of that street alone or will participate in an area plan that will include the Third street needs.

The citizens committee that was appointed by Mayor Bolch last year to study our street improvement needs is still active and the problem is receiving the consideration it deserves. The important first step to a sensible solution, they recognise, is a city-wide plan for storm sewers.

Once an overall plan has been approved then segments of that plan can be completed from time to time as street surfacing makes them necessary, and over a period of years, with these segments connected, the system will gradually be completed.

The developments that now are forcing us to take action on a storm sewer problem fortunately bring with them financial assistance that can reduce substantially the cost of such a system to local taxpayers and property owners. The state's participation in the rebuilding of Third street will be helpful and the funds that will be made available to us under the new state highway fund distribution plan, will also help in reducing the overall cost by providing for the drainage needs of the streets designated as the state-city system.

Thief River Falls still has some other problems—always will have as long as the city makes progress. None of these problems, however, is so difficult that a little common sense won't bring up a workable solution. Considering all of the factors, including our prospects for larger net earnings from the sales of electric power, the future is not in the least discouraging.

Ed Thye Can Help

Senator Ed Thye thinks Ezra Benson did wrong when he announced a reduction in the support price for dairy products effective in April. Thye says he would increase the support level.

Many leaders in the dairy industry, and some of the big farm organizations, agree that what the dairy industry needs most is a self-help program. The leading dairy organization of the country has agreed on a plan. Laws will have to be passed to make the plan permissive. The industry needs the leadership of the Ed Thyes to pass necessary legislation. Here is a great opportunity for Ed Thye to be helpful in making possible a workable self-help plan.

By the first of April the industry, and Congress, can make much progress in establishing a good program. With evidence of progress we are certain Ezra Benson could be prevailed upon to extend the effective date of the order to lower price supports.

The industry has had more than four years to get its house in order, and during that four years the government has disposed of mountains of surplus dairy products. If the industry now is not willing to carry through on the promises its leaders made five years ago to assume responsibility for their own production and marketing problems then it deserves to be plowed under.

We respectfully suggest to our good friend Ed Thye that he direct his criticism to the only group to which we can look for a permanent solution for the problem—the leaders of the dairy industry. In spurring this group to action Senator Ed Thye, himself a dairyman, can make a worth-while contribution.

Have Faith in Minnesota

(Carl Weicht in Northfield News)

"Our faith in Minnesota must not finally rest upon her material wealth, but upon the character and quality of her people."

One of the great governors of Minnesota—Theodore Christianson—thus emphasized the spirit that will build for the future as well as recognizing the greatness of the past. This is worthy of note as the state's centennial year dawns.

Minnesotans are a great people. They have shared, of course, the great natural resources of the state, but to what nature has given and industry achieved, they have added a true culture. Indeed, Minnesotans may look back with satisfaction on one hundred years of statehood, but in doing so they must not stand in self-admiration merely.

While the triumvirate of Minnesota's material prosperity—agriculture, industry, and mining—have been based on rich natural endowments, preserved by the vision and the determination of pioneers, and developed thru industry and purposeful effort, they will not be maintained and broadened by new generations of Minnesotans unless they, too, possess the human resources that have built a great state.

Good Will Ambassador

(W. E. Barnes in Sleepy Eye Dispatch)

Marian Anderson, Negro singer, gave a concert in India recently which probably did the United States more good than a gift of a million dollars would have done.

Thousands heard and applauded her. Afterward she was interviewed by Indian newspaper people and asked questions aimed at bringing out any dissatisfaction she felt about her native country. Her replies revealed no bitterness. Admitting that incidents in the U. S. at times were unpleasant, she asked if that wasn't the case all over the world.

One of the best investments the government has made is the money spent in sending entertainers to foreign lands. They have been well received. Most of them have made a good impression. Marian Anderson was one of the best.

SHETLER'S new MILK BOOSTER 36

Milk Booster 36 is a high quality dairy balancer concentrate to be fed as a supplement to your home grown roughage and grain. It increases rumen activity to give you greater feed efficiency, higher milk production; as well as provide the essential ingredients which are lacking in roughage and grain.

It takes only about one pound of MILK BOOSTER 36 per cow per day to balance her ration at a cost of about 3¾c per cow per day.

SHETLER'S MILK BOOSTER 36 is not only economical to use but it's reasonable in price.

Only $3.69 per 100 lb. bag or $3.54 per 100 in bulk

It's made the Archer way from Archer's quality controlled and tested formulas and you get this high quality at very little more cost than ordinary feeds.

Give our MILK BOOSTER 36 a 30-day trial. Watch your milk production go up and your feed cost go down.

You can pick it up at our new feed plant across the street from the hatchery or we will deliver it to you in bulk or bags.

The Newfolden Nordic's basketball squad will swing back into action against the Warroad Warrior's at Warroad on January 10, 1958. There are 11 games remaining on the Nordic schedule, 6 home games and 5 away.

In all games to date the Nordics have 3 won, 6 lost record. They have beaten Alvarado, Badger, and Middle River and lost 2 to Strandquist and one each to Greenbush, Oklee, and the Alumni. In East sub-district 32 conference play their record is 2 wins and 2 losses.

The Nordics lost a thriller to Oklee on their court the Friday before Christmas vacation started. The lead see sawed most of the game and ended in a 47-47 tie. Oklee forged ahead to win during the overtime by 53 to 49, as a long shot which went in as the gun sounded was disqualified.

During the Christmas vacation, the Nordics met a strong 16 man squad alumni team and stayed with them for three quarters but finally lost, 56 to 54. Former Nordic coach, Lowell Anderson handled the alumni squad which included: Alfred Hanson, Junior Dyrud, Gene Shern, Jerry Shern, Kermit Rokke, Dwight Tangquist, Roland Amundson, Lawrence Everson, Gene Halvorson, Lloyd Bakke, Philip Dyrud, Rodney Doran, Lester Lindquist, Dale Moen, Ike Ellingson, and Orlan Bjornrud. The Nordics displayed a lack of finesse and drive at the guard positions when the Alumni began to press the guards.

- *Tuesday, Jan. 14, Greenbush.
- *Friday, January 17 at Roseau.

Tells Farmers How to Report on Earnings for Social Security

There has been considerable misunderstanding among farmers as to the correct method for reporting their earnings for social security tax purposes, according to Walter Kistler, district manager of the social security district office in Grand Forks.

Some of this misunderstanding is because there are many cases where the farmer has not made a net income of $600.00, and therefore believes that no federal income tax return (Form 1040) is necessary. However, all self-employed persons must file Form 1040, with a profit and loss statement attached, if they net $400.00 a year. From this, it is plain to see that the self-employed person who makes between $400 and $600 per year must file the return and pay the social security tax even though he is not subject to income tax.

The law goes beyond this in the case of the self-employed farmer. He may exercise an option if he chooses. When the gross income from the farm is $1,800 or less he may report, for social security purposes, either two-thirds of his gross or the actual net earnings. When the gross income from the farm exceeds $1,800 the net income must be figured and if the net income is less than $1,200, the farmer may elect to report $1,200 for social security. If the net earnings from the farm are more than $1200 he must report the actual amount of his net earnings.

To find out his net earnings he should list all expenses in connection with the operation of the farm. Expenses such as seed, fertilizer, electricity, fuel and oil for operation of tractors are counted against gross income. He should also show the depreciation on farm buildings, tractors, combines and tools necessary for the operation of the farm.

More detailed information is contained in a publication entitled Farmers Tax Guide (Publication N. 225) which can normally be obtained from your county farm agent or the Internal Revenue Service.

A representative of the Grand Forks District Office, of the Social Security Administration, will be in Thief River Falls at the City Auditorium on Tuesday, January 13th at 10:00 a.m. Individuals may contact him for information, or to file claims.

To Step up War on Traffic Mishaps

State Director Solicits Public Backing in Drive

The attack on traffic accidents will be stepped up during 1958 and every possible means of cutting down injuries and fatalities will be mobilized.

This announcement was made by Harry A. Sieben, state highway safety director, in reviewing the traffic toll of 1957.

"Minnesotans have just made a record," he said. "But this is one record of which not a single person can be proud. It is the highest number of traffic fatalities in the state's history.

"In 1936, there were 649 persons killed, at the rate of 12.3 fatalities, for each one hundred million vehicle miles traveled. Despite the fact that we have cut our death rate much more than half to 5.2, the serious situation remains that too many persons are being killed on our highways."

Sieben called upon every person to back the attack on traffic accidents with the same determination and zeal that is directed toward eliminating mental and physical diseases so that this modern scourge of traffic deaths will be contained and controlled.

He pointed out that those dedicated citizens who war on accidents need the help of every one so that: Traffic accidents can be cut one-half; Traffic movement can be expedited; Official agencies have strong citizen support; New drivers and young pedestrians have good, complete teaching.

"The only way to reduce the danger of accidents," Sieben said, "is to keep after it all the time—never let up."

Filter Center at Bemidji Expanded

Takes over Duties Today of Minneapolis Center

Captain C. L. Whitenack, commander of the Bemidji Air Defense filter center, announced that effective today the Minneapolis filter center will cease operation, and its Ground Observer Corps area consolidated with that of Bemidji.

This means that most GOC observation posts in the state of Minnesota and parts of Wisconsin, Michigan, North and South Dakota will report aircraft sightings to the filter center at Bemidji during alerts and training exercises.

The Bemidji Air Defense filter center will now be responsible for nearly 1000 GOC posts and more than 15,000 civilian volunteers in an area of approximately 100,000 square miles.

The change is a result of the increased capabilities of the radar network which enabled the Air Force to consolidate certain filter center areas and to place the GOC on a ready reserve status.

Captain Whitenack said, "The GOC is a vital component of the air defense system. Periodic training exercises will be conducted to keep the volunteers trained and we will be in a reserve status, ready to be called on when needed."

Pennsylvania raised over $31 million in community chest funds in 1956, highest of all the states. The next five, in order, were Ohio, California, Michigan, New York and Texas.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the Minnesota Historical Society

NEW YEAR'S DAY

"The festivities and hilarity of our town on New Year's confirm the truth that cold weather can never freeze warm hearts," wrote the editor of the "Minnesota Pioneer," on January 2, 1850.

The beginning of the year 1850 was celebrated in St. Paul by the exercises of the Minnesota Historical Society at the Methodist Church, were the Reverend Edward D. Neill delivered in the morning a "thrilling, eloquent, and instructive" lecture on the "French Voyageurs in the Seventeenth Century." A band from Fort Snelling helped enliven the occasion.

A splendid ball was held at the Central House on the evening of New Year's Day, a function at which there were five sets of cotillions. "It was the largest collection of beauty and of fashion we have ever seen in the West," wrote the newspaper's editor, James M. Goodhue.

In the "Pioneer" of January 2, he addressed his readers in an editorial poem which sang of the future glories of St. Paul and the whole Northwest. The weather might be twenty or thirty degrees below zero, but, chanted the optimist, "For vigorous health no climate dare, With Minnesota to compare."

FIRST BOOK PRINTED

The first book published in Minnesota is believed to have been the "Annals of the Minnesota Historical Society," two editions of which were printed by James M. Goodhue of St. Paul in 1850. It was run off on the Washington hand press which Goodhue had taken to St. Paul the year before and which was also used to print the first newspaper issued in the territory—the "Minnesota Pioneer."

The "Annals" is a paper-covered book or pamphlet, containing the constitution and by laws of the society, a list of members, and an address dealing with the French explorers of the Minnesota country in the seventeenth century, which was delivered by the Reverend Edward D. Neil at the first annual meeting of the society on January 1, 1850.

The second edition differs from the first in that it includes four additional pages, which contain a description of Minnesota written by Henry H. Sibley. The last page also has a table showing the "Distances from St. Paul" of some thirty points in the territory. Copies of the first edition are extremely rare; the only ones known are in the posession of the Minnesota Historical Society and the Library of Congress.

DICKSON THE LIBERATOR

An old diary, a few faded manuscripts, and a Spanish placard signed "Montezuma II" are all that remain of a colorful chapter in Minnesota history, the story of a raggle, taggle army which crossed Minnesota from Fond du Lac to Pembina in 1836. Its leader was James Dickson, who called himself Montezuma II" and "The Liberator."

With some sixty followers recruited mostly from the Montreal area, Dickson sailed from Buffalo, New York, for Lake Superior in the summer of 1836. He declared that his purpose was to recruit half-breeds from the Red River colony, lead them to Sante Fe via the Missouri and its tributaries, wrest California from Mexico, and set up an Indian kingdom with himself as monarch.

To this new state, he expected all the prairie and mountain Indians to flock, as well as those tribes about to be removed from the United States. Was this fantastic project his real purpose, or was the expedition in reality directed against the powerful fur-trading company which controlled the Canadian Northwest?

Dickson's strange party went by canoe from Fond du Lac up the St. Louis River route to Sandy Lake, then via the Mississippi to Lake Winnibigoshish and Red Lake.

But Minnesota winter proved to be a formidable enemy. First Dickson's guides deserted; then part of the company turned back; soon a snowstorm obliterated the wagon trail which the party was following; the way was lost; the men were frostbitten. Finally after three months of hardship the "Liberator" and his "army" straggled into Pembina.

Dickson failed to get re-enforcements in the Red River country, and his ill-fated expedition melted away. Some of its members, like Martin and Alexander McLeod, later became prominent early citizens of Minnesota. Others, like their leader, disappeared.

STATE 100 YEARS OLD

"Glorious News! Minnesota Admitted! Telegraphed to Prairie du Chien expressly for the "Pioneer and Democrat." Thus the headlines of a St. Paul newspaper a hundred years ago announced the admission of Minnesota to the Union. The bill of admission was signed by President James Buchanan on May 11, 1858, and the news reached St. Paul on the 13th, rather speedy transmission for the time.

Minnesota's transition from territorial status to statehood was long drawn out and complicated. The enabling act, passed by Congress on February 26, 1857, authorized the election of delegates to a convention to frame a state constitution. The results of this election, held in June, were disputed by both Democrats and Republicans, however, and on July 13, the day set for the assembling of the convention, two groups of delegates claimed the right to meet. The next day two separate conventions began to hold sessions. In the end however, both groups agreed upon a single constitution, which was ratified by popular vote on October 13. At the same election representatives to the national Congress, state officers, and members of the legislature of the future state were chosen.

Although Congress had not admitted Minnesota, the elected state legislature assembled on December 2, 1857, in accordance with a provision of the newly adopted constitution, and proceeded to enact laws and elect two United States senators.

Meanwhile at Washington the bill for Minnesota's admission was delayed because southern senators refused to allow the entrance of another northern state until Kansas was admitted under the Lecompton constitution. Finally both states were given places in the Union; the Minnesota bill was passed by the Senate on April 8 and went up from the House for the president's approval on May 11.

VA Benefit Checks Can Be Forwarded

Must Notify Postoffice of Change of Address

Veterans Administration benefits checks can be forwarded on or after January 1, 1958, if the persons to whom they are mailed have filed regular change of address notices with their local post offices.

Mr. W. H. Carroll, Manager Veterans Administration Center, Fargo, North Dakota, said Public Law 85-171 authorizes the new service.

Previously, a 1936 law prohibited the forwarding of any VA benefits check, and the forwarding of VA pension checks has been banned since 1912.

Carroll said although filing of a proper change of address with the local post office will insure the forwarding of all benefits checks, all beneficiaries are urged to notify VA whenever a change of address is made, so the agency may keep its records current.

THE PROFESSOR

It's not so many years since I played in the Friday Afternoon String Quartet at Professor Johnson's house. I'm the one by the bookshelves, with the violin.

During those sessions, I sometimes wished I were outdoors kicking a football around. Yet if the Professor had told me to go, I would have been disappointed.

Even as a kid, I realized what a good and kind man Mr. Johnson was. We used to see him in Church every Sunday—I don't think he ever missed—and he did so many fine things. When he died, our minister said that he had been truly humble, and therefore truly great.

Our minister is a wonderful man, too. I should know—I've been going to his church all my life . . . Our church!

These then have been the three great influences in my life—the professor, our minister, and my parents. They have placed my feet on the path I hope to follow always.

Now the rest of the way, with God's help, is up to me.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Plans Advance for Centennial Program Here

Robert Lund Gives Details of Visit by Centennial Train

Plans for local participation in the Minnesota Statehood Centennial observance this year were crystallized further at a meeting of the Pennington county Centennial committee at the court house Friday night. About 20 members attended the session, with Herman A. Kjos, chairman, presiding.

Robert J. Lund in charge of arrangements for the Centennial exhibit train which will visit nearly 100 communities in 1958, stated that the train would arrive in Thief River Falls Friday, July 11, shortly before 1 p.m., and will remain here until Saturday noon. The train, he said, is scheduled to come from Hallock to this city by way of Noyes on the Soo Line, and will go from here to Roseau.

Following a discussion of the advisability of undertaking to enter a float or other unit in the Centennial parade in St. Paul May 10, Chairman Kjos was authorized to name a committee to study the proposal, and also to look into the matter of staging a parade as a feature of the celebration in this city August 2 and 3.

A three-man committee also was named to work out details of the program for August 2, which will be followed on the 3rd by the annual Jaycee water carnival. Appointed were Kjos, Mayor O. D. Reich and Supt. Irwin Mickelson.

Another committee was appointed to seek to acquire a typical old one-room school house, which would be placed on permanent exhibition on the fair grounds or in a city park. Named were Glenn Tass, Supt. David [illegible] and Ernest Swanson of Goodridge, and Robert [illegible] of St. Hilaire.

Cliff Bjorkman was named chairman of a committee to solicit the cooperation of local businessmen in connection with special events to be staged during the centennial year.

Carnegie Library Lent 89,287 Books During Past Year

Re-registration Being Made of Borrowers with Aid of New Equipment

The number of books borrowed at the Carnegie public library remained virtually unchanged in 1957, totaling 89,287 volumes, or 101 more than during 1956, it is revealed in the annual report of Miss Frances Shanahan, librarian, completed last week.

A total of 51,669 children's books were borrowed, followed by 19,983 adult fiction and 17,635 volumes of non-fiction.

Books on the library shelves increased from 22,582 at the start of the year to 23,064 on December 31, including 11,921 adult and 11,143 juvenile books. Also received at the library are 121 magazines and seven newspapers.

Following the acquisition recently of a book-charging machine, Miss Shanahan reported, a complete re-registration of borrowers is being made to bring the list up to date.

Under the new arrangement, no books will be lent until the borrower's card has been presented. New cards will be issued as rapidly as the old ones are brought in.

Total operating expenses of the library in 1957 were $17,075, compared to $15,702 in 1956, the report reveals.

High School Rocket Society Conducts Experiments

Members of the Lincoln high school science department's rocket society have had some spectacular successes with their rocket launchings, along with some failures, according to the group's advisor and instructor, Edwin M. Broughton.

A week ago Sunday the group conducted two impressive rocket launchings, in which one of the rockets, a 32-inch affair went out of sight, and was lost, while a smaller missile climbed about 1500 ft.

This Saturday the group was somewhat less successful in their launching attempts because of improper fusing, which caused misfires. Other launchings will be held in the future.

Shown here are two experimental rockets held by James Wendel, left, and Ronald Stordahl, as other members of the society assemble the launcher in a field south of the city.

Land O'Lakes Expands Turkey Processing Facilities in City

Turkey processing facilities in Thief River Falls will be greatly increased by an expansion and modernization program now under way by Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc. Under this program all of the processing operations will be concentrated at the plant located on the Soo Line siding at Nora Street and the airport road. Capacity will be nearly doubled, according to Stuart McLeod, manager of the Thief River Falls branch.

Under construction now by the Ranum Construction Co. of this city is a 27-foot addition along the entire 192 feet of the present building. This addition will be along the east side and the Soo tracks will be moved back to provide the necessary room. The overall dimensions of the enlarged building will be 87x192 feet, and in addition to this a 24-foot receiving dock will be built along the south side.

The plant will be designed for an operation similar to one that has proven very satisfactory at Albert Lea, Mr. McLeod states. It will increase the capacity to 600 birds an hour and will provide the most modern facilities for all of the processing operations. A new, quicker, liquid-freeze process will eliminate discoloration and the much needed additional deep-freeze and cold storage capacity will make possible the complete freezing operation at lower cost. The platform along the Soo tracks will make possible the loading of three cars at one time.

The expanded facilities are made necessary by the increased volume handled in recent years. Operating steadily from August 20 to December 1, a total of 3,700,000 pounds of turkeys were processed in the present plant in 1957, and there were times when the plant could not handle the available supply. Mr. McLeod says. The company has confidence in the future of turkey production in this area. In recent years there has been a steadily increasing demand for northern grown birds even in the southern markets.

The remodeled plant is so designed that it can easily be further expanded if necessary. It will be ready for operation in ample time to handle the 1958 crop. No decision has been reached as yet, Mr. McLeod states, as to how the space in the main building where the processing operation have been handled, will be utilized.

Co. Fair Signs up Grandstand Show for 1958

Mario Shows Signed at St. Paul Session of State Federation

Members of the Pennington county fair board, in attendance last week at the annual convention of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs in the St. Paul Hotel, signed a contract with Mario Shows to present the grandstand show at the fair here next July.

Mario Shows have appeared at the Pennington county fair on numerous occasions in the past. This year the company will also present shows at the fairs at Hallock and Fosston. The Art B. Thomas Shows had been signed previously to present the carnival attractions at the local event.

Representing the fair board at the St. Paul session were James Parkins, Elmer Bratsch, Stuart McLeod, Sig Quam and Secretary J. M. Roche.

Announcement was made at the meeting that as part of the state's Centennial observance, the fairs this year will compete for $5,000 in awards. Twenty-four winners will be selected in eight classifications made according to amount of premiums paid. They will be judged on the effectiveness of telling the Centennial story in all departments of the fairs.

Minnesota's 96 county and district fairs strengthened their financial position in 1957 by boosting income and trimming expenses.

The fairs did a $1,630,941 business last year with income up nearly $50,000 and expenses down $10,000.

Lincoln Debaters Win First Honors in Hallock Event

Lincoln high school debaters, under the tutelage of Norman Arveson, continued their winning ways last week-end when they placed first in the 'A' division at an invitational tournament held in Hallock. Seven Region 8 schools participated, with Ada and Hallock tying for second honors. The Lincoln team will compete Friday and Saturday in a tourney at Cloquet.

Extra-curricular Activities to Be Curbed at Lincoln

More Emphasis to Be Put on Academic Subjects, Says Principal Nelson

More emphasis will be concentrated on academic subjects in Lincoln high school than has been the custom in the past and less school time will be allowed for extra-curricular activities, F. Miles Nelson, principal, announced this week. More time outside of school hours will be spent in practice or rehearsals.

Students are being counseled to drop activities in some cases when it is decided that the student is carrying too many projects. If it is felt that those activities are interfering with the academic output of students, they will be counseled to withdraw from activities that prevent them from doing their best work in regular subjects.

Students who are taking a heavy load of activities are asked to discuss with their parents the dropping of some activities. Students are free to choose those activities which they wish to continue but they will be asked in many cases to drop some.

This is not a direct result of recent developments in the science achievements in the world today, but is the orderly implementation of a policy decided on some time ago, said Nelson.

New Washington and Vocational Schools Dedicated Sunday

A large gathering of residents of this city and surrounding rural areas, numbering well over 1,000 turned out Sunday afternoon for the open house and dedication of the handsome and spacious new Washington elementary school and area vocational school. The visitors were obviously impressed by the complete and thoroughly modern facilities.

Dedication speaker at a program in the Washington auditorium was J. A. Sater, who served as superintendent here while the school expansion program was being developed, and now is head of the Brainerd school system.

Introduced by Dr. M. D. Starekow, president of the local board of education, Mr. Sater stated that Thief River Falls now has not only an excellent elementary school system, but also a high school and post-high school system that is unsurpassed.

Sputnik, he said, has showed that this nation is in a serious situation, and added that we should quit blaming each other and do something about it. The local schools, he stated, are doing their part by developing a guidance system to insure each student getting started in the field for which he is best suited. He also commented on a notable increase here in the number of science students.

The local schools, he said, also have made a good start on a testing program, designed to advance students as rapidly as their abilities warrant.

The program opened with the invocation by Rev. Robert Abbott, following which Supt. Irwin Mickelson called on Dr. Starekow to introduce those seated on the stage, including members of the board of education and school administration. Mrs. Kendall Gustafson, president of the PTA council; Hubert Swanson of Swanson and Wegleitner, architects; Nisson Mandel of Maurice Mandel, Inc., general contractor; Carl Lee, plumbing contractor; L. W. Best, electrical contractor, and W. W. Prichard, who assisted the Mandel company.

Nisson Mandel presented the keys to the buildings to Dr. Starekow, who thanked local citizens for their support of the expansion program, and expressed the hope that they would continue to give their support in the future. The program closed with the benediction by Rev Marvin Carlson.

Coffee and cookies were served following the program in the spacious vocational school cafeteria, where music was provided by the high school orchestra under the direction of James Rolsten.

The visitors who toured the buildings found all the instructors at their regular posts, ready to explain various features of the equipment.

The Washington school, in its functional and attractive layout, provides 12 classrooms, two for each grade, in addition to a kindergarten room, library, auditorium-gymnasium, kitchen and offices.

The area vocational school, which was intergrated with much ingenuity with the adjoining old Washington and Lincoln high school buildings, includes the latest facilities for instruction in automobile and farm mechanics, business training, draftsmanship, carpentry, cosmetology, practical nursing, radio and electronics and welding.

Leon Fleischer, Hackensack, Minn., a guest who made his way through smoke-filled halls to the street, was taken to Bethesda hospital suffering smoke inhalation. His condition was reported not serious.

Floyd Spence, Crookston fireman, suffered a steam burn on an arm as he fought the fire in the boiler room where the blaze started. Spence was treated at a hospital and released.

A waitress in the hotel cafe sounded the alarm when she smelled smoke.

Cliff Hayes, who operates the hotel kitchen, and Kenneth Johnson, a carpenter, ran through the building to make sure everyone had left.

All of those assisted down ladders occupied rooms on the third floor where 17 persons were quartered.

Fire Chief William Herbert estimated loss to the hotel and a newly-opened dress shop on the ground floor at between $40,000 and $50,000.

Penalty on Auto Plates in Effect

6,208 Sets of Car Plates Sold Here to January 10

The office of Chas. I. Richards, deputy register of motor vehicles in this city, sold 6,208 sets of car plates from November 15 thru January 10, when a penalty for late purchase became effective, it was announced today.

Also sold during the period were 3,753 commercial and farm truck plates and 1,561 miscellaneous plates. Richards thanked the public for securing plates early, an average of 100 to 300 plates being issued each day.

A penalty of $1 for late payment was added January 11, to which another dollar will be added January 21 and 50 cents on February 1, making a total penalty of $2.50.

Richards stated that it is illegal for anyone to operate a motor vehicle with 1957 plates after January 1, but if an owner had applied for 1958 plates by that time, he can operate the vehicle until March 1.

Gov. Freeman Has Designated 58 as 'Tree Farm Year'

Governor Orville L. Freeman has named 1958 as Minnesota Tree Farm Year.

In his proclamation, issued at the State Capitol, Governor Freeman pointed to the need for perpetuating and conserving our forest resources through scientific tree farming and wise use.

"Tree Farms," he said, "are one of the best ways to increase the many values attributed to the State's 20 million acres of forest land."

"Today Minnesota has 556 Keep Minnesota Green certified tree farms, located mostly in northeastern Minnesota. Tree farms are one of the soundest investments, both rural and urban, people can make. Such investments are also significant contributions to the future prosperity of the State," he said.

Minnesota's forest products industries is now the State's third largest, providing 50,000 jobs. Forest products harvested annually in the State are valued at nearly 200 million dollars.

Bjertness Chairman of Marshall Co. Board

Sofus Bjertness, commissioner from the 5th district, was elected chairman of the Marshall county board of commissioners at the annual meeting held Tuesday at the Marshall county courthouse in Warren. Mr. Bjertness succeeds Roy Edman, commissioner of the 2nd district. Andrew Kurgen, commissioner from the 4th district, was named vice chairman for 1958.

Ken S. Nelson of Warren was appointed Civil Defense Director for Marshall county with salary and term of service to be discussed further at the next meeting of the board, Mr. Bjertness said.

The term of Archie Eisenrich as weed and seed inspector for Marshall county was extended to 12 months with a salary of $100 per month and mileage. His term is effective January 1 and was changed from nine months in previous years to comply with state requests and correspond with the Kittson county resolution.

County printing bids were let with the Warren Sheaf being designated as the official paper for the county in 1958. The commissioners further resolved to accept the bid of the Stephen Messenger for second publication of the financial statement.

Also approved by the board was a resolution to contribute $300 to the Minnesota Red River Valley Development association to advertise the resources of Marshall county.

Resignation of Arnold J. Ellertson as chairman of the Marshall County Extension committee was accepted and Orville Elseth of Newfolden was elected chairman to fill the vacancy. Mr. Ellertson has decided to devote his time to full-time teaching.

Terms of Mrs. Henry Hoper of Stephen and Andrew Vansickle of Warren expired and they were elected to serve another three-year term. Sofus Bjertness, as chairman of the county board, automatically becomes a member of the extension committee. He appointed Roy Edman to serve as the other county board member on the committee.

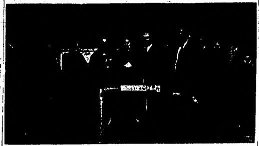
Show Much Interest at School Dedication Exhibits



Here was a typical group of local and area residents who flocked to the area vocational school and Washington elementary school for the dedication held Sunday afternoon.

The group shown here represents a very small percentage of the many people who were greatly impressed by the exhibits at the area vocational school. This picture was taken in the carpentry shop, where C. W. Pope, instructor, explains the exhibit set up by the students in the carpentry class.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

This mild weather we've been having lately (this is Saturday so I don't know what we'll have when this is published) isn't an early spring.

But down in the south, particularly in Florida, they're calling the abnormally chilly weather a lot of names, in addition to "winter."

We've an idea folks up here had better not count on drinking orange juice for their vitamin C next year, seeing as to how so much of the citrus crop was damaged. Prices will probably be sky-high on those commodities.

We can hear that California laugh all the way across the Rockies and the Sierra Nevada!

Those Austin, Minn. rocketeers don't have anything on our local high school science dept. rocket society. The boys shot a 32-in. rocket out of sight Sunday, Jan. 5, but Saturday they didn't do quite as well.

Their propellant is—well, it's a dark secret—but, according to Ed Broughton, Lincoln HS science instructor in charge of the experiments, they expect some terrific results from it at future launchings.

The local boys haven't had any troubles with the humane society, yet.

Speaking of experimenters, there's a fellow west of town a few miles who's building his own airplane. This may sound rather prosaic in the space age but heretofore the only rocket vehicles carrying men were those experimental airplanes built by Bell Aircraft.

This airplane being built in our locality wil carry a man at the phenomenal speed of 120 m.p.h. on a little 65 h.p. engine.

Furthermore, this airplane under construction will be safe to fly. Called the "Skyhopper" it was designed by two aeronautical engineers on the west coast and the original plane of the design has logged over 1000 hours to date.

It's approved under an experimental license by the Civil Aeronautics Administration, so you don't have to worry about it crashing through your roof some fine day.

We're glad to see there are some local experimenters on the stage. They should be given plenty of encouragement to prove that even in this modern day and age all the amazing technical and scientific discoveries don't come from the laboratories of universities and big business concerns.

We think that was an underhanded trick some people did to get rid of North Dakota University's ace goalie, Bob Peters. He was acting in good faith, even tho, he may not have been as pure as the driven snow, as some insist he should be.

Here's hoping that the NDU squad will snow Michigan State under when they appear at the Winter Sports Building on the UND campus Jan. 24-25. Soak 'em, Sioux!

We also hope the Sioux for NDU scalp the Gophers. Old Maroosh is always belly-achin' about something, too, even tho his squads have done OK in WIHC hockey play.

We'll admit to being prejudice. After all, being loyal to one's old Alma Mammy is permitted, isn't it? So long!

Americans now own 54 million cars, or one for every 3 people. In 1929 the total was 23 million, a car for every 5.3 people.

The State Fair of Texas, held in Dallas each October, is the nation's largest. Its 16-day attendance exceeds 2½ million.

East Polk Woman Forger Receives Suspended Term

Fertile Resident Who Passed $2,140 Bad Checks Sentenced in Crookston

Mrs. Ardeen Delores Anderson, Fertile, 27-year-old mother of three, Thursday in Crookston was given a 10-year suspended sentence in the reformatory at Shakopee by District Judge J. H. Sylvestre on a charge of forgery in the second degree.

The judge stayed execution of the sentence on condition that Mrs. Anderson live as a law-abiding citizen and turn herself over to authorities in Clay County who hold a detainer against her on a similar charge.

Judge Sylvestre, reading from a pre-sentence investigation report, said Mrs. Anderson had passed about 100 bogus checks in Polk and Clay counties in Minnesota, Cass and Grand Forks counties in North Dakota.

The judge said that the offenses covered a period of two and one-half years and that the bogus checks totaled about $2,140. He said it did not appear likely that her husband, a school instructor at Fertile, could make restitution on his salary on which the children have priority.

Judge Sylvestre ordered a copy of the transcript of the proceedings sent to the judge who will preside at the woman's next trail scheduled to be held at Moorhead.

Korean Bonus Claims Have Reached 44,355

Applications for the Korean Bonus have passed the 44,000 mark, Lyle E. Kinvig, Minnesota commissioner of veterans affairs, said today.

Of the 44,355 claims received to date at department headquarters in St. Paul, 43,785 applications are from living men and women who served during the Korean conflict and 570 are beneficiary claims filed by widows or other survivors of deceased veterans.

Mr. Kinvig said that 22,101 of the living-veteran claims and 394 of the beneficiary claims have been processed and approved.

When the 1957 Minnesota Legislature appropriated 15 million dollars to pay the bonus, it was estimated that 110,000 claims would be filed. Legal deadline for filing is Dec. 31 of this year. Payments will be made beginning in January, 1959.

Mr. Kinvig urged all veterans who have not yet filed claims to do so immediately through their county service officer.

Under the bonus law, veterans entitled to the Korean service medal will receive $15 a month for each month of overseas and $7.50 for each month of domestic service. Maximum amount to be paid to these persons is $400. Those who served during the Korean conflict but did not receive or become eligible for the Korean service medal will receive $7.50 a month, regardless of whether the service was foreign or domestic, with a maximum of $200.

Optometrists Observing Sight-saving Month

Dr. Arthur A. Tillisch, Sr., Minneapolis, president of the Minnesota Optometric association, today reminded state parents that January has been designated "sight saving month." He asked that this month in particular, attention be given to the care of the children's eyes in Minnesota.

"Few children will complain of seeing poorly," Dr. Tillisch said, "Mostly because they do not know any better. For this reason one out of every four American children has some kind of eye abnormality and yet is not being treated, simply because no one knows he has this defect."

Symptoms that can be checked to determine the probable condition of a child's eyes are as follows, and parents are urged to watch for them. The symptoms include:

Rubs eyes frequently, frowns, attempts to brush away blurr.

Shuts or covers one eye, tilts or thrusts head forward when looking at near or distant objects.

Has difficulty in reading or in other work requiring close use of the eye.

Blinks more than usual, cries often, or is irritable when doing close work.

Stumbles or trips over small objects.

Holds book or small objects close to eyes.

Is very sensitive to light.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

A week ago Sunday a rain and snow storm here coated all streets and side walks with an inch or two with glare ice and the summer weather took care of it, hardly one business place did anything to clear it up. Just a quarter or fifty cents worth of salt could clear this over night and early next morning could be shoveled off.

Not so many years ago a lady slipped on ice in front of the hospital here and broke some bones and made the city and hospital pay the bill. This could be big business for a lawyer or the hospital but a shame for the business places as a whole. Get busy.—A citizen who doesn't have skates.

MANY COUNTIES SHARE AG HONORS

Which are Minnesota's leading agricultural counties? According to 1956 statistics compiled by state and federal market authorities: Becker is a leading county in production of alfalfa and clover seeds (alsike, red and sweet); Blue Earth, Clay, and Freeborn are notable for carrots, cucumbers, green peas, onions, sweet corn; Carlton is our cabbage county; Clearwater and Douglas are top counties in alfalfa and clover seed production; Fillmore leads in production of Timothy seed, Marshall in flax seed, with top place in production of dry field peas; Martin leads our long and impressive corn production parade; Ottertail excels in hay and oats production, also in cattle and calves, sheep and lambs, and is a leading producer of alfalfa and clover seeds; Polk county is tops in barley, all potatoes, sugar beets, all wheat, durum wheat, and "other" spring wheat, a leader in alfalfa and clovers and in dry field peas; Renville leads in production of soybeans for bean use; Roseau in winter wheat; Sherburne in rye; Stearns in number of milk cows and heifers, milk production, hens and pullets, egg production, and number of hogs.

Marshall Co. Tax Payments 3.5 Per Cent Delinquent

Although 1956 taxes payable in 1957 in Marshall county were delinquent by 3.5 per cent, about the same as last year, a total of $129,792.63 more in current taxes was collected this year, according to Mrs. Hannah Odman, deputy Marshall county treasurer. State VFW Gives $300,000 for 'U' M. Cancer Hospital

Thief River Falls Post and Its Auxiliary Unit Shared in Fund Raising

Minnesota Veterans of Foreign Wars and its auxiliary Thursday presented University of Minnesota a check for $300,000 to build a cancer research clinical institute.

The Thief River Falls VFW post and auxiliary unit shared in the fund raising effort.

Rudy Tersch, chairman of the state VFW cancer committee, turned the sum over to University President J. L. Morrill at a luncheon in Coffman Union.

Added to the VFW contribution will be a federal grant of $172,000 for the cancer center.

Construction of the institute, at the corner of SE. Delaware and Harvard streets, is scheduled to start in spring.

It will be used for analysis of the body functions of cancer patients, with research on the effects of the disease and response to various treatments.

Money for the center was raised among 60,000 VFW and auxiliary members in the state through donations and community projects since June 1953.

35 Lincoln School Band Members to Go to Grand Forks

To Attend Band Clinic at University of North Dakota Friday, Jan. 17

An instruction clinic for Minnesota high school band members will be conducted Jan. 17 by the University of North Dakota band department.

District 31 of the Minnesota State High School Music League requested the University band department to conduct the clinic on the campus for the third consecutive year. John E. Howard, band and orchestra director, and Michael F. Polovitz, assistant director, are in charge of clinic arrangements.

John K. Moum, Lincoln high school band director, stated that about 35 local young musicians will attend the clinic.

Other participating high schools include Red Lake Falls, Fisher, Climax, Warren, Alvarado, Crookston and East Grand Forks. Last year 93 Minnesota high school students attended clinic sessions.

The clinic plan has been adopted by the Minnesota State High School Music League as an aid for spring contests and music festivals.

Airplane Crash Suit Is Settled

Case Involved Rev. John O'Toole, TRF Flying Club

The civil suit against Rev. John O'Toole and the Thief River Falls Flying Club was settled out of court Saturday, Kenneth Wendel, president of the club announced here today.

The case grew out of a crash of a club airplane piloted by Rev. O'Toole March 11, 1956, in which Jack Rosen, one of two passengers riding with O'Toole, claimed damages arising from injuries received in the crash.

The case was to have gone to court today but the claim was settled by Rosen's attorneys and those representing the insurance concern with which the local flying club carried liability insurance.

The amount of settlement was not disclosed by the insurance company attorneys but is known to be somewhat less than the amount sought in the suit.

Wendel was notified of the settlement by Robert Wurst, of Rubin and Wurst, attorney for the club.

Hansen Reports to Freeman on Roseau Co. Disaster Area

Criticizes Farm Home Agency for Failure to Provide Needed Loans

Failure of the Farm Home Administration to provide adequate financial assistance following the 1957 crop disaster in northern Minnesota is a factor in the distress of the area, a report to Governor Freeman by Securities Commissioner Arthur Hansen indicates.

Commissioner Hansen, with the assistance of other state departments, directed a survey of farms and businesses in the region centering in Roseau County, where heavy rainfall throughout the season resulted in an almost total crop loss. In his report to the governor he commented bitterly on the policies of the Farm Home administration.

"We encountered people who had been told . . . that they were too well off for one type of loan, but too poor to comply with the standards for another type; so nothing could be done for them." He added that "There is evidence in the area that bankers have made loans to Farm Home Administration clients to prevent their being foreclosed by that federal lending agency."

Hansen reported that long-term credit is a universally recognized need in the area, and that because the banks have already gone to the limit of their ability, federal finance appears necessary.

The survey, which sampled 13 townships, having 407 farms, revealed that the average farmer had no net income in 1957. Effects of the heavy rainfall will be felt next year, as only 11 per cent of the affected acreage has been prepared for next year, primarily because of wet fields.

Emergency employment, he reported, is providing some economic relief. Cooperating to provide employment are a number of state agencies including the Highway Department and the Conservation Department.

$765 Damage in Series of Mishaps

Several Collisions in City Since Thursday

Property damage resulting from a series of accidents in the city since Thursday amounted to approximately $765, police reported here today.

Apparently local drivers have relaxed their vigilance against poor driving conditions since much of the ice on streets has thawed. However, Police Chief Elton Cummings warned, there are many patches of ice remaining on streets here, and drivers should use caution at all times.

Thursday, about 4:35 p. m. Howard A. Krause, city, driving east on E. Third st., collided with Conrad M. Lysne, [illegible], who was going north on Kendall av., at the intersection of the two streets. Damage to the Krause vehicle was $75 and to Lysne's car $70. Lysne was charged with driving too fast for conditions.

A minor accident resulted in $30 to a car driven by Frank Kne, Jr., city, when it was struck by another car driven by Gordon O. Thrane, city, as Thrane turned off E. Third st. onto Markley av. where Thrane had halted at the stop sign. There were no charges. Thrane's car slid into Kne's as Thrane was making the turn, about 10:25 a. m. Saturday.

About 2:55 p. m. Saturday Alice A. Miller, city, collided with Roger E. Hastings at the intersection of Duluth av. and W. Second st. Damage was about $150 to each car. No charges were filed.

About 10:15 a. m. Sunday Joseph J. Rinowski, city, struck a car at the Kendall av.-James st. intersection, causing about $100 to the vehicle driven by Lloyd Arlt, city, and $65 to his own car. No charges were filed.

At 3 p. m. Sunday Loren D. Klopp, city, hit the rear of a station wagon driven by Jeanette A. Walsberg, rt. 5, city, as both cars were driven east on E. Third st. by the Ben Franklin store. Damage to the Klopp car was estimated at $75 and to the Walsberg station wagon, $50. Klopp was also charged with driving too fast for conditions.

Williams, Prowler Hockey Teams Play 5-5 Tie Saturday

Prowlers to Play Grand Forks Redskins Tonight in UND Sports Arena

The Williams Wolves and the Prowlers played to a 5-all tie in a regional high school hockey conference game played on William's outdoor rink on Saturday night.

The Prowlers will meet the powerful Grand Forks Redskins at Grand Forks tonight, with the game played on the ice sheet of the Winters Sports Building on the North Dakota U campus. This will be the first meeting of the season between the two clubs as the previously scheduled game, to have been played here on Dec. 18th, was postponed because of the soft ice conditions. Coach Sergio Gambucci has an all-veteran club returning for this season's campaign of Redskins hockey, and the Grand Forks club has proved to be one of the northwest's best. In a two-game series with the Roseau Rams, the Redskins marked up a win and absorbed a loss.

In Saturday night's game at Williams, the Prowlers had a marked advantage in on-goal shots, with the Williams goalie having twenty-seven stops and Wayne Erickson have ten saves for the locals.

In the first period, the two teams were deadlocked at 2-all, with Eddie Holmes and Dale Wennberg scoring for the Prowlers. The two players exchanged assists on the goals, with Wennberg setting up the Holmes' tally, and Holmes being credited with an assist on Wennberg's marker. Williams scoring was handled by Larry Robberstad and Larry Beadle.

The Prowlers moved into a 4 to 3 lead in the second period as Wes Halvorson notched a pair of goals. Archie Schneider and Wennberg assisted on the first goal, and Wennberg had a stick in on the second tally. Ken Pelper scored for the Wolves in the second period.

Wennberg, assisted by Don [illegible], boosted the Prowler lead to 5 to 3 in the early minutes of the third period; but the Wolves, on goals by Pelper and Beadle, gained a 5-all tie.

Watzke to Aid in Heart Fund Drive

Named City Chairman of February Campaign

Wm. B. Watzke has been appointed chairman of the 1958 Heart Fund drive in Thief River Falls.

A team of community volunteer workers is now assembling to seek local contributions to the Minnesota Heart Association's annual fund appeal Feb. 1-28. L. N. Bennes, is county chairman.

Pennington county's quota was established at $1,600.

Heart disease, chief target of the association's research, education, and community service program, continues to be Minnesota's greatest single cause of death and disability, said Watzke.

"This is everybody's concern until medical science uncovers the answers to heart attacks, high blood pressure, etc. The Heart Fund is really an investment, not a charity, and should be supported by everyone who hopes for longer, healthier lives."

TRF Cagers Lose Two Close Ones

By a margin of a field goal and a free throw, three points, coach Alan Adams' Prowlers dropped a pair of basketball decisions in weekend competition against district 30 opponents. On Friday night, playing at Bagley, the locals lost by a 48 to 46 score; and on Saturday night, on the high school court here, the Prowlers were edged out by the Fosston Greyhounds, 40 to 39.

This week's schedule will find the Prowlers making a Tuesday jaunt to Moorhead where, in a 6:00 P. M. game on the Concordia college fieldhouse court, they meet the Fargo high school Midgets in a preliminary to the Hamline vs. Concordia game. On Friday night the locals travel to Warren for a district conference game against coach Irv St. John's Ponies.

In Friday night's game at Bagley, the Prowlers, with forward Dave Rasmussen, rolling up nine points, held a 15 to 12 lead over the Flyers in the first period. Bagley, with center Reuben Netland leading the attack, and guard Jim Fults setting up the plays, outpointed the Prowlers in the second period, 18 to 7, to take a 30 to 22 lead at the intermission. The Flyers were hard-pressed to hold that lead, for the Prowlers, after trailing by a 30 to 34 score entering the final period, pared that lead to two points, 48 to 46, as the game-ending buzzer sounded.

In a rally-packed game played here Saturday night, the all-veteran Fosston Greyhounds, with five seniors in their starting lineup, edged out the Prowlers, 40 to 39, with center Bill Lindberg dropping in a free throw with 1:11 to play to break a 39-all tie and give the visitors a 40 to 39 lead.

In the remaining seconds of the game, the Prowlers had a pair of shots at the east basket, with Mickey Hanson taking a jump shot from the circle and Jimmy Bennes driving in for left-handed hook shot just at the game's end. Both shots rolled off the rim.

Fosston outpointed the Prowlers, 10 to 7, in the first period, and by a 10 to 6 margin in the second period, to gain a "comfortable" seven-point lead, 20 to 13, at the half.

Opening the third period, Phil Hanson looped in a field goal; Fosston's Walt Olson tallied a free throw; Jim Bennes scored a Prowler point from the gift shot line; and then Rasmussen drove in for a pair of lay-ups; Phil Hanson's free throw knotted the score at 21-all. Bennes, taking a pass from Phil Hanson, scored on a lay-up, and the Prowlers led, 23 to 21, only to have burly Darryl Foster get the evener on a jump shot. The Prowlers, with Phil Hanson hitting on a pair of field goals, and Ken DeLap adding a free throw, moved into a five-point lead, 28 to 23, which Fosston peeled to three points, 29 to 26, just as the period ended.

Center Bill Lindberg, in addition to dropping in the game-winning free throws, provided the Greyhounds with their scoring burst that "caught" the Prowlers for, midway in the final period, the lanky Fosston player looped in three quick field goals, giving Fosston a 36 to 33 lead. The Prowlers, refusing to yield, rallied, with Ken DeLap scoring two field goals and a pair of free throws, to gain a 39 to 36 lead. Foster notched a Fosston free throw, and then, at the 1:52 mark, tied the score with a jump shot.

Third Period Hockey Action

Prowler center Dale Wennberg (3) is in position in front of the Hallock net in the third period of the hockey game here Friday night, awaiting a pass as Dave Bjorkman (11) hustles for the puck. Eddie Holmes (14) circles away from a checking Bear, Neil MacFarlane (4). Other defensive Hallock players are Rod Willardson (6) and Dan Woodard (12). The Prowlers won the game by a 6 to 3 score.

Twenty Years After

From the four points of the compass—north, east, south, and west — will come the members of the 1938 Prowlers state champion basketball team, and with their destination being Minneapolis where, on March 20th, 21st, and 22nd, they will gather, along with their coach George Lee, for their first reunion since winning the prep title twenty years ago.

Says George Lee (who is now associated with the Dallas Athletic Club in Texas) in a letter: "Well it looks like our meeting is set for the 20th anniversary of our Championship. The dates of the 1958 tournament are March 20, 21, & 22. So far all nine members of the squad and Tunny (student manager Glenn Carlson) have stated that they will be there. My wife, son Pepper, and I planning and looking forward to the big event."

Here are the departure points: from California will come Earl Nicholson and Mel Haughom; from Ohio will come Clark Mickelson; from New York will come Reuben Mickelson; from North Dakota will come Gordon Caldis; from Wyoming will come Rev. Perry Pederson; from Minnesota will come Roy Lee, Loren Stadum, and Orville Eide; and from Texas will come coach Lee.

This accounts for nine of the ten members of the tournament squad of the 1938 state champions. Bob Lorentson, co-captain of that courageous band of Prowlers, was a World War II casualty, and it is hoped that Cdr. Adrian Lorentson, an older brother, will be able to attend the get-together in Bob's stead.

It is hoped, too, that Morris Ilye and W. G. (Bill) Claffy, the superintendent and principal of Lincoln high back in those days, will be able to attend.

Concludes Lee in his letter: "Hope this finds you fellows in good health and that you will all be present. Will be wonderful to see the gang that carried me to the top."

Well, George, it will be wonderful to see you and that group of Prowlers, too.

The headquarters for the reunion will be at the Leamington hotel, where Glenn (Tunny) Carlson is making the reservations.

We imagine that the intervening years have made many changes in the physical appearance of the 1938 Prowlers. That squad wasn't very impressive physically, with the boys being, in the main, lean and sinewy. Those Prowlers were reminiscent of a group of greyhounds, and with the same endurance, when they trotted out on the floor. And as competitors, there were none better.

It's a Sew

The re-affirmation of the decision by the NCAA declaring goalie Bob Peters of the North Dakota Sioux hockey club ineligible, following a personal plea before the council by Gordy Caldis, is a blow to the hopes of coach Bob May and his squad.

Peters, a graduate of the Fort Frances hockey ranks, is rated as the top goalie of the WIHL. That's quite an honor for Peters, who is only a sophomore. Peters was declared ineligible for further college play because of accepting a considerable sum of money, for living expenses, from the Detroit Red Wings.

The Sioux in their remaining games, and they have a crucial four-game series with the Minnesota Gophers coming up will have to rely on young Bob Peabody. Peabody, who played his high school hockey with the Grand Forks Redskins, is an untested netminder as far as college competition is concerned. Peabody showed here several times as a member of the Grand Forks sextet, and in each instance he proved to be a stubborn goalie.

Playing with the Sioux, Peabody will have the advantage of two sets of capable blue-liners to harass the oncoming forwards, Bill Steenson, Ed Willems, Don Crough, and Ralph Lyndon will give the sophomore goalie plenty of protection.

Prowlers Tip Hallock Six 6-3

Coach John Matchefts' hockey Prowlers, showing improvement in their play in each game, defeated Ken McFadden's Hallock Polar Bears, 6 to 3, in a well-played regional conference game played here Friday night.

The Prowlers will meet Sergio Gambucci's powerful Grand Forks Redskins Monday night in an interstate tilt at the UND sports arena. The Redskins, with an all-veteran squad, have played the Roseau Rams to even split in a two-game series, with each team winning their "home" game.

Mike Poole won the scoring honors for the Prowlers in Friday night, with the blond center turning in the "hat trick", a three-goal performance. Mike, centering for the line that had Jerry Jorgenson and Arlan Hjelle on the wing, notched his first goal in the first period at the 7:04 mark on an unassisted effort. In the third period, with Don Litstrom getting the assists, Mike beat goalie Harold Soberoski at the 3:06 and 6:12 marks.

Other Prowler goal-getters were Jerry Jorgenson in the second period, Hjelle in the first period, and Dale Wennberg in the third period.

Hallock's counters were marked up by Bill Ryden in the second period, and John Nelson and Neil MacFarlane in the third stanza.

Thieves Score 6 to 2 Win over Crookston; 4th Victory in a Row

Coach Paul Bedard's senior hockey Thieves continue to pace the Northwest Hockey league, defeating the Crookston Pirates at Crookston on Sunday afternoon, 6 to 2, to mark up their fourth straight win and a four-point lead over the runner-up Roseau Cloverleafs.

This week's schedule will find the Thieves playing the Roseau Leafs in an important game at Roseau on Saturday night; and on Sunday afternoon the Grand Forks Jets will meet the locals on the Arena rink.

Sunday's game at Crookston, played before a large crowd of fans, was a well-played tilt. The game was in a 1-all knot entering the second period when the Thieves on goals by Darryl Durgin, Gordy Bjerken and Al Steenerson, tallied three goals in less than five minutes to gain a substantial lead.

Crookston's Jack Stoskopf, who had tallied the Pirates' opening goal in the first period, hit the nets at 0:16 mark of the third period to narrow the Thieves' lead to 4 to 2; but Glenn Carlson and Sid Vras flipped in goals to boost the game score to 6 to 2 for Thieves.

Stoskopf, a former Warroad Warriors and North Dakota Sioux player, turned in a fine game in his first start in a Crookston uniform. Stoskopf, who is also a capable infielder with the Warroad Lakers baseball team, isn't in the Sioux varsity hockey squad this season because of chronic knee injury.

Sportsmen's Club Dinner Tuesday

Marks Start of Annual Membership Campaign

A good turnout of sportsmen and conservationists is expected to attend the membership drive kickoff dinner of the Pennington County Sportsmens club to be held Tuesday evening in the Chamber of Commerce room in the city Auditorium.

Serving will begin at 6 p. m. and will be cafeteria style, club President Ray Johnson stated today. An excellent roast beef dinner and all the trimmings is offered free to all paid-up members of the club.

Those who have not as yet paid their membership fees for 1958 may do so at the door, Johnson said. He emphasized that the dinner meeting Tuesday is open to anyone interested in outdoor sports or conservation and that members and non-members are urged to bring their wives.

A small charge will be made for wives, who are also invited to stay for the short club meeting and movie to be held after serving ends at 8.

Barley to Be Feature of 1958 Winter Shows

A new feature, which will be of special interest to the Barley growers of Northwestern Minnesota, has been added to the crops division for the 1958 Red River Valley Winter Shows at Crookston. The shows will be held February 24-28.

Barley will be featured as a special crop by paying increased cash premiums, using new display boxes, and using special display arrangements. Additional money, amounting to nearly $400, has been secured to pay for the increased premiums and the other features of this part of the crop show.

Barley is fast becoming the most important small grain crop in this area both for feed and malting purposes. With the new advances in technology for pelleting and using barley, livestock growers are becoming aware of the great potential of this crop as a source of high protein feed. This increased emphasis on barley has prompted the Winter Shows board of managers to feature barley in this year's show.

Several business concerns interested in barley production in this area have contributed money for the barley show. The Midwest Barley Improvement association and the Minnesota Brewers' association are supplying the premium money for the malting barley class; Otter Tail power company is supplying the premium money for the feed barley class. The awards for the barley varieties not adequately tested are being provided by the Red River Valley Crops and Soils Association.

The barley show has been divided into two divisions: (1) the open division, and (2) a combined 4-H and FFA division. The open division is for all barley growers, and the 4-H and FFA division is for boys who are now enrolled in a barley project on their home farm.

Each division is divided into three different classes: (1) malting barley, (2) feed barley, and (3) varieties of barley not adequately tested.

The size of the barley sample is one-half bushel and must be from the 1957 crop. Since only field-run samples will be accepted, the samples cannot be hand-picked. All barley samples will become the property of the Red River Valley Crop Show and no samples will be returned.

The cash premiums for the Barley Show are generous and should encourage a lot of exhibitors. In the malting barley class, the first place sample will receive a cash award of $25; the second to the fifth awards will range from $20 to $5. The sixth through the fifteenth awards will receive $4 each, and the sixteenth through the twenty-fifth awards will each receive $2.50.

The first place award in the feed barley class carries a $15 cash award while the second through fifth place awards range from $12 to $3.

In the third class, varieties of barley not adequately tested, the first premium is $10 and the second through the fourth place premiums range from $8 to $4. The fifth place through the tenth place samples will receive $2 each. The premium awards in the 4-H and FFA are also good.

Entry blanks for the barley show and other general information about the forthcoming Winter Shows can be obtained by writing to the Northwest School and Experiment Station, Crookston.

St. Cloud Girl Competes in Wool Garment Contest

Flying to sunny Phoenix, Arizona, January 17 will be "Miss Bo-Peep of the Golden Fleece", brown-eyed Mercedes Eich, St. Cloud. She will compete in the senior division of the national Make-It - Yourself - With - Wool style review, held there January 17-23.

Last November Miss Eich earned her title and first place in the senior division of the state contest, sponsored by the Minnesota Wool Growers Association and the Minnesota Farm Bureau. More than 400 women and girls participated in this year's contest, which was second largest in the nation. This competition encourages more sewing with wool, an important Minnesota agricultural product.

Wool princess Judith Ann Bergland, 15, Scandia, will accompany her to Arizona. Miss Bergland's first place in the junior division earned her a berth in this month's national competition.

F. W. Woolworth Co., sponsors the trips to Phoenix, where both girls will be competing for all expense paid trips to the fashion capitols of the world, via Pan-American World airways.

Veterinarians to Meet in St. Paul January 20 to 22

The drive against epidemic animal diseases which pose a continual threat to Minnesota's $550,000,000.00 livestock and poultry industry, will be further intensified when 600 members of the Minnesota State Veterinary Society meet in St. Paul, January 20-21-22 for their annual convention and seminar.

That Minnesota has not been the victim of disastrous plagues in recent years is due largely to the continual vigilance of both the public and the professional veterinarian in detecting symptoms early and moving fast before an outbreak can get started.

New developments in diagnostic procedures will be discussed at several sessions of the seminar to intensify this campaign against cattle, hog, sheep and poultry diseases.

Hour's Pay Buys More Groceries

Wages Have Increased Faster Than Food Prices

If filling the family market basket puts a strain on the budget, it may be reassuring to know that when Dad brings home the bacon, he brings a lot more than he did in the so-called "good old days."

Wages and salaries have gone up much faster than food prices. The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that an hour's wages will buy more bacon, more bread and more of every other kind of food than it would have back in the late twenties or the depression years of the thirties.

In 1929, for example, an hour's wage in the average factory would buy just under six and a half loaves of bread. Now it will buy 11 loaves. Or an hour's pay in 1929 would have bought 18 ounces of beefsteak. Today it buys almost twice as much — about 34 ounces.

In 1929 Dad could have bought about one and a third pounds of bacon for an hour's pay; in 1939, about two pounds. According to the latest figures, an hour's pay buys three and a half pounds of bacon. If Dad collected his pay in butter, he would be doing almost three times as well as in 1929, or if he collected his pay in milk, he would get almost as much milk.

State Bar Gives Rule on Casualty Losses

More and more frequently questions are arising as to what is deductible as a casualty loss on an income tax return. This may be due to the fact that many Minnesota taxpayers are confronted this year with flood losses, and also due to the fact that some erroneous information has appeared in newspapers and periodicals concerning casualty losses.

According to a bulletin from the Minnesota State Bar association, a casualty loss, to be deductible, must be something sudden, unexpected, or from an unusual cause. For this reason, losses to shore line buildings due to constant battering by waves or winds or damage from gradual erosion or inundation lacks the suddenness and unexpected feature which would otherwise make the casualty loss deductible.

The same is true where trees or shrubbery are destroyed by some type of worm or disease. There is a disagreement among the Courts as to whether buildings destroyed termites are deductible, but the preponderance of authority indicates that here again, due to the lack of suddenness, no casualty loss is permitted. The taxing authorities, of course, take the position that termites cannot give rise to a casualty loss.

However, where buildings or trees are destroyed by a sudden act of nature, such as a tornado, fire or flash flood, a casualty loss becomes deductible. A casualty loss also arises from damages to automobiles resulting from a collision, whether due to the faulty driving of another or the taxpayer, if the damages caused by the taxpayer are not due to a willful act.

With reference to the recent flood losses in Minnesota, in most instances the casualty losses would be deductible for income tax purposes, the Minnesota State Bar association explains. Any recovery from insurance to compensate for such losses will have to be used to offset the amount of loss. The taxing authorities also take the position that any assistance given by the Red Cross or other agencies to repair or replace damaged property reduces the amount of the deductible loss.

Exports from Formosa amount to about $125,000,000 annually, almost half of which is derived from the island's sugar industry.

CHAPTER TWO

The French Pathfinders

The great waterways formed by the drainage of the glacial lakes became the first pathways into Minnesota land for the early French explorers.

The French settled Quebec in 1608. Within fifteen years Samuel de Champlain, their leader, was well acquainted with the area around Quebec and had heard of Lake Superior. In 1634 he sent Jean Nicolet to explore the Great Lakes region. Nicolet went through Lake Huron and into Lake Michigan. He stepped ashore at Green Bay dressed in a Chinese silk gown embroidered with birds and flowers.

First into Minnesota

Two hundred years before Minnesota became a state the first white men appeared in what is now the area of this commonwealth. These were two young Frenchmen, Sieur des Groseilliers and Pierre Radisson. Others may have previously laid eyes on the upper Mississippi, but they did not record what they saw. The two young Frenchmen were the first to write out the story of their travels.

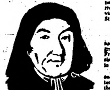
Groseilliers and Radisson were in the Snake river country in what is now eastern Minnesota. They called together the Indians of the area for days of talk and feasting upon moose meat. Five hundred came and they worked together to build a "fort." It was some 600 feet square, built of brush in three days time. The site of this structure is believed to be near Fish lake and the Ann river in Kanabec county.

Father Hennepin's Story

In early 1680 that man who doubtless ranks as the greatest explorer of America was on the Illinois river with a substantial company. This was Robert Cavelier, Sieur de la Salle. He was bound down stream on a great mission. He wished to know more of the upper Mississippi which he had earlier named the Colbert. On January 16, 1680, he despatched three men on this mission of exploration. They were Michael Accault, Antoine Auguelle and Father Louis Hennepin.

Father Hennepin was a good observer and a writer not always too strictly bound by the truth. He penned the first book about the lands of Minnesota. He also made a map. He called the river St. Croix the Tombeau, the Rum river of today the St. Francois and Mille Lacs was Lac Baude. Paddling northward through what is now Lake Pepin one of the Indian braves who joined the party had a crying spell and this interesting body of water became Lac des Pleurs, the lake of tears.

Father Hennepin was the first to see and measure the great falls on the Mississippi which he named for the patron saint of his journey, St. Anthony of Padua. Father Hennepin and his friends made their way north to Mille Lacs where the priest lived some weeks with the Sioux and had many experiences of which he wrote well.



Father Hennepin

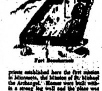
Island from Superior

Sieur du Luth was the first Frenchman to work his way to the west end of Lake Superior, ascend the St. Louis to its falls and then portage overland to eventually reach Mille Lacs. This was in 1679. The next year in further travels he heard there were some "white angels" on the big river. He found Father Hennepin and his party returning down the river. They reversed their canoes, again visited Mille Lacs and returned to the St. Lawrence by way of Green Bay.

Forts on the River

In 1680 Nicholas Perrot built a fort near the foot of Lake Pepin. In a grandiose ceremony he claimed for France all the lands in the upper Mississippi region. He traded for some years in this area.

Another fort was built on the north end of Pepin. Near what is now Frontenac a body of French soldiers, under the command of Sieur de la Perriere, built a trading post in 1727. This was on a point projecting from the west side of the lake. Soldiers, traders and two priests lived at the post. The two Jesuit priests established here the first mission in Minnesota, the Mission of St. Michael the Archangel. Homes were built within a strong log wall and the place was named Fort Beauharnois in honor of the governor of Canada.



Fort Beauharnois

Trouble among the Indians caused all to leave. Three years later Father Louis Guignas returned with some soldiers and rebuilt the fort on higher ground. But the Indians still harassed this outpost. In 1736 two Frenchmen were scalped. The next year the soldiers burned the fort and left, never to return.

Sueur's Copper

Pierre Charles LeSueur was one of the ablest Frenchmen on the upper Mississippi. In 1695 he established a trading post on Prairie Island, six miles below the present community of Hastings. He saw possibilities of trading with the Indians and getting minerals on the Minnesota river. Going to France he obtained rights to trade and mine.

In early 1700 Pierre LeSueur came up the big river from the sea. He possessed a sailing boat, two large canoes and had nineteen men. They entered the Minnesota and proceeded to the Blue Earth river. With winter coming on they built Fort L'Huillier and lived out the cold weather on unsalted buffalo meat. In the spring the men dug up two tons of the blue earth which LeSueur was certain contained copper. They loaded it on their canoes and Le Sueur started for France with his disappointing burden. Nothing more was heard of him and his copper.

The Last of the French

Sieur de la Verendrye was the last of the great French pathfinders. In 1731 he left Canada with three sons and a nephew, La Jemeraye. He wintered at Grand Portage and in the following year built Fort St. Charles in that part of Minnesota known as the Northwest Angle.

The loss of Canada by the French in 1760 closed the story of French exploration in the Minnesota country.

WILSON BROTHERS, AUTOMOTIVE PARTS WHOLESALE DEALER.

As a Thief River Falls business organization Wilson Bros. was 20 years old last year. But the business really is older than that, having started unofficially some years earlier. Sons of Isaac Wilson, Wyandotte township farmer and former county board member, Woodrow and Stanley were exposed to machinery early in life, and developed a liking for it. They also liked motorcycles, and it was motorcycles that got them started in business — down on the farm.

They developed a neighborhood reputation for motorcycle service and soon they were not only repairing them but also rebuilding and trading them. With a litle amateur success to encourage them, and a couple of years in electricity and automotive electricity at Dunwoody trade school, they came to Thief River Falls in 1937, rented the old building (since removed) on First street east of the bridge and started business as the Wilson Brothers Magneto and Motor Cycle Co. By that time they had acquired a Harley-Davidson franchise.

Five years later they moved to their present location off Main at First and specialized in automotive electric and carburation service, and the emphasis was on service. The sale of automotive parts gradually became a more important part of their business and they provided a wholesale parts service for a large area of northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota.

In 1948 the partnership was terminated. Stanley bought Woodrow's interest in the Thief River Falls business and Woodrow took over the Dakota territory, opening a business of his own at Grafton. Since then Stanley has opened a branch at Roseau and Woodrow one at Cavalier. But while their businesses are completely separate they still work closely together in several phases of their operation. And each brother still operates his business as Wilson Brothers.

An indication that they continue as a closely-knit organization in some respects is their recent installation of a teletype service which gives them a private communication service between their four stores and direct connections with Fargo and Twin Cities parts distributors. This is working out very well, Stan says, and is especially useful in speeding up rush orders for unusual items or facilitating the exchange of items not stocked regularly at all stores.

Stan Wilson's Thief River Falls store now has a very complete stock of automotive parts for cars and tractors and also a large stock of garage equipment. It also has a service shop, but the shop now provides a service quite different from that offered 20 years ago. It is a great deal more specialized, doing such things, for instance, as building up worn shafts, a much needed service for heavy equipment.

There now are 14 names on the payroll and the present plant is getting crowded. With an eye to the future Stan now owns a hundred feet on Main. Asked if he had any definite ideas on expansion he said it would come only when needed.

With his son Stanley Jr., better known as Sandy, Stan has one hobby, trapshooting. They both are good and Sandy has local, regional, state and national trophies to prove it.

"If we do our best; if we do not magnify trifling troubles; if we look resolutely, I will not say at the bright side of things, but at things as they really are; if we avail ourselves of the manifold blessings which surround us, we can not but feel that life is a glorious inheritance."

Weather Controls

Hereabouts we have not complained because of the lack of snow, but in some parts of the country snow is tremendously important to the natives and their ability to pay their bills. In New England, for instance, ski resorts are reporting a serious crop failure because there is no snow. The loss of traffic through the holiday season reduced their winter harvest up to a third of its potential. One area reported a loss of a half a million dollars in receipts because of the late winter —or is it an early spring.

Down at the southern end of our Atlantic coast the farmers of frosty Florida have been trying to salvage a part of a citrus crop that had been damaged by unseasonably cold weather. In some areas the chill ruined up to 50 per cent of what had been predicted would be a record harvest.

Scientists now are talking about the possibility of controlled weather, and maybe weather controls are no more fantastic than predicted travel to the moon. But while we are becoming less skeptical about the possibility that our scientists may perfect such controls, we still remain extremely doubtful about the ability of any future generation to control the controls satisfactorily. Weather control would have to be a responsibility of the government, and what a political mess it would be with the politicians demanding that all of the conflicting interests of their constituents be satisfied.

Fortunately weather control and trips to the moon are possibilities in which we have no personal interest.

Higher Education

President J. L. Morrill of the University of Minnesota last week told a legislative interim committee on higher education that Minnesota's five state colleges should be placed under the control of the University. The need for a reorganization of the state's system of higher education has long been recognized. An approach to this problem, based on the best interests of the state as a whole, probably could result in a greatly improved, high standard system, at substantially less cost.

It is interesting to note, however, that President Morrill qualified his recommendation with the suggestion that such a change be made only with the approval of the communities in which these schools are located. [illegible] that the [illegible] these communities have certain vested rights in our state schools.

This suggestion points up one of the main causes for the shortcomings of our present schools, the state colleges and the University. Their operation is geared too closely to the economic welfare of the cities of which they are a part, and not enough to the overall needs of higher education they are intended to serve.

And there is another angle to this proposal that has bothered legislators in previous sessions, and that is the independent status of the University from the standpoint of public finance. Because of powers conferred upon it by the state Constitution the University is not subject to the legislative and executive controls that these branches exercise over other state activities. To a large extent the University is an empire unto itself and this fact should be taken into consideration before its domain is extended.

Under their present organization the first objective of all of these schools has been to grow large. Minneapolis, understandably, wants the University to have the largest enrollment of any school in the world. On a smaller scale, that is the top objective of the members of the resident board that directs the five state colleges. The question of reorganization must be considered solely from the standpoint of the best interest of all of the people of Minnesota.

"Stern Tests"

President Eisenhower made a good presentation of the problems with which we are confronted, in his State of the Union address Thursday. The information he presented was factual. His approach to the difficulties we face was calm. And while he called for a strengthening of our defenses, his appeal was for peace. This appeal he addressed to all of the peoples of the world. We are sure his message will meet with a favorable reaction by the people of all nations.

Here at home the item of his eight-point program that deserves greatest emphasis is his urgent appeal for "stern tests of priority" to all expenditures in order that necessary increases in security expenditures may be met out of current revenues. This proposal to reduce expenditures on "less essential military programs and installations, postponing some new civilian programs, transferring some to the states, and curtailing or eliminating others," will not be popular among the many pressure groups that are clamoring for appropriations for their special projects and programs.

These selfish and short-sighted pressure groups are the No. 1 enemies of our country today.

Our enemies on the outside have no delusions about their ability to conquer us by force. Their hope is that we will destroy ourselves by the mismanagement of our own economy.

The President's request for increased expenditures that will make us militarily strong will meet with little opposition. His suggestions for the economies that will keep our nation financially strong and solvent will receive much lip-service approval from the politicians but little actual support.

It is to be hoped that President Eisenhower will back his appeal for a balanced budget by vigorous use of his veto power.

Joe Louis' Income Tax

During his 17-year career as a fighter Joe Louis is said to have earned more than four million dollars, of which he still owes the government more than a million dollars. He now has settled his tax claim by agreeing to pay $20,000 in back staxes a year. In 50 years he will have most of it paid.

We harbor no ill will toward the former champion for his failure to pay his fair share of the cost of government. Without knowing anything about the facts we are willing to absolve him of any conniving to defraud. We are willing to write him off as one who just didn't know better, and that probably is the reason for the easy out.

But in the background there must be some smart fellow who did know better and who probably shared in the saving that Joe Louis enjoyed by not paying his taxes. And some responsible government officials must have been aware of the shortages in such substantial amounts.

Obviously a fraud was perpetrated and it is difficult to understand the leniency of the government in this case involving a million dollars when it is common practice to exact heavy penalties against tax dodgers who fail to pay much smaller amounts.

Another Hunger

(New York Times)

All of us know what it is to be pleasantly hungry in the physical sense. Hunger is, by and large, a healthy thing in our consciousness. We welcome it as a natural and normal thing and actually deplore a "loss of appetite."

Too often, perhaps, we are unaware of the fact that there can be another and a deeper hunger. This is the hunger of the mind and spirit. It is the need to be nourished by affection and understanding, the pang of feeling that such nourishment cannot be had. It is the need to have occasion, once more, to laugh and to sing, to hope and to be imbued with the sense of accomplishment.

Many of our Neediest cases represent this deeper hunger. They are often not in physical want. What they require is sustenance of the spirit that can come only from human contacts. It is not just a matter of providing a certain amount of money to meet a pressing situation. It is rather a matter of providing the evidence that other persons, as persons, really care.

The healing influence of this demonstration of concern and affection can go far beyond meeting an immediate physical need. It can give hope to those who despair, comfort to those who mourn, the will to live to those who have found life too burdensome. The deeper hunger can be satisfied. Those of us who have known it cannot be callous to others in need. This is another reason to give to the Neediest.

THIS WEEK

—In Washington

With

Clinton Davidson

Acapulco, Mexico —This column is being written from Acapulco, one of the most beautiful and fastest growing towns on the North American continent.

It is helpful to get away from the tensions of Washington for a few days and to get a fresh view of a troubled world from a spot where those troubles seem somehow to be far, far away.

Probably no two cities on this continent are more widely different than Washington and Acapulco, yet by air they are only a few hours apart. You can have lunch in Washington and dinner in Acapulco.

Here in Acapulco we find visible evidence of the part fast, modern transportation has played in bringing an exciting vacation place available within the two weeks time most of us have to "get away from it all" for a few days.

I came on a "Do As You Please" vacation arranged by Happiness Tours, Inc., on which all expenses are paid in advance. I understand such arrangements can be made through any travel agency. I have had two weeks of happiness.

Twenty years ago, this was a sleepy little Mexican fishing village overlooking the peaceful expanse that gave the ocean its name—Pacific. Hotels and apartments were unknown. Today Acapulco has 131 modern hotels and 81 apartment houses. Dozens of new buildings are going up.

Its rapid growth is due partly to actions of U.S. and Mexican air transportation agencies that have linked it with all parts of the world. The climate is pleasantly tropical even in mid-winter, and low scale of accommodations make it an ideal vacation place.

Despite its remoteness from Washington, transportation people I talked with credit the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board with a fine spirit of cooperation in developing travel between North and Central America.

Seven major airlines, including four American, carry passengers into Mexico City from U.S. points that include New York, Washington, New Orleans, Miami, Houston and Los Angeles. The flight from Mexico City to Acapulco by Mexico's Aerovias takes only an hour, over mountains capped by snow the year 'round.

It may seem a little surprising in the tropical setting of Acapulco to hear English spoken everywhere you go, or the fact that most of the visitors here are from the United States. You can choose between American and Mexican foods, both appetizingly prepared.

The costs here are reasonable. You can get an excellent room and meals here for less than the cost of a room alone in most Southern U.S. resorts. Other costs are in proportion. The boy who carries your bag to your room is pleased with a tip of one peso—8 cents.

You choose your own pleasures. The fishing is world famous, and so are the wide, sandy beaches bathed by the warm waters of the Pacific. Night clubs and other entertainments are plentiful. The scenery from atop the mountain ridge on which Acapulco is located is breath-taking.

If you like to just loaf and take it easy, as I do, a three hour trip on a large sail boat provides the most interesting sight-seeing trip I have ever taken, at a cost of only $3.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—I have a 100 percent disability rating from VA. Does this mean I could receive VA outpatient treatment for any ailment I might have?

A—No. You may receive outpatient care only for the disability or disabilities which have been adjudged service-connected. Your notification from VA lists those specific conditions.

Q—I am considering paying GI insurance premiums once a year in advance. What if I were to die shortly after making my yearly advance payment? Would that money be lost?

A—No. VA would refund to your beneficiaries any money which hasn't been applied to premium payments actually due.

Q—I am a World War II veteran and I live in a house I bought with a GI loan. If I were forced to dispose of it after July 25, 1958, for some compelling reason such as health or job transfer, could I get my GI entitlement reinstated?

A—Yes, so long as VA would be relieved of its guarantee liability. You then would be eligible for another GI loan until January 31, 1965, even though the World War II GI loan deadline would have passed.

Q—I am the father of a deceased World War II veteran, receiving monthly payments under the Survivor Benefits law. In computing my annual income to determine whether I will remain eligible for the payments, do I include just my net take-home pay or my gross wages including various deductions? I have a small part-time job.

A—You must include your gross salary, including money deducted for such items as taxes and retirement.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

I am sure that a high proportion of the readers of this column are,—like the Freeman family,—the owners of a home with a mortgage. Without a system of mortgages very few families would be able to own their homes. It make good sense to us that, instead of having to wait until we can save up enough money to pay for the total cost of a home, we can purchase one while our families are still young, and pay for it while we are living in and enjoying it.

Individual and Government Debt

In some respects, borrowing by individuals is like borrowing by governmental units. As individuals we recognize the advantage of going into debt for a valuable capital investment like a home;—but we also know that it is unwise to go into debt to pay for ordinary living expenses. Except for serious and unusual emergencies, most of us try to keep our current living expenses within our current incomes.

This general principle is likewise true in government. A practice of borrowing to cover ordinary current operating expenses would be unsound. (An emergency or disaster may be so serious that borrowing becomes necessary to cover current expenses, but these involve extraordinary rather than ordinary costs.)

On the other hand, governments, like individuals, have found it wise and useful to go into debt in order to make sound capital improvements. Very few school districts would save up enough money in advance to pay for the construction of a school building. Instead, they borrow money by selling bonds, build the school house, and pay for it while is being used. The taxpayers who are benefitting from the new school building pay for it over the period of the bond issue. We follow the same practice in building roads and bridges and office buildings.

Minnesota's Debt

Thus the size of our debt increases with the size of the building program we undertake. During 1958 we expect to build roads and bridges that will be used for generations. It would be unfair and absurd to expect the taxpayers of 1958 to pay the entire cost. Instead we borrow money to pay for them by issuing bonds. And over the years ahead, money from the gasoline tax paid by those who use these roads and bridges will go to repay the bonds.

New buildings for the Institute of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota will result in benefits to farmers in the years ahead, —and those who benefit will likewise help to pay for them.

Debt Increases

The State Treasurer's year-end repor shows that the Minnesota state government indebtedness as of the end of 1957 was nearly $30 million greater than a year ago. More than $8¼ million of this increase was due to bonds issued for University, State College, and State buildings. And $12 million of this increase was due to trunk highway bonds that will be liquidated from gas tax and auto license fee receipts.

Under current operations, the only substantial amount listed in the report is called the income tax fund deficiency, and results from the fact that payments to schools out of the income tax fund are made early in the year, before the tax is collected on April 15th. This amount is not debt in the ordinary sense of the word. The money paid to the schools is taken out of our invested treasurer's cash fund, and will be replaced in that fund as income tax collections come in.

SUNNY SOUTH CAME NORTH FOR THE WINTER

Morris Tribune's Barbara Brown, ala Florida publicity, dressed in a becoming bathing suit and reclined, ala Caribbean advertisements, under a tree to receive from a sweltering Santa a combination birth-an-Christmas present. . . . Not only golf greeted Christmas at Sleepy Eye, but Bermuda shorts, no less. . . . At Ortonville, in mid-state, and at Greenbush, 'way up north, grain growers who had been stymied by moisture, did Holiday combining. . . . Most unusual, and gracious, Yule gift was perhaps that publicity made by his employers to "Turncoat" Tenneson, the unfortunate GI who crumbled a bit under red abuse, and announcing his forthcoming marriage, described their Christmas gift to him as the everyday monicker DICK in place of all the less complimentary things Dick Tenneson has been called.

Lt. Charles Wilkes, commanding a Naval expedition to the South Seas and Pacific Ocean, on Jan. 19, 1840 discovered a land mass which is now known as the continent of Antarctica.

Lincoln School Courses Topic January 27th

Laymen-Faculty Set First Meeting in School Auditorium

The first of a series of Lincoln high school lay-faculty discussion meetings will be held Monday evening, January 27, at 8 o'clock p.m. according to an announcement today by Paul E. Anderson, high school director. It is planned to hold several such meetings during January and February. The coming meeting will be held in the Lincoln high school auditorium as the pilot meeting. The purposes, the discussion topics, and the manner in which effective participation can be secured will be outlined at that meeting.

Mr. Anderson stated that during the last school term such meetings were held and proved popular and beneficial to the Thief River Falls education system. He said, "Parents and teachers working together in a group, exchanging ideas and experiences on school problems, will result in a better understanding between each other. More shaking of hands and less shaking of heads always engenders respect, confidence and friendliness."

Such topics as the following will be discussed at the meetings: Should more science and mathematics classes be offered in Lincoln high school? Should these courses be required of all students? Should students be required to take a heavier subject load? Should Lincoln high school offer a summer school session? Should the school day be lengthened to provide for a seventh period? Anderson said that these are but a few of the many topics which could be studied by the groups. He urged, however, that the participants introduce topics in which they might be interested.

Anderson also stated, "It must be recognized that the school cannot go far toward the solution of many of its problems without the active participation of those who pay the school's costs. It is important that a large number of school lay-people attend the January 27 evening meeting and express their opinion on how Lincoln high school can improve its education program."

Dairy Day Group to Hear Conlon at Meeting Jan. 23

Association to Elect Six Directors at Annual Meeting in Auditorium

The annual meeting of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsor of Dairy Day held each June in Thief River Falls, will be held in the municipal Auditorium next Thursday afternoon, January 23, at 2 o'clock, it was announced today by Stuart McLeod, president.

McLeod added that the guest speaker will be Lew Conlon, manager of the Minnesota dairy industry committee and originator of Dairy Day. In addition, the official movies of the 1957 event will be given their first showing.

Six directors will be elected, those whose terms are expiring this year including L. A. Ihle and J. M. Roche, Thief River Falls; Irving Meade, Roseau; Robert Nelson, Hallock; Clifford Skime, Roseau; and Chester Traaseth, Bagley.

A dairy lunch will be served at the close of the meeting.

3 H.S. Teachers Tell of Growing Interest in Science Courses

Three Lincoln high school faculty members, instructors in the science department, reported on their problems and steps that are being taken to increase student interest in the solid subjects at the Rotary luncheon Monday noon. In recent years there has been a substantial gain in the number of students enrolled in the science classes, they agreed.

Lawrence Brown, chemistry and physics instructor, said the school has good laboratory equipment. He expressed the belief that more practical chemistry and physics should be required, giving students an understanding of at least such commonplace appliances as radio, television, and refrigeration. More parental guidance is needed in the selection of courses, he said.

Charles Simonson, biology instructor, said there are six classes in this department at the present time, with only two of the six offering courses that would meet college entrance requirements. An interesting recent development, he reported, is the organization of a student science club in which there has been encouraging interest and which has been helpful in stimulating interest in science courses.

Edwin Broughton, physics instructor, told of interesting experiments by local students in rocket launching. A number of students have formed a rocket club, in no way connected with their school activities, but are proceeding under Mr. Broughton's direction. He recognized some danger in such experiments, but he felt they were helpful in stimulating interest in the school science courses.

The speakers were introduced by Paul Anderson, director of secondary education.

Two other boy students were each fined $6.50 and costs on charges of smoking cigarets.

Board Arranges for Future Speakers for Baccalaureate

New Road Fund Split to Give TRF $35,090, Zimmerman Reveals

Apportionment of $7,286,074 to 58 Minnesota communities for street construction and maintenance this year was announced Tuesday by State Highway Commissioner L. P. Zimmerman.

The funds are the first direct aid to villages and cities of more than 5,000 population and are the result of laws growing out of passage of Amendment No. 2 in the November election of 1956. Thief River Falls will receive $35,090 all to be used for construction.

The state highway department will retain responsibility for construction and maintenance, as they have in the past, on streets which are on the Minnesota trunk highway system. The new funds may be used on a total, 921 miles of other major arteries in the communities that have been designated as municipal state aid streets and are not a part of any trunk highway. These streets have been designated jointly by the highway department and the governing bodies of the communities.

The funds apportioned represent the stipulated nine per cent of the new road user fund, which is derived entirely from gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license fees. Under the new laws, the fund will be distributed at the start of each year.

The apportionment was based 50 per cent on community population and 50 per cent on needs of the streets approved as major arteries under the new municipal state system.

Allotments to other communities in this area include Crookston, $41,210 Bemidji, $50,790; Detroit Lakes, $20,846; East Grand Forks, $21,353; and Fergus Falls, $70,015.

Business Area Canvass for Polio Starts

Blue Crutch Sale Held Last Saturday Brings in $116.01

Solicitation in the Thief River Falls business district for the 1958 polio fund campaign got under way Monday with some 30 workers making their rounds, Richard G. Mabey, drive chairman, announced.

The Mothers' March on Polio will be conducted in the residential areas of the city Wednesday evening, January 29, under the direction of Mrs. Harold Rasmussen.

The first phase of the campaign, the Blue Crutch sale, was held Saturday with Mrs. John W. Olson in charge, and netted $116.01. This total, said Mrs. Olson, was considerably below that of the two preceding years due mainly to the fact that fewer solicitors were in the field.

Blighting effects of polio are marring the lives of tens of thousands of children and young people in this country, and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis estimates that one out of three sufferers could benefit from application of modern techniques of rehabilitation.

If the money can be raised for bringing this new expert knowledge to the polio patient of past years, March of Dimes spokesmen point out, many a human life will be transformed from mere helpless survival to self-reliance, new dignity and usefulness.

The theme of the 1958 March of Dimes has therefore been announced as "Survival is not Enough."

Another objective of the March of Dimes is to finance the training of scientists, doctors and therapists in the care of the disabled. The organization has [illegible] 7,000 men and women in the field of polio and related illnesses, but the shortage of skilled hands is still acute.

Coinciding with the opening of the 1958 fund-raising drive, the National Foundation celebrated its 20th anniversary on Jan. 3.

In the 20-year period it has not only sponsored the research that led to creation of the Salk Vaccine but also financed the care of 325,000 polio patients.

Ten Offenders in Court on Monday

Sheriff Has Three Cases and Highway Patrol Two

Monday's municipal court session was a relatively quiet affair with only 10 cases, all involving various minor infractions of the law, appearing before Judge H. O. Chommie.

Three cases were brought by Sheriff Charles Richards: Kermit Swaleson, Oklee, pleaded guilty to possession of beer by a minor and was sentenced to 15 days in jail, suspended.

Also, two juveniles pleaded guilty to smoking on city streets, on a complaint brought by school authorities. Each youth was fined $6.50 plus $3.50 costs.

The highway patrol had two cases, one of which was a trial following a plea by Eldon Moe, Rt. 2, city, of not guilty to a charge of making a left turn when not safe to do so. Moe was found guilty and fined $10 plus $4 costs.

The other patrol case was that of Mrs. Jean Franklin, who pleaded guilty to driving without a license and was fined $25, of which $15 was suspended, the balance plus $3.50 costs paid.

Damaged Plane Is Ordered Repaired by TRF Flying Club

Board of Directors Acts on Other Matters Also at Session Wednesday Night

Several decisions affecting the operation of the Thief River Falls Flying Club were reached at a meeting of the club's board of directors held Wednesday evening at the airport. President Kenneth Wendel presided with all five directors present.

The meeting was the first business session held by the board of directors since settlement of the Rosen case last week. All actions of the board at the meeting Wednesday concerned matters pending from past meetings, deferred until settlement of the lawsuit.

Actions taken concerned:

Setting of liability in the crash-landing of the club's Aeronca Champion early last November, when about $450 damage was sustained to the craft. The damage was declared to have been the result of pilot error leading to the crash.

Passed a resolution calling for immediate repair of the damaged airplane on receipt of parts ordered, with Elwood Ehrenstrom to handle the job.

Passed a resolution calling for all members delinquent in paying special club assessments to be named as honorary club members without voting rights or flight privileges, with all privileges to be restored to such members upon payment of back assessments. Final decision on this resolution depends on a vote of entire club at the Feb. 12 general meeting.

Passed a resolution, to be given to the city airport commission for presentation to the city council, calling for formal dedication of the municipal airport during Minnesota's centennial year.

Extension Home Leaders to Meet

Will Convene at Court House January 23 and 24

How Pennington county families can improve their diets through use of a variety of protein foods will be the subject of a lesson for local leaders of extension home groups Thursday and Friday, January 23 and 24, at 1:00 p.m. in the meeting room of the courthouse in Thief River Falls, County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk stated today.

Grace Brill, extension nutritionist at the University of Minnesota, will conduct the lesson.

In research on diets of older women conducted recently by University of Minnesota home economists, it was found that only a third of the women studied had as much protein as recommended. Miss Brill will emphasize the importance of including enough protein each day for good health. She will compare costs and quality of various protein foods for family meals.

Local leaders will present the lesson, "Protein in Everyday Meals," to their own groups during January and February.

Allotment Farms May Join in Reserve Plan

Farmers in Pennington county might well benefit from opportunities offered through the Soil Bank's acreage reserve program for spring-planted crops, Oscar J. Houske, chairman of the Pennington Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, advised today.

Any farmer who has an "old farm" acreage allotment for wheat, can put any part of these "allotment" acres in the program, Chairman Houske explained. He pointed out that in the case of wheat producers, they must be farmers who have grown spring wheat in any one of the past 3 years.

Only farmers who can qualify as spring wheat producers will be permitted to put wheat allotment acres in the program at this time. Farmers who have acreage allotments for the first time in 1958—so called new farm allotments—are not eligible to participate.

Farmers who want to take part in the program—under which they withhold allotment acres from production in return for a payment designed to maintain net farm income on that land—have to sign an agreement with their county ASC committee specifically designating the land on their farm to be put in the acreage reserve. Land designated for the program must be cropland that could produce in 1958 the eligible crop for which allotment acreage is put in the program, and it must have produced a crop during one of the past 5 years.

Last Rites Are Conducted For Otto Anderson

Funeral services for Otto Anderson of Gatzke were conducted Monday, January 13, at the United Lutheran church in Gatzke with Rev. E. G. Bagley officiating. Interment was made in the church cemetery. Mr. Anderson passed away January 10 at the Roseau hospital at the age of 72 years.

Otto Anderson was born October 2, 1885 in Norway where he was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith and grew to manhood. At the age of 17 years he came to the United States and settled in Reynolds, N. D. and later moved to Grand Forks.

He was united in marriage to Miss Ida Emma Stark on July 27, 1911 in Grand Forks. Following their marriage they moved to Minneapolis where they resided until 1915 when they returned to Grand Forks. He was engaged as a building contractor and in 1937 they moved to Moose River township, Marshall county where they operated a farm and where he made his home until the time of his death.

Survivors include his wife, Ida; one daughter, Mrs. Edwin Strong (Hilda) of Alvarado; one son, Roy G. Anderson of Gatzke; five grandchildren; two sisters and four brothers. He was preceded in death by two daughters.

Farmers Reminded to File Tax Return

Estimated Income Tax Returns Due This Week

District Director of Internal Revenue A. R. Knox today reminded farmers of this area that Wednesday, January 15, was the last day for filing their estimated federal income tax return for the year 1957. Any farmer who was required to file an estimate and did not do so, must file his final return on or before February 15.

Knox pointed out that those farmers who filed an estimated return on January 15 and paid the tax due thereon have until April 15 to file their final return and pay any balance of tax due.

Knox pointed out that this option is available to farmers only. The tax law defines a farmer as one who derives two-thirds or more of his gross income from farming. He advised farmers that if they filed a federal income tax return last year, the necessary forms for this year have been mailed to them. For those who did not file, or for some other reason did not receive their forms in the mail, blank forms may be obtained from the nearest Internal Revenue Service office or from local post offices or banks.

Ray Johnsons to Go to Convention in Kansas City

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson will leave the city this weekend to attend a merchandise show for Western Auto Associate Stores in Kansas City, Mo.

The Kansas City show is one of 15 being held throughout the U. S. for the more than 3,600 home-owned and operated Western Auto Associate Stores.

Blue Ribbon Mavie 4-H Club Gets Tribute at Farm and Home Week

The Mavie 4-H club of Pennington county shared honors with eleven other clubs which were represented at the short course given at the University of Minnesota this week. The special 4-H section was held on Tuesday, January 14, and Mrs. George Breznay, adult leader of the Mavie club, and president of the 4-H council, attended, according to County Agent Paul Stolmaschuk.

The blue ribbon clubs represented were selected from over 2,000 of Minnesotas 4-H clubs. Mrs. Breznay reported on the activities and participation in community program of the Mavie club. She was one of four leaders giving a complete report about club activities.

In addition to the reports by 4-H leaders, state 4-H staff members and University faculty members participated in Tuesday's program. Adult and junior 4-H leaders from Chisago county presented a symposium on 4-H work in that county.

Sherwood Berg, head of the University economics department addressed the 4-H assembly held in the campus auditorium. His topic was "Spreading the 4-H Influence". He stated that 4-H was not only building better citizens but promoting exchange of ideas internationally through the IFYE program. This exchange is essential in promoting better understanding among nations.

Leonard Harkness, state 4-H leader and Stanley Meinen, assistant state 4-H leader presided at the program. F. W. Stohr Jr. told the clubs about the importance of commemorating the Centennial year and ways and means of doing this through 4-H club programs.

Jaycee Column

Contributed

Writing as a Jaycee committee chairman, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Thief River Falls Times and other news agencies in our city for the wonderful job they do in helping the Jaycees to publicize the various civic projects which we conduct.

At the same time I extend an invitation to all to listen to a special radio station program over KTRF next Sunday afternoon, January 19. At least nine of our local Jaycees will appear on this program to give a short review of various projects which the Jaycees have conducted in the past year.

Another appearance of interest will be our president, N. H. Kortuem, who will appear on the Fargo Television Station in a State Jaycee sponsored program. This will also be on Sunday afternoon. The reason for all of this activity is that January 19, the first day of National Jaycee Week.

We have just completed a nominating campaign for our outstanding young man of the year, and I understand that several nominations have been made. Our announcement of the award winner; however, will be postponed until the evening of our Boss-Employee Banquet which will be held Thursday evening, February 6.

On the 20th of January, next Monday, a large committee of Jaycees will be out selling tickets for our Boss-Employee Banquet. We feel quite fortunate in having Governor Orville Freeman as our feature speaker for that evening, and I want to make it clear right now that this banquet is not limited to Jaycees and their bosses only.

We look on this affair as our way of telling the Jaycee story to as many people as possible. We want other young men of this community to belong with us and take as much interest as we do in the betterment and improvement of our community.

We also want our bosses and other employers too, to know that the Jaycees are here to make Thief River Falls a better place in which to live.

In closing this letter, I invite all young men and their employers in Thief River Falls and surrounding area, and all young men that are self-employed, too, to attend our Boss-Employee Banquet on February 6. Serving will start at six-thirty sharp at the American Legion Club.

WHEREAS, this organization of young men through projects of community betterment is building leadership within its ranks for the future of our city,

THEREFORE, I Dr. Orion D. Belch, Mayor of the City of Thief River Falls do hereby proclaim the week of January 19-26, 1958 as

Roseau Six Faces Prowlers Friday; Locals Bow to GF

Coach Sergio Gambucci's veteran Grand Forks Redskins hockey club, marking up their sixth win of the season defeated the Prowlers, 4 to 3, in a well and clean played game at the UND winter sports building in Grand Forks on Monday night.

Coach John Matchefts' Prowlers will engage in one of the "climax" games this week when, on Friday night, they meet coach Oscar Almquist's regional champion Roseau Rams on the Arena rink. A preliminary game, with the face-off at 6:45 P. M. between the 'B' teams of the two schools will precede the varsity clash. The varsity tilt will face-off at 8:00 P. M.

Monday night's game at Grand Forks found the Redskins taking an early lead when Warren Stokes, on a screened shot from 15-feet out, beat goalie Neil Carlson at the 5:26 mark. And when Pat Keeley, on an assist from Jack Muus, tallied at 13:20, coach Gambucci's club had a 2 to 0 lead. The Prowlers entered the scoring column at the 14:14 mark when Mike Poole, following a melee in front of the Redskins' net, poked home a rebound. Jerry Jorgenson and Wes Halvorson were in on the assists.

The Redskins boosted their lead to 4 to 1 in the second period when Jerry Wentz, on a solo effort at 9:58; and Art Beisecker, tallied. Dale Wennberg, who with Wentz assisting at 12:07, played a fine all-round game, flipped in a high shot that eluded goalie Kent Palm at the 12:30 mark, to narrow the Grand Forks lead to 4 to 2 as the period ended.

In the third period, which was the best of the contest and the most evenly-played, the Prowlers, in the early moments, with Mike Poole flashing through the Redskins defense for a solo goal at 1:27, made a strong bid to draw even with Grand Forks. Poole's goal peeled the Grand Forks' lead to 4 to 3, but the the Prowlers, although making numerous rushes, were not able to tally the equalizer, and the Redskins skated off the ice with a deserved 4 to 3 victory.

Jack McGill: Goalie

Over the years, and we date back to the days when Bill Bennett played in the nets for that Thief River Falls team that won the Minnesota state amateur hockey title, we have watched with a critical, and sometimes jaundiced eye, numerous goalies perform. There have been some great ones, but in our opinion the greatest of all has been, or is, Jack McGill, the goalie for the senior hockey Thieves.

It was back in 1916 that Bennett played for a local club, and in those days the hockey rink was on the river, just north of the First Street bridge. That title-winning club (which had several Roseau players in its tournament lineup) was awarded a fine championship trophy, a huge silver cup. This trophy was destroyed in the fire that razed the old Auditorium building back in the 1930's.

But we were discussing Jack McGill. Jack grew up in hockey-conscious Saskatoon, Sask. Jack's folks weropnee 1T,B yeWK-.1lu folks were pioneer settlers in the area, having set up homesteads, but Jack was reared as a city boy, and it was on the outdoor rinks up there that he received his early training.

During all of his hockey career, McGill has been a goalie, getting his start as a ten-year old on a church league team. He moved up in the midget, juvenile, and junior ranks. In those days, and on those outdoor rinks, play wasn't suspended until the temperature reached twenty below zero.

At seventeen years, Jack joined the Saskatoon Quakers, one of Canada's top-flight junior hockey clubs. Jack didn't remain with the Quakers very long for the next season, when he was eighteen, he was signed to a New York Rover contract. Incidentally, in all of his organized hockey, Jack was the property of the New York Rangers organization. The scout that was successful in signing Jack to a Ranger contract was Al Ritchie of Regina. Ritchie is famed as a hockey "bird dog," having sent up such big leaguers as Max and Doug Bentley.

Jack was in his second season with the Rovers when Canada entered World War II, and he quit hockey to join the Canadian Air Force, the RCAF. McGill had a fine war record, being overseas for two and a half years, during which time he was a tail gunner on bombers operating out of bases in England. For his wartime services, Jack was awarded the coveted DD.F.M. medal.

Following the cessation of hostilities, Jack rejoined organized hockey, being assigned to the St. Paul Saints of the United States hockey league. He was with the Saints for five seasons, and gained rating as the leagues' best goalie. He was traded to Kansas City in 1951, and then when the league "folded" he was assigned to Vancouver of the Pacific Coast league. He decided not to report to the coast team, and he remained out of hockey in 1952. In 1953 he joined the local Thieves, and since that time he has been a defensive bulwark on the local club.

Jack is married to a local girl, and has established his residence here.

There isn't a doubt that Jack would have made hockey's "big time" but for the years that were taken up by World War II. He's a good one, and as one veteran wingman said, "You can't bring Jack to his knees with an axe."

End of a Streak

Coach Bun Fortier's Bemidji Lumberjacks carried a nine-game winning streak into Moorhead on Saturday night, and they left the Spud city later that night with that streak broken as they dropped a 68 to 66 decision to coach Shockey Strand's strong club.

While it perhaps "wounded" the pride of the Jacks and their fans to lose that cage tilt, it wasn't a humiliating defeat. The fact that Bemidji had played an important district game, against Park Rapids, on Friday night, and which they won by a 60 to 50 score, was a circumstance that favored the Spuds. And, too, the game was played on the Moorhead floor, a factor which coaches say is worth eight or ten points.

1958 Curling Season Opened Here Monday

The 1958 curling season got under way at the Fairgrounds ice sheet on Monday evening, with four schedule-opening matches being curled. In Monday night's matches, the Ed DeLap rink, by a 14 to 2 score, defeated the Elmer Sandberg rink; the Don Lawrence rink, in an extra-end match, edged out the A. R. Kimbrough rink, 9 to 8; the Bill Rupprecht rink took the measure of the Lawrence Lubitz rink, 7 to 6; and the Art Moe rink defeated the Russ Embury rink, 10 to 8.

Twenty rinks of four members each have signified their intentions of participating in this season's curling program. The rinks have been arranged into two leagues of ten rinks each, the American and National leagues. League matches will be curled on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings.

$757,235 Federal Aid for Wildlife Given Minnesota

Total Represents Cut of $152,000 in Funds from Earlier Estimate

Federal aid funds for sport fish and wildlife restoration work in Minnesota will amount to $757,235 for the fiscal year 1958, reports Gordon Wollan, deputy director of game and fish.

This is a revised apportionment and is based on Treasury certifications of money available from excise taxes on certain sporting goods. Said Wollan, "This revised apportionment represents a reduction of $152,000 from earlier estimates."

Under the revisions the 48 states and Hawaii will receive $21,306,000 for fish and game restoration instead of the $25,130,000 previously announced. The revised figure for game restoration is $16,974,000 compared with the $19,130,000 allotted previously; the amount available for the restoration of fish is $4,332,000 instead of $6,000,000.

This money is distributed to the individual states in accordance with formulas established by law and based upon license sales and land and water areas. Distribution is on a reimbursable basis, with the states financing projects initially and being repaid three dollars Federal Aid money for each four dollars expended, or a net expenditure of one dollar state money and three dollars from federal aid funds.

Federal Aid funds are derived from an 11 percent Federal excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition as provided under the Pittman-Robertson Act for the restoration of game, and a 10-per cent Federal excise tax on rods, reels, creels, artificial lures, baits, and flies as provided in the Dingell-Johnson Act for the restoration of fish.

Fargo Noses Out Local Quint 46-42

Gary Munson's hook shot, with twenty-seven seconds of play remaining, broke a 42-all tie and gave the Fargo high school Midgets a win over the Prowlers in a preliminary game played at the Concordia college fieldhouse on Tuesday night. Fargo's Mark Gronevold, on a lay-up shot, added a field goal just as the game ended, giving Fargo a 46 to 42 decision over the locals.

Coach Alan Adams' squad will make the short trip to Warren on Friday night for a district conference game against the Warren Ponies.

In the feature game of the night, a MIAC conference tilt between Concordia and Hamline, the Cobbers, with former Prowler Art Johnson scoring 25 points and playing a strong rebounding game, upset the favored Pipers to win by a 68 to 57 score.

In the Prowlers vs. Midgets game, the locals, after gaining a 10 to 9 first period lead, dropped behind the rangy North Dakota club to trail by a 20 to 17 score at the intermission.

Phil Hanson, who had tallied but one free throw in the first half, broke loose in the second half, getting two field goals and a pair of free throws in the third period, and five field goals in the fourth period, to carry the Prowlers into the lead. Mickey Hanson chipped in with three field goals in the third period.

Opening the final period, the score was 31 to 29 for the Midgets, but Phil Hanson's three fielders moved the locals into a lead.

The Prowlers maintained a slight lead over the Midgets deep into the final period, but with a minute to go, Ray Smith scored on a rebound to even the score at 42-all. Munson then potted the winner.

Tells How to Qualify for Social Security

Social Security offices are receiving many inquiries from self-employed farmers and material participating landlords, who have reached the age of 65, in regard to filing claims for retirement benefits, according to Walter D. Kistler, District Manager of the Grand Forks office of the Social Security Administration.

Self-employed individuals who will attain age 65 (62 for women) before April 1, 1958, are fully insured under the law if they have been self-employed in at least two of the three years 1955, 1956, and 1957.

Kistler emphasized, however, that an insured individual must be retired in order to receive benefits. Under the law, he stated, that an individual under 72 years of age is considered to be retired in all months of the year if his earnings do not exceed $1200 for the year. If he earns over $2080 no benefits for that year are payable, unless he renders no service in any month in connection with his farming operations. At age 72 an individual may receive his Social Security benefits regardless of the amount of his earnings.

Most important, Kistler went on to say, is that in order that the length of time between filing a claim for payments and the receipt of acual payments can be as short as possible, farm operators and material participating landlords should bring the following documents with them when they call at the office. A copy of the 1956 and 1957 income tax returns, including Form Schedule F (showing all farm income, and all farm expenses including depreciation on farm equipment and buildings); the cancelled check or other receipt showing payment of the self-employment (social security) tax; some record that shows their age or date of birth (such as birth certificate, baptismal certificate, confirmation certificate, family Bible record, old insurance policy and etc.

If the wife is 62 years of age or older she should also call at the office with her husband bringing with her a record of her date of birth. If the farm operator has rented out his land a copy of the farm lease or rental agreement should also be submitted. Materially participating landlords should also bring a copy of their lease or rental agreement with them when they call, Kistler said.

One of the objectives of the Social Security Administration, Kistler concludes, is to start payments as soon as possible after a claim has been filed. This can only be done he said if the above evidence is presented when an individual calls.

Contest Started for Popular Song for Centennial

February 15 Deadline Set for Song Lauding Wonders of Minnesota

A one-month contest to find an original popular song, both words and music, lauding the wonders of Minnesota was announced Wednesday by the Minnesota Centennial committee on the arts.

Purpose of the contest is to find a song that will have popular appeal.

The Centennial Commission will collaborate with a national publishing firm to publish and promote the winning entry, with provision for outright sale of the song by its composer to the publisher or a royalty contract based on number of copies sold.

Deadline for entries is February 15, 1958. All entries, which must not have been offered for performance nor have been performed before, will be judged by a panel appointed by a Centennial music subcommittee.

Entries, in ink and not to be returned, should be sent to Miss Mathilda Heck, songwriting contest chairman, 1004 Portland Avenue, St. Paul 4.

"We are looking for a lively song which Minnesotans and persons in other states will sing, whistle and hum throughout the Centennial year," Miss Heck said.

Essay Contest to Conclude April 4

Students Asked to Write on Conservation Topic

With but 12 weeks remaining to the close of the 15th annual conservation essay contest interest is running high in Minnesota's high schools eligible to enter the competition. Sponsored by the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs, the 15th annual contest closes April 4. Each school entered in the contest will submit two papers, one written by a boy and one written by a girl, to the Minnesota Federation of Womens' Clubs district president for judging and awards.

To-date 75 Minnesota high schools have entered the contest and more than 5,000 essays are being written by students on the subject, "Conservation and You." Twenty students, ten boys and ten girls will be awarded a weeks all paid vacation at Douglas Lodge, Itasca state park, as a reward for their efforts.

Complete details concerning the competition may be obtained by writing to: Essay Contest, Room 633 State Office Building, St. Paul 1, Minnesota.

Employers Needn't Ask for Tax Forms

Internal Revenue Man Says They Were Mailed

A. R. Knox, district director of internal revenue, stated today that his office is being swamped with orders for forms which have already been mailed to taxpayers.

"Employers who have filed federal employment and withholding tax returns and are now required to file reconciliation Forms W-3 balancing these quarterly reports with their individual payroll, have already been furnished the necessary Forms W-3. They were part of a package mailed employers directly as part of their third quarter forms," Knox said.

"This was done in order to get the forms in the hands of employers earlier than usual. The package also contained withholding statements, Form W-2," Knox stated.

A number of employers apparently believe that the forms in this package are only samples. This is not true. The Form W-3 is located on the top part of pages 2 and 3 in that package. "It should be removed and used," Mr. Knox said, "because the reverse of that form shows the employers' name and identification number and speeds up filing and reconciliation."

State High School Driver Education Plan Given Award

Governor Is Given Top National Award by U. S. Casualty Insurance Assn.

Minnesota's excellent high school driver education program—which is continuing to earn national attention for the state—was recognized Tuesday with presentation of a coveted award to Governor Orville Freeman.

For the third consecutive year the state program received the top-ranking award of excellence in the national high school driver education award program sponsored annually by the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies.

A bronze plaque emblematic of the award was presented to the governor by John Parish, secretary of the St. Paul Mercury Insurance company, who noted that it was the state's ninth award in the 10 year history of the award program. Governor Freeman gave the plaque to Dean Schweickhard, director of the Minnesota department of education, and Joseph G. Neal, coordinator of driver training, and complimented them and their staffs for the state's strong program.

Mr. Parish said that during the 1956-1957 school year 90% of all public high schools in the state offered driver education courses and 100% of all eligible students were enrolled in those courses. He noted that this brought to 43,319 the number of state students professionally trained last year to become good drivers and represents an increase of 531% over the number enrolled in the 1948-1949 school year.

Mr. Parish also praised the quality of Minnesota courses, pointing out that 381 of the 422 schools offering courses provided both classroom and practice driving instruction.

The number of homeowners in the U. S. jumped by 55 per cent between 1940 and 1950, rising by 8 million.

Asks Intensified Traffic Program

Governor Urges Patrol To Enforce Law Strictly

"A stepped up program of enforcement is absolutely necessary to strengthen our accident prevention program," Governor Orville L. Freeman told Minnesota highway patrol officers. In a message to be delivered to the officers attending the annual patrol review school at Camp Ripley, the governor said.

"In view of the all time record which was set in 1957 of 695 traffic fatalities and more than 23,000 injuries, I think that it is imperative that we strengthen all phases of our accident prevention program. The progress that we might make in the fields of engineering and education, is necessarily slow but I feel that adequate and effective enforcement measures are perhaps our strongest immediate weapon in this campaign.

"I am convinced that a stepped up program of enforcement, particularly in relation to those hazardous violations that contribute to accidents, is absolutely necessary. I want to appeal to each officer to redouble his efforts in carrying out this program, in order that we will win in our fight on accidents."

Our Spending Contest

State department officials report that Russia now is leading us in foreign aid spending. We do not like to question the figures of government officials but it is difficult for us to accept this statement as the truth. Perhaps the department has been misquoted.

We would not question a statement, for instance, to the effect that the Russians have outpromised us in this contest. The communist leaders have proven themselves to be great promisers, but in the field of economic aid their performance has not been impressive. Their record in passing out free rubles has not been as spectacular as it has been in the launching of missiles. And in other fields the Russian economy is itself so primitive that one may seriously doubt their capacity to give anything of value to the backward nations.

But even if it were true that the comparatively poor Russians had somehow managed to be more liberal with economic aid than we have been, that fact would not be particularly disturbing to us. The record indicates that giving aid is one of the best ways to lose friends.

Of course there is the possibility that most of our trouble in this program to make the poor people of the world rich has been due to the manner in which the program has been managed. Too often our good intentions have been defeated by our own bungling.

Silence Can Be Golden

President Eisenhower is being subjected to a great deal of criticism by members of the opposition party in Congress. Some of it no doubt can be justified. As the head of the government it is proper that much of the criticism for things that go wrong be directed at him. As he gets much of the credit for what good is achieved he also must assume responsibility for many of the mistakes. That is as it should be.

But some of the criticism obviously is for purely partisan purposes and cannot be justified. As the head of the executive department of our government there is an area of authority within which he may properly act without interference from the legislative branch of the government.

The President has recently been under pressure to release the contents of what is referred to as the Gaither report, dealing with problems of national defense. It takes its name from the chairman of a citizens' committee, H. Rowan Gaither, Jr. The committee was created last May at the request of the President to study the possibilities of "new technological means of defense." In the meantime came "Sputnik" and new means of defense became a question of prime national interest. Under the circumstances the general curiosity as to the contents of the Gaither report is understandable.

To us it is encouraging to know that the President is not making public at this time the contents of the report of the committee that he created. We are satisfied that the information it contains will be made available to responsible members of the proper congressional committees and that the country will have the benefit of the study and the resulting conclusions.

We subscribe wholeheartedly to the principle that information pertaining to public business should not be withheld from the public except as secrecy may temporarily be justified in the interests of public safety and national security. We do not object to the censorship that is essential to the conduct of a war.

And from our observation one of the urgent needs of our present national defense program is more restraint by some of the blabbermouths who hold positions of responsibility in our defense organization. Too many of our generals and admirals are becoming headline hunters. Intoxicated by their sudden importance as a source of newspaper copy they are doing an excellent job of keeping the enemy informed on all of our military developments and plans.

Let's keep in mind that we are now at war. At the present time it is still a cold war, but the cold war could explode into a hot war at any time.

Our constant boasting of what we are going to do by land, air and sea to destroy Russia serves no good purpose and provides material for those who control the Russian government to incite fear and hatred of us among the Russian people.

At the present time we need more of the philosophy of former president "Teddy" Roosevelt who urged that we "speak softly but carry a big stick." We all are agreed that there is now an urgent need for the "big stick". We need to be strong. But as we gain strength let's not forget the importance of speaking softly in maintaining the peace. Too much bluster and brag has involved many a good citizen in a brawl that he himself provoked.

And let the silence on the contents of the Gaither report serve as an example for the proper handling of other national defense plans and activities.

Applesauce

(Wall Street Journal)

Many parents for some time now have been wondering about the "benefits" of progressive and semi-progressive education. And no wonder, if one is to judge by the results of a survey this newspaper took in such diverse places as New York City, Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Opp, Alabama.

Some teachers are wondering about it, too. A New York City teacher says of her sixth graders that they're healthy, happy children. "Of course, they don't learn much at school." And a Bronx school marm chimes in about "critical reading," "citizenship," and "development of the whole child." Says she: "My children formerly had mastered grammar and decimals by the time they'd finished the fifth grade." Now her fifth graders are "terribly retarded" in grammar and are still on "concepts" in math. "In painting, clay-modeling and sewing, though, they're really in fine shape."

The result? At the University of Illinois 25 percent of new freshmen must take a no-credit course in remedial English—starting with third grade grammar and spelling. At Portland State College's School of Engineering in Oregon about 60 percent of the new students must take a course in "bone-head math"—starting with advanced fractions and elementary algebra. Comments the head of the physics department: "A sorry situation."

Yes indeed. And while educators some day might develop a better system than the Three R's, we think what a great many are using in place of reading, writing and arithmetic isn't nearly so good.

And we don't see much room for improvement until the parents and the teachers raise their voices even higher about some of the things that go on in the academic circles.

Congress Reopens

The second session of the 85th Congress meets at a time when every thoughtful American is deeply concerned and worried over the growing power and menace of Soviet Communistic imperialism. The spectacular achievements of Soviet science in the field of missiles, rockets, and space satellites challenge United States leadership throughout the world. The Sputniks represent not only scientific achievements but propaganda and psychological victories. They symbolize Soviet power, and should awaken us to the fact of the tremendous growth of Soviet industry, science and technology. There has been a tendency in government and private circles to under estimate the Soviet. We are in trouble. We have our work cut out for us. American leadership and influence throughout the world is weakening. Not only because of Soviet sputniks but because of the inadequacies of our foreign policy and the fact that we have demonstrated weakness at the very time strength was called for.

What To Do

First we should examine our own shortcomings and faults and correct them. This is a strong and rich country. We have scientists that are very bit as competent and more so than the Soviets. We are ahead in industrial production and in fact in the number of scientists and technological know-how. We have the means and the resources. What has been lacking is the will and the determination. The Administration has placed a premium on reduced budgets and so-called fiscal responsibility. In so doing it has jeopardized our national security, weakened our position abroad, and resulted in a situation which will cost us far more because of having to go so quickly at this late hour. The United States must catch up and surpass the Soviet in military strength, in missile development, and technological and scientific achievement. Our educational structure must be second to none. Not only in the fields of science and technology but all across the board. We dare not come in second best in a race with the Soviet. Nor need we. We must recognize the Soviet strength is far more than military. Soviet Russia has declared war on us and its leaders openly say so. Khruschev said so when he spoke over CBS "Face the Nation" last summer. It is a different kind of war than we are accustomed to. It is a war on the economic front, on the cultural and educational front, and a war where military power is used to back up diplomacy by strength. It is a war of science and production. We must meet this competition on every front. We can and we must.

President's Message

The President's message was well received. It was constructive and echoed much of what the country has been thinking. I agree with much of what the President said about our problems and our objectives. However, his message was stated in general terms, the details are yet to be filled in. The President has a great capacity of stating lofty objectives and high ideals. This we applaud. But now we need bold leadership, definite plans, and programs. It is not enough to be philosophizers. What we need now are specific proposals and a call to action. The President's program will be much clearer when we receive the budget message. The so-called rivalry between the branches of the armed services to which the President referred and which is a fact, can only be corrected by the President. He is the Commander in Chief and he has authority and control over the military forces. The test of Presidential leadership may well be in the Pentagon where the Army, Navy and Air Force seem to be going their own separate ways. It is time for the Commander in Chief to call the signals and give orders.

Other Things To Do

While it is all important that we regain our leadership in the international and military areas, we must not ignore the needs of the domestic economy. There are soft spots. There is unemployment. The tight money policies have taken their tool. Agriculture is in trouble. Small Business is having a hard time of it. The stock market shows signs of weakness. Congress and the Administration cannot ignore these domestic problems. The plight of our agriculture calls for immediate constructive action. American education needs to be strengthened and expanded. The fiscal and credit policies need revisions. Of one thing we can be sure. We have within us the resources necessary not only to survive but to win if our leadership is bold and determined and if all of us share the determination to do whatever is required.

SENATOR THYE Reports TO YOU from the UNITED STATES SENATE

State of the Union

Congress reconvened amidst an atmosphere of sober concern over events which have projected the world into the Space Age.— The highlight of the initial week was President Eisenhower's State of the Union Message in the House Chamber.—The President's message was short and to the point. He urged a closing of ranks and unified effort to meet the new challenges put forth by Russia.

Reaction to the speech was varied as you might expect. There was broad agreement, however, that our missile program must receive priority attention. No time will be wasted in considering all measures designed to bolster and strengthen our advanced weapons programs.

Committee Action Begins

The various committees are wasting no time in digging deep into such problems as defense expenditures and programs, the anticipated budget of $74 billion, our foreign policy including foreign aid and assistance. Priority attention will also be given to our educational needs with emphasis on the training of scientists on scholarships, and the development of a program to attract more students into the teaching profession.

Action Needed For Agriculture

Action will be necessary in the areas of agriculture and small business. I have prepared bills dealing with both subjects and have called for immediate action.—The action by the Secretary of Agriculture — proposing to lower price supports on dairy products has produced nationwide protests from both Republicans and Democrats. I protested the action immediately and have been joined in legislation to avoid a drop by many of my colleagues. My bill has been referred to the Agriculture Committee for consideration.

Too Early to Predict

It is too early to make any accurate predictions concerning the fate of all agriculture legislation during this session. There will be an attack against the acreage reserve part of the Soil Bank. Public Law 480 to dispose of agriculture surpluses will be extended. The fate of other farm proposals cannot be predicted as yet.

Thye, Agriculture Program

I am hopeful that the Democrats will join me in my attempts to bolster the farm economy of our nation.—I have already introduced bills to raise supports on dairy products, to increase the corn acreage allotment to a minimum of 56 million acres, to extend Public Law 480 for the disposal of surpluses through trade, barter, and international aid, and the Thye bill to preserve the family farm. I am a co-sponsor of a bill authorizing research into greater and more varied uses of agricultural products. This bill is still pending before the Agriculture Committee.— These bills when placed together form a constructive and far reaching program for the betterment of agriculture.

Small Business Legislation

I have introduced legislation dealing with small business. My bill to make the Agency permanent and my bills to provide for tax adjustments for small business are pending before the Senate Finance Committee. I intend to press for passage of an amendment which will give the Small Business Administration wider authority in the area of granting loans under the disaster program. The Congress will have to act again this session to extend the life of the Small Business Administration. It has already been reported that some Democratic Congressmen will try to terminate the Agency. I do not feel that this will succeed.

Tax Hearings

During the adjournment, the Senate Small Business Committee conducted tax hearings in 15 of the major cities of the country. The Committee heard many small businessmen, professors, economists, and others testify concerning the impact of federal taxation on small business. — I participated in the hearings and have already made recommendations to Senator Sparkman, Committee Chairman, as to what should be included in the Committee report. The report is being drafted and will be published early in the session. Copies will be available to the public.

Pennington Co. to Get $172,935 Road Funds

State Highway Commissioner L. P. Zimmerman today apportioned $23,895,255 to Minnesota counties for road construction and maintenance work this year on 28,906 miles of major county arteries which are a part of the state's new system of county-state aid highways.

The distribution is the first under new laws resulting from passage of Amendment No. 2 in the fall election of 1956. Similar allotments will be made shortly after the first of each year in the future.

Pennington county will receive a total allotment of $172,935 of which $50,300 is designated for maintenance and $89,028 for construction, with the remaining $24,608 allotted for maintenance and construction in municipalities.

Marshall county will get $414,232, including $159,500 for maintenance, $239,364 for construction and $15,368 for municipalities. Red Lake county is to get $140,211, including $52,000 for maintenance, $78,088 for construction and $10,123 for municipalities.

The total county aid fund represents the stipulated 29 per cent of the Minnesota road user fund, which is built up mainly from gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license fees. Municipalities get nine per cent of the funds while 62 per cent goes into the state trunk system.

The 23-million-dollar apportionment compares with $15,925,961 in state aids distributed in 1956, the last time state aids were distributed for a full year.

Under the new system of county-state aids, the funds may be used for county roads which have been designated as county state aid highways and which form a part of an integrated and connected county system. They also may be used for designated streets in communities of less than 5,000 population.

The average length of the school session in various states ranged from 153 to 187 in 1950. Thus a child in one state might have to attend school for 14 years to receive as much schooling as a child in another state would obtain in 12 years.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota
by JIM KIMBALL

We have done some important reorganizing in the Division of Game and Fish in the past two years and so far it seems to be working out well. However, there is no getting around the fact that the most efficient organization in the world is still only as good as the people in it. We do a lot of talking about conservation needs and accomplishments, often forgetting that success in game and fish management depends upon the caliber of people we attract and employ to do the job.

We must have competent research men to gather facts and improve management methods. We must have practical, level-headed, hard-working, game and fish managers to put our knowledge to practical use and to actually get the management jobs done and, of course, we must have a competent game warden force to protect our wildlife, help and inform the public and keep the administrators apprised of wildlife conditions and sportsmen's views throughout the state.

Minnesota is fortunate in having a State Civil Service Department which not only helps us to select the best qualified people for the jobs, but also protects the employees from any type of discrimination or political manipulation.

Game Warden's Examination

In order to fill about ten existing vacancies in the warden service and others which will be coming up, an examination will be given on February 8. Anyone interested may secure exam announcements and applications from their local game warden or write to Minnesota Civil Service Department, 122 State Office Building, St. Paul 1, Minnesota. Applications must be submitted by January 31, 1958.

Those applicants getting a passing grade in the written examination must pass a physical exam and a character investigation. After this they will take an oral examination before a qualified board of examiners. College training is not required, but may stand an applicant in good stead in passing the written and oral examinations.

No one claims this is going to be an easy exam but we believe it is one that will select the best qualified men. Minnesota's warden force is one of the best in the country and today's game warden holds a position of considerable responsibility and prestige.

Florida

While the kids were out of school over the Christmas holidays, we made a fast run to Florida to take a long over-due vacation, and see how the other half lives. One thing that impressed us more than the palm trees and alligators was the complete absence of trash, beer cans, and rubbish along the highways. Instead of this junk, there appeared at about ten-mile intervals, white signs which proclaimed a $100 fine for throwing rubbish out of automobiles. I know these signs work because the whole family shrieked at me for dropping a tiny, little, well chewed apple core out of the window. If Florida can require people to be tidy on their winter vacations, why can't Minnesota do as much in this glorious summer vacation land? "Don't be a litterbug" signs work for some people, others understand the $100 sign much better.

One of our biggest thrills was seeing large numbers of graceful white birds along the Tamiami Trail. Along with the great wood ibis, white herons and little blue herons, which are white during the first years of their lives, there were also large numbers of American egrets. In the days when it was fashionable for ladies to adorn their hats with egret plumes, these birds were killed until nearly extinct. A law making it illegal to kill the birds only forced the plumes into the black market and the price rose until they became more valuable per pound than solid gold, and destruction of this species was hastened. Then someone got smart and obtained passage of a federal law which made it illegal for women to wear the egret plumes. With the market thus destroyed, the plumes had no value and the American egret was saved from extinction.

The moral this story carries for every conservationist is simply this: Your greatest achievement will be obtained through keeping well-informed, and supporting good conservation legislation, while opposing that which is bad.

DANGER AHEAD!

Beautiful, yes. Beautiful as only Nature in all her purity can be. But dangerous too; dangerous to the ships at sea and the men they carry. For an iceberg's greatest bulk lies unseen beneath the surface . . . and against it, the unwary cannot survive.

Many of the things which, on the surface, appear the most tempting and beautiful contain hidden dangers and unsuspected pitfalls.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

WHILE CAR PRICES WENT UP THROUGHOUT THE INDUSTRY, THE PRICE OF THIS CAR WENT DOWN

Here's good news: Ford has priced many of its '58 models lower than corresponding 1957 models! Ford Custom 300's are priced as much as $50 lower than last year. This is based on a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices.

Who'd ever guess it's the lowest priced of the low-price three

In case you haven't yet gotten around to pricing this elegantly styled 58 Ford Custom 300, put your mind at ease. When you compare manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices, you'll find that this Ford is priced lower than any sedan in its field. And Ford has the lowest-priced station wagon and convertible, too!

But price isn't everything. The 58 Ford was the first car ever to use the whole world as its test track! This meant taking the all-new Interceptor V-8, combining it with new Cruise-O-Matic Drive, and tackling some of the roughest roads we could find on three continents. How do we read prescriptions?

According to some of our customers, prescriptions aren't written—they're doodles. Yet your pharmacist looks at the cryptic scribbles and calmly reaches for a bottle. The right bottle. Prescriptions are written in a special international language known to physicians and pharmacists . . . a kind of universal, standardized shorthand that's grammar- and penmanship-proof. It exists so any registered pharmacist anywhere can fill your prescription accurately. That's how we're always able to give you just the drug your physician prescribes, and why the directions are always correct. We are pleased to serve you whenever prescription medication is required.

225 Persons Attend Annual C of C Banquet

H. Kelly Succeeds Olson as President; Duluth Man Speaks

It was necessary to arrange extra places for the unexpectedly large gathering that attended the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening in St. Bernard's church dining hall, no less that 225 persons being present.

Don L. Olson, retiring president, who had charge of the program, introduced his successor, Harley Kelly, who in turn presented Olson with a past president's plaque. Olson briefly reviewed the past year's achievements, and praised TRF Jobs Inc. for its good work.

Kelly urged members of the chamber to take an active part in its affairs, and stated that at least four outstanding promotions will be staged in 1958. He also asked that dues be paid as quickly as possible.

The program opened with the invocation by the Rev. Keough Patnode, following which Olson introduced chamber officials and other guests from surrounding towns. The Lincoln high school boys quartet then supplied several well-received vocal selections, the group including Frank Conklin, Loiell Dyrud, Ronald Moe and Wesley Christianson.

Guest speaker was Robert Morris, secretary of the Duluth Chamber of Commerce, who spoke on the topic, "It's up to You". No organization, he said, can do more for a community's welfare than a properly functioning chamber of commerce. Members, he added, get more out of work than they put into it, and they owe it to their community to give of their talents.

Morris reported that work on the St. Lawrence seaway project is proceeding on schedule, with completion scheduled by 1961. The U. S. portion of the cost, estimated at $125,000,000, will be repaid thru tolls over a period of years.

He stated that the Duluth port authority will start construction of a $10,000,000 terminal project as quickly as the legality of a bond issue is established.

The waterway, Morris said, will be important to this immediate area chiefly because of the savings it will permit on export shipments of grain.

Another source of benefits to this area, he stated, will be the interstate highway program now getting under way, which will bring a large amount of tourist business to communities going after it.

Organ music during the dinner was supplied by Beverly Kleinvachter, student at S. Bernard's school.

Gov. O. L. Freeman to Speak Friday at Breakfast in Rex

To Appear in City in Course of 'Report to the People' Tour of State

Gov. Orville L. Freeman will begin the eighth day of his statewide "Report to the People" tour with a breakfast meeting at 8:30 a.m. Friday, Jan. 24, in the Rex Cafe here.

The meeting is one of 34 the governor will address in his second "Report" tour, a practice he began in 1956 to inform Minnesotans in non-legislative years of progress in their government.

"The response then was so favorable that I am trying to reach more people in more places this year. I feel an informed public can make the better contribution to a working government," Gov. Freeman said.

He urged all persons to attend the meeting, and said he would welcome the opportunity to answer questions and receive comments. The breakfast meeting is sponsored by the Governor's Interim Report Committee, a group of local citizens.

Other state officials and representatives of state government departments will accompany Gov. Freeman.

He will address meetings later in the day at Fosston, Bemidji and Duluth.

$3,000 Limit Placed on Acreage Reserve Pay ents Explained

With the signup period for the Soil Bank's 1958 Acreage Reserve opening January 13, Pennington county farmers are asking about the $3,000 payment limit, Oscar J. Houske, chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, advised today.

Houske explained that the $3,000 limitation on payments under the 1958 Acreage Reserve of the Soil Bank will be applied to each producer with regard to each farm in which he has an interest, rather than as a ceiling on the amount paid him for all farms in which he has an interest.

This means, for example, that a farmer who owns two separate farms, one of which he farms himself and the second one he leases to a tenant, may be eligible for a limit of $3,000 in Acreage Reserve payments on each farm. The tenant on the farm would also be eligible for a limit of $3,000. In other words, on the second farm, both owner and tenant could each receive payments up to $3,000.

The chairman also pointed out that the payment limitation applies to the total put in the 1958 Acreage Reserve on an individual farm.

Houske advised farmers who plan on putting acreage under the 1958 Acreage Reserve, and who do not already have a Soil Bank base established for their farms, to bring their 1956-57 farm records to the county office. These acreage records are necessary, to establish the "Soil Bank base" for their farms. The establishment for the Soil Bank base is now necessary before a producer may sign a 1958 Acreage Reserve agreement. Houske also pointed out that the Soil Bank base is the same as that which has been in effect for the conservation reserve.

Jeannette Wright Succumbs Friday in Minneapolis

Former Proprietor of Ben Franklin Store Here Dies after Long Illness

Mrs. Jeannette Wright, former co-owner and manager of the local Ben Franklin store, and long active in community affairs, died Friday morning in Veterans Hospital, Minneapolis, after having been confined in hospitals here and in Minneapolis the past seven months.

Burial was in Oakdale cemetery in Crookston today.

Born in McIntosh, Minn., July 1, 1896, Mrs. Wright was graduated from high school in Crookston, and later earned a teachers certificate at Oberlin college in Ohio and taught school several years in St. Paul before returning to Crookston, where she was married August 10, 1922, to Emmett Wright.

They made their home in Crookston and later in Fosston until coming in 1937 to Thief River Falls to take over the operation of the Ben Franklin store.

During World War II she served for several years with the Women's Army Corps, returning to this city to resume her business career. In recent years she had served as manager of the greatly enlarged store until disposing of her interest late in 1957.

Mrs. Wright also was active in other fields. She served for an extended period as director of the Crookston Legion auxiliary drum corps, and after coming to this city organized and directed a similar Legion auxiliary unit, which gained considerable fame. She also directed several home talent plays, as well as numerous style revues.

Surviving her death are her husband and two sons, Willis, in the Long Beach, Calif., area and Robert, of St. Paul, and two grandchildren.

Lincoln to Select No Valedictorian or Salutatorian

High School to Select Instead the Ten Top Seniors, Principal Says

This year a new plan of honoring students with high scholastic averages is to be instituted in Lincoln high school, F. Miles Nelson, principal, stated today. Instead of the traditional awarding of honors to the valedictorian and salutatorian, Lincoln school will in the future select the ten students with the highest scholastic averages. This group will be designated as the "Honor Ten".

It is felt, said Nelson, that this plan will allow recognition to greater numbers of deserving students. It will give credit to students who take a heavier load of subjects and whose averages will suffer somewhat as a result. It will eliminate ties or differences of tenths of one percent deciding the honor.

In a school with an enrollment as large as Lincoln, the averages of the top ten students are usually so close that many inequities enter into the computation of final averages, if only two students are chosen for top honors.

Nearly $8,000 in Chest Drive Funds to Date

Rev. Dale, Campaign Chairman, Hopes to Reach 75 Pct. Quota

Rev. Otto Dale, chairman of the 1957 Community Chest drive in Pennington county, said Saturday that, despite a late start and unfavorable conditions, chest solicitors did very well, with approximately 66 per cent of the $12,000 goal or about $8,000 realized to date. Mr. Dale made the statement in reporting the decisions reached at a Community Chest board meeting held Thursday evening in the Chamber of Commerce office.

Several reports in the 1957 campaign remain outstanding and the board's decision was to terminate the drive when these are in, Mr. Dale said. Proceeds will be disbursed at a later date, after the drive is ended, he added.

Chances of the drive's final figure being at or near the 75 per cent of goal mark were considered fair by the county drive chairman. The board looked ahead to getting an earlier start with the 1958 drive so that it could be tied in with the national campaign and full advantage of national drive publicity could be utilized, Reverend Dale stated.

No. Central Lines Beat 1956 Record

Airline Carried 680,930 Passengers During 1957

North Central Airlines maintained its top position among the nation's 13 local service airlines during 1957 in passengers, air mail and air express carried, Hal N. Carr, president, said today.

Last year, North Central enplaned 680,930 passengers, an increase of 24 per cent over 1956 when the airline carried 549,654 revenue passengers.

Revenue passenger-miles totaled 100,714,479 for an increase of 21 per cent. Scheduled miles flown amounted to 9,221,350 for a 19 per cent increase in service to the traveling public of 52 cities in nine states.

The airline carried 361,478 ton-miles of air express during 1957 for an increase of one per cent, despite a three-month Railway Express Agency strike. Air mail totaled 191,862 ton-miles, an 18 per cent gain.

Applications for CCC Loans Due By January 24

The Pennington county ASC office informed the Times today that January 31 is the last day that CCC loans and purchase agreements can be signed at the ASC Office.

All producers who intend to secure loans on their 1957 crops are advised to make applications at the county ASC office not later than Friday, January 24. This will give the county office the necessary time required to visit the farm, sample the grain and secure the necessary measurements.

Judges Are Named for Seed and Feed Show January 31

Mervyn Severson, Harley Shurson to Officiate; Entries Are Solicited

Judges for the Thief River Falls seed and feed show Friday, January 31, have been selected, according to Silas Hanson. They are Mervin Syverson and Harley Shurson. Mervin Syverson is education specialist with the Minnesota Crop Improvement association. He will judge all the seed entered in the show. Harley Shurson is county agent in East Polk and has served in that capacity for eleven years.

Both judges will give reasons for placing of seed and feed over the public address system so everyone can learn what qualities are used as a basis for selection by the judges.

Farmers in the area are invited to exhibit samples of seed or feeds. The seed can be cleaned and it does not have to be certified for exhibiting. Two quarts of any variety of grain, one quart of legume and grass seed, one gallon of silage, one quarter bale of hay, ten ears of corn and twenty potatoes makes an exhibit.

Premium money will be paid on basis of the number of exhibits. The greater the number of exhibits shown in a lot, the higher will be the premium money. If there are over twenty exhibits of Garry oats, for instance, Hanson pointed out, there will be five exhibits in that lot which will be awarded premiums. In addition, championship ribbons and door prizes are being offered.

All farmers in the area are invited to bring in samples of seed and feed to the Thief River Falls show to be held January 31.

Judge P. Lundgren Rules in Marshall Co. Drainage Case

Engineers will make detailed surveys with all necessary plans and specifications for three alternate proposals for the improvements of State Ditch 3 and County Ditch 13 to combat flood conditions in the area west of Argyle. This order is contained in a lengthy opinion and memorandum issued by Judge Paul A. Lundgren and filed in Warren Saturday, Jan. 11 with Edwin K. Rokke, clerk of district court, says the Warren Sheaf.

In the same order, Judge Lundgren appointed Ralph Hauswirth, registered engineer, Thief River Falls who is serving as area engineer with the Soil Conservation Service as a consulting engineer, as an advisor to the court. Stanley S. Johnson, Grand Forks, is the engineer for the proposed drainage improvement. Viewers will also be appointed.

Judge Lundgren also stated in his memorandum that "on the basis of evidence produced at the hearings thus far, I can find no justification for an assessment in the upper reaches and that the work of the viewers will be limited to the flood plane and such adjacent lands as will be benefited. Should the evidence at the final hearing warrant a different finding, the viewers' report can then be recommitted for further findings and report."

The alternate proposals include

(a) Combined improvement and enlargement of State Ditch 3 and County Ditch 13 as an auxiliary outlet.

(b) Improvement of State Ditch 3 together with the improvement of County Ditch 13 but eliminating therefrom the proposed County Ditch 13 outlet as an auxiliary outlet.

(c) For construction of County Ditch 13 outlet as an auxiliary outlet, using therefor the construction plans of the County of Marshall for the construction of County Aid Road No. 4 in the event that the County Board shall have determined to construct said road independently of these drainage proceedings.

Judge Lundgren stated in the memorandum "to conditionally approve the plan as recommended by the Engineer as well as the alternative plan for merely enlarging State Ditch 3 in order that full and complete determination may be made at the time of the final hearing in an effort to avoid delay as far as practicable. The need and feasi-

Wins County Spelling Contest

Pamela Rindahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Rindahl, Goodridge, accepts first prize from Mrs. Martha Matheson, right, county superintendent of schools, after winning the Pennington county rural school spelling contest held Saturday afternoon in the courthouse.

Looking on is Miss Janice Quam, Pamela's teacher at District 65 school.

Second place winner was Phyllis Mostrom, District 65, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mostrom, and third was Diane Tasa, District 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Tasa. The spelling contest is an annual event held here. The winner of the contest held Saturday will represent Pennington county at the Crookston Winter Show spelling contest in February.

Mrs. Ormond Johnson Is Named Chairwoman of April Cancer Drive

Four Pennington county residents were in attendance at the annual organizational meeting of the Minnesota division of the American Cancer society in Minneapolis last week. They were Mrs. R. W. Nelson, Mrs. Olaf Dahlen, and Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Johnson, all residents of Thief River Falls.

The purpose of the meeting was to set up county committees to work on the annual fund raising drive, the cancer crusade in April.

According to officials of the A.C.S., there is real reason to hope for definite progress in cancer research. To use their words, "cancer research laboratories have the key in the door. The final answer to the why of cancer is now considered to be a matter of time, and concentrated effort along the lines that laboratories are now working."

Last year, statistics told us that one out of every four cancer patients were restored to normal activity. With the strides in research of the past year, those statistics have been changed to read "one out of every three."

Mrs. Johnson, who is county cancer chairwoman, stated that the next several weeks of activities will have a two-fold purpose. 1. To set up and organize a local drive for funds in April, and Pennington county has been given a goal of slightly more than $1700.

The second goal is to set up a cancer education committee and a cancer service unit. Since the only cure for cancer depends on early recognition of the symptoms coupled with proper treatment through competent medical doctors, it is thought that a concentrated program of education for the public can afford the opportunity of changing cancer statistics to read, "one out of every two" or fifty percent of all cancer patients might be restored to normal activity.

The goal of this educational program will be to acquaint as many persons as possible with the facts of cancer. To do this, it is the plan of the county committee to carry the true story of cancer to any place and every place that it can be heard. Many films, and volumes of educational literature are available for use by any organization.

Savings and Loan Assn. Adds $518,000 to Assets In 1957

S. R. Dahlen Reelected President at Annual Meeting Held Wednesday

First Federal Savings and Loan association increased its assets by $518,000, or 12%, in 1957 and now holds more savings and serves more families than at any time in its twenty-three year history, Stanton R. Dahlen, president, reported today.

Dahlen, in releasing the association's annual report, said the institution's steady growth was due to serving a growing number of people and "serving them well." For over 125 years, he said, the nation's savings and loan associations have contributed to community thrift and home ownership.

Among highlights of the institution's 1957 operations were the following:

3% dividends paid to savers during the year amounted to $122,400.

The association expanded its home mortgage loan portfolio by $318,878 in 1957. Total home loans outstanding now amount to $4,002,196.

Reserves were increased to $262,000, exceeding the reserves on hand at the end of last year by $37,700, or 12%.

At the annual meeting Wednesday, Dahlen was re-elected president. Other officers re-elected were Milton J. Helerson, secretary-treasurer; Burnell Kast, assistant secretary; and Marilyn Shumway, assistant treasurer. F. E. Tunberg was elected vice president and Janice Eggers was elected teller. Re-elected to the board of directors was Dahlen. Hold-over directors are Helmer A. Baumann, W. W. Prichard, F. E. Tunberg and Judge Paul A. Lundgren.

300-bed Mobile Hospital Set by Civil Defense

Is Allocated to Thief River Falls, 4 Other Area Cities

Thief River Falls is one of five cities in the Minnesota Civil Defense Dept. Mobile Support Area 3 to be allocated a 300-bed mobile hospital, according to Edward Johnson, commander of Area 3.

Johnson met here Thursday evening in the courthouse with Pennington county civil defense officials to plan the county's civil defense mission and also to discuss a regional meeting for the northern half of Mobile Support Area 3 to be held here Jan. 28.

A similar meeting will be held for the southern half of Area 3 at Mahnomen the following day, Johnson stated.

R. Bruce Reski, Pennington county civil defense chief, presided at the Thursday meeting. Attendance at the meeting was cut because of conflict with other events being held in the city at the same time but several matters were discussed and a considerable amount of work accomplished.

The mobile hospital to be assigned to this city is a packaged affair which includes all the necessary facilities for setting up a complete field hospital, including drugs, antibiotics, operating room and X-ray facilities, and portable power generator.

It can be partly set up for display and demonstrations, such as at county fairs, Johnson said.

The hospital is available to Thief River Falls at no costs other than providing adequate storage for the unit until such time as it may be needed and also providing a minimum of 12 cu. ft. of refrigeration space for the perishable antibiotics.

These would be replaced from time to time with fresh supplies and the old supplies would be used up locally before losing their effectiveness, Johnson explained.

The officials discussed possible storage sites for the hospital and Reski assigned Art Stordahl to handle this responsibility.

Charles Samuelson reported briefly on a school on radiological warfare he and Lawrence J. Brown attended recently at Fort Snelling.

Samuelson also discussed the principle of radioactive fallout from nuclear weapons and the amount of radiation a human being can safely absorb.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Miss Mavis Omlid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Obe Omlid of Goodridge and Lloyd Myrum, son of Mrs. Gunda Myrum of Oklee were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, December 28 at the Silver Creek Lutheran church of rural Thief River Falls. Rev. James Peterson performed the double ring ceremony before an altar graced with baskets of orchid mums and in the presence of 225 friends and relatives.

Mrs. Bernard Meyers presided at the piano for the traditional nuptial music. She also accompanied Miss Janet Torgerson who sang "I Love You Truly," "Because" and the "Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father was attired in a floor length gown of white satin and lace featuring a rounded neckline with tiny buttons extending down the back and long sleeves which came to a point over the wrists. The full bouffant skirt was of nylon net over satin fashioned with panels of pleated lace extending down the front and back. Her fingertip veil of illusion net was held in place by a crown of pearls and her only jewelry was a double strand pearl necklace and earring set, a gift from the groom. She carried a crescent cascade bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Miss Barbara Keushagen of rural Thief River Falls was the maid of honor and Miss Arleen Malberg of Minneapolis was the bridesmaid, both friends of the bride. They wore identical ballerina length gowns of orchid and yellow respectively and carried bouquets of yellow roses, feathered orchid mums, and white carnations. Their pearl earrings were gifts from the bride.

Serving as flower girl was Sherry Myrum of Bemidji, niece of the groom. Her street length dress was of white satin fashioned similar to the brides. She carried a basket of pink carnations and heather. Jerry Skaaren was the ring bearer and he carried the rings on a satin pillow.

The groom was attended by the bride's brother, Orlan Omlid of Goodridge, as bestman and the groomsman was Tenny Myrum, brother of the groom. Serving as ushers were Olaf Omlid, cousin of the bride, and Orvin Stolaas cousin of the groom. They were all attired in light colored business suits with white carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Omlid, mother of the bride, chose a navy blue dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Myrum, mother of the groom, wore a navy blue dress with pink accessories. Their identical corsages were of pink sweetheart roses, and white feathered carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's parents in the church parlors with Mrs. Caster Moe acting as hostess. The bridal table was centered with a wedding cake which was baked and decorated by Mrs. Caster Moe and Mrs. Elmo Johnson. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Alvin Horning, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Pete Hendrickson aunt of the groom.

Joyce Quam registered the guests and the gifts were arranged by Mrs. Allen Horning and Mrs. Leonard Johnson. Mrs. Marie Omlid, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Olaf Stolaas aunt of the groom poured. Waitresses were Marlene Hanson, Lois Gunderson, and Carol Torgerson.

Mrs. Myrum is a 1955 graduate of Lincoln High school and Mr. Myrum is a 1951 graduate of Oklee High school. Mr. and Mrs. Myrum are at home in Bemidji where the groom attends Bemidji State College.

Out of town guests were from Oklee, Keewatin, Aurora, Eldred, and Bemidji.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

As a time in each year the month of January is a miserable flop. The month is one in which we look back over the old year to see how we did and look ahead to the new year with the intentions of omitting the mistakes we made the year before.

Despite our best intentions tho, it is amazing how much better our hindsight is above and beyond our foresight. We haven't detected any great improvements in the past 10 years.

Actually, we aren't too bad off—it just seems that way in January. No matter what the weather's like, January is just a miserable, dull month. Probably the fact it's the month we look at the books is why it's that way. We should be able to face the facts and live with 'em—or else keep our New Year's resolutions!

Amazing facts dept . . . the same amount of atomic radiation that will kill a man will also kill a jackass. It varies in other animals.

The only difference, apparently between a man and a jackass is that the latter doesn't have to live with the invention of atom and hydrogen bombs on his conscience.

We note that our municipal judge ordered two youths to get themselves haircuts after they'd been caught breaking the local curfew ordinance.

The ducks may have gone south but there's no closed season on ducktails, apparently. More power to Hizzoner!

One aspect of our modern age is the fact that as something is invented the manufacturer of it starts browbeating the public with hints that if they don't have one they're old-fashioned and out of step with the times.

The same is true, only more so, in speaking of women's fashions. The drape-shape of the 1920's is back in the fashion news. A chemise, I believe it's called. We were always under the impression a chemise was a one-piece ladies undergarment but now it turns out to be a piece of colth sewed into a tube with holes cut for the arms and head, and worn as a dress.

Better save all your feed sacks you farmers—a mere snip or two with the scissors and your wives can be attired in the latest fashion at practically no cost! Appearance doesn't mean much so long as the ladies are in style, it seems.

Seriously tho, we're really fed up with being bludgeoned into the notion we just can't live unless we own this, that, or the other thing that's new on the market. We've lived quite awhile without a lot of things, and will continue to do so.

We're pretty old-fashioned out at our place. We do most of our cooking on an old fashioned stove, in old-fashioned pots, pans and skillets. Our electric dryer doesn't do the job as well as sunlight and wind but is used out of sheer necessity, despite radio commercials to the contrary.

We don't know who won the latest quiz show because we didn't see it on TV—we don't have one. Nor are we particularly interested in seeing pictures of people and places in the news via TV—as a matter of fact we can even leave our radio turned off days on end and still get the news in full via the old-fashioned but dependable, newspaper.

Not that we wouldn't enjoy TV—but, like so many other modern inventions, it's something we can do without. We'd like the networks to improve the intelligence level of the programs some what before we buy one anyway.

It's still a pretty nice old world, despite our foolish inventions. SO LONG!

The life of every man is a diary in which he means to write one story, and writes another; and his humblest hour is when he compares the volume as it is with what he vowed to make it.—James M. Barrie.

Pennington 3d in Bond Buying in '57

$269,455 Savings Bonds Bought Here Last Year

Purchases of Series E and H savings bonds in 1957 totaled $269,455 in Pennington county, or 112.7 per cent of quota, J. M. Roche county savings bond chairman reported today. The county wound up the year in third place among all counties in the state.

In District 1 of which this county is a part, the twelve month total reached $1,641,000 or 77.1 per cent of quota.

Chairman Roche further announced that beginning January 1, 1958 organizations other than commercial banks are permitted to buy Series E and H savings bonds up to a $10,000 annual limit for each series. This change was made to meet the demand from various group for a government security, such as E and H savings bonds, which has a guaranteed protection against market fluctuations.

Savings Bond purchases in Minnesota during the year amounted to $69,375,769, or 81.1 per cent of quota.

Ruling in Marshall Co. Drainage Case Is Handed Down

bility of an outlet improvement was amply proved. The costs involved, under the facts of the case, posed a problem which I felt should be properly considered before the Petitioner was put to further expense."

Excerpts from the memorandum follow:

"Under the facts here involved it is clear that State Ditch No. 3 does not readily lend itself to local drainage and that the function which it serves is that of a "pipe" or outlet of the waters of Middle River to protect the adjacent lands from inundation. In designing the channel for the proposed improvement the engineer therefore properly took into consideration the entire watershed of the Middle River Basin. In doing so he, in compliance with the statute, included the ten drainage systems which use the Middle River channel as outlet, and notice was given to all land owners of the drainage basin. That objection thereto was voiced is stating the case mildly.

(1) Objectors in Upper Reaches

That their drainage is into a natural watercourse into which they have a right to drain; that the improvement of the outlet will not benefit their lands; that in their respective drainage systems the outlet was found to be adequate and constitutes a judgment in rem; that they have acquired prescriptive rights for the flow of their waters, and as owners of the dominant estate they have a right to cast their waters upon the lower subservient estate.

(2) Objectors in the Lower Reaches

That the improvement of the outlet is necessary and expedient but that the plan as proposed by the engineer is too elaborate and too costly; that the lower plane is not in need of drainage; that the proposed Ditch No. 13 outlet is not necessary and that the entire problem can be solved through the construction of an enlarged channel in State Ditch No. 3; that County Ditch No. 13 will cause additional flooding in the lower reaches and that the benefits derived from the auxiliary outlet does not warrant the cost; that the benefits to be derived from flood protection in the flood plane would justify the costs of improving State Ditch No. 3.

(3) Proponents of Project

That the project is essentially one for the improvement of the outlet of Middle River; that in order to provide for an adequate outlet the entire drainage basin must be considered; that but for the waters impounded upon the outlet from the upper reaches the outlet would be sufficient and adequate; that being an outlet proceeding all lands which contribute waters in causing the flood condition should pay its pro rata share; that all lands of the drainage basin are benefited in being provided an adequate outlet; that County Ditch No. 13 has never functioned as intended; that even with the improvement of the channel in State Ditch No. 3 the level of the waters therein will rise above the level of County Ditch No. 13, impounding its waters on that system and inundating the adjacent lands; that flooding is a matter of timing; that full and complete relief of the conditions which exist upon the flood plane can only be attained by a plan which will withdraw the waters in a timely and orderly manner before it reaches a shallow auxiliary outlet is necessary to keep the river within the crest or overflow stage; that the benefits will be enhanced in providing drainage; that the outlet for each construction is adequate.

While I cannot fully agree with either contention the preliminary hearing has convinced me that the flood plane is in need of relief from the disastrous floods to which it has been subjected, and that on the basis of the quality and productivity of the lands therein situate an improvement is feasible even if the entire burden thereof should fall upon the flood plane. Clearly the purpose of our drainage laws is not to drain some lands and thereby unreasonably damage others.

It should not be overlooked that until final adjudication the Court sits merely in an administrative capacity to carry out the duties imposed upon it by the Legislature. As such, all matters of vital concern to the proposed improvement should come under careful scrutiny. Much time has been lost on extraneous matters. The project is not designed to give complete protection against all floods, for it is designed only to afford protection against floods which occur at an average frequency of once in twenty-five years based upon the average rainfall of the drainage area. Drainage and flood control involve scientic, technical and complicated problems. The experiences of the past in this area call for the fullest and the best studies before it is subjected to assessment in any such amounts as now suggested.

While I have not been called upon to make any decision relative to assessment of benefits, I did permit one days testimony with respect to the lands and drains in the upper reaches of Middle River by reason of what I thought to be rather dubious claims of benefits to the lands in the upper reaches. It must not be overlooked here that all of the waters impounded upon the flood plane are such as are carried for miles within the confines of a channel which now exists in the same size and condition as cut by the natural forces of nature. A natural stream does not become a part of a drainage system unless and until some improvement is made in the channel as a part of the drainage proceeding. In this case none is contemplated beyond the reaches of the flood plane. It would appear to me therefore that the outlet of the man-made drains in the upper reaches are conditioned by the natural channel and not affected by this proposed improvement.

While benefits is a question of fact for determination by the viewers, it must be founded upon something more than mere speculation. I therefore felt that this evidence was proper for consideration at the preliminary hearing in order that proper instructions could be given the viewers. Surely I would be derelict in my duties if I permitted viewers to go willy-nilly over an area of several hundred square miles in quest of possible benefits, only to find that such benefits, if found, would run afoul with constitutional guarantees. The ever rising costs in drainage proceedings is a matter of proper concern.

While it appears that assessments for benefits resulting from the availability of outlet for future drainage is permitted in adjoining jurisdictions, the holding is otherwise in this state because of differences which exist in the several statutory provisions.

Steel output in the U. S. in 1956 was 115.2 million tons. Estimates place the 1957 total at about ½ million tons less.

Traffic Fatality Rate Up for State

All-time High of 685 Persons Killed in 1957

For the second consecutive time, Minnesota ended the year with a higher rate of traffic fatalities than the previous year, the Minnesota Highway department reported in a preliminary accident review issued today.

The fatality rate for 1957 was 5.3, compared to 5.2 for 1956 and 4.9 for 1955. This rate is computed on the number of fatalities per 100 million vehicle miles traveled within the state. Travel was estimated as 12.8 billion miles in Minnesota last year.

The rise in the fatality rate was caused by the great increase in traffic death which reached an all-time high of 685 during the year. The previous high year was 1936 when 649 persons lost their lives in traffic. During that year, travel was estimated at 5¼ billion miles and the fatality rate was set at 12.3 deaths per 100 million miles.

The rise in traffic fatalities continued throughout the year. For only three months, July, August and December, were fatalities below the five year average of the sam months.

The rise was reflected in the steady increase in the number of fatalities on rural roads. During 1957, there were 524 (out of 685) traffic deaths on rural roads, of which 343 were on trunk highways and 181 on other rural roads. This compares with 1956, when there were 493 deaths on rural roads and 1955 when there were 432.

A Day in the Life of a 2d Grade Pupil

There are those in this modern day and age who occasionally give vent to charges that school children nowadays have a pretty soft life, compared with kids back in the old days.

In a sense this may be true; today's children do have better facilities for getting an education in most instances.

Geting to and from those fa-
Getting to and from those different facet in the life of a school-age child. The old timers talk about walking miles to school through every kind of weather; today's child is a softie who rides the bus from door-to-door, these same people charge.

This isn't quite true. On the contrary, today's grammar school pupil actually has it tougher than his forebearers in many ways and the school authorities in Thief River Falls presents in pictorial form, "A Day in the Life of a Elementary School Pupil", just to show that the little fellows must withstand rigorous weather and a tough schedule to get an education.

The boy chosen as the typical elementary school pupil was Michael Kraemer, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kraemer of rural Thief River Falls.

Mike, as he is called, is one of four Kraemer children—he is the only boy— who attends the new Washington elementary school here.

Just as the old-timers did, Mike has to be an early riser in order to get to school on time. The only difference is that Mike, instead of walking a mile or two or three to a one-room country school, walks a quarter-mile to a school bus stop and attends a modern, multiple-room school. Some children walk a mile, often in bitter, sub-zero cold, to meet their bus. Could a softie do that?

Mike's modern school facilities aren't purely a blessing, however. His forebears, when in the second grade, as Mike is, probably attended school only a half-day and could then go home. Mike can't do that—the distance involved is too great so even at his age he has to stay and work all day.

Mike's day starts about 7 a.m. when his mother rousts him out of a cozy bed. It isn't always easy to leave the bed, especially when he knows the weather is cold, snowy and blowy and he has to face the wind while walking to meet the bus.

There's a rush around the Kraemer residence while the four children, JoAnn, Mary, Claudia and Mike prepare for classes. Soon the hike up the approach to the Kraemer farm toward the bus stop, where the bus, driven by Ray Bren picks them up at 8:10 a.m.

By 9 a.m. all three are well into the day's classwork in their various rooms. Mike is a second-grader, and his teacher is Mrs. Robert Randorf.

So the day goes until lunchtime, about 11:30, when Mike and his classmates take their turn to troop to the dining room, which at Washington school is the gymnasium with tables set up for eating purposes.

Back to classes in the afternoon, Mike does pretty much as any other second-grader, has his milk break, plays during the gym period and after classes are over perhaps does a little rough-housing with the other boys while waiting for the bus which arrives at 3:55 p.m., sharp, to take him home again. Mike and the girls step off the bus at their stop before 4:30.

At home again Mike may help his father with farm chores, or, in good weather plays with Pedro, the burro Mike won in a drawing in Thief River Falls a year ago. The girls help Mrs. Kraemer or play with the youngest daughter who is only a year old.

It's a pretty ful day and in the winter, when days are short and the blizzards howling, Mike and his sisters are at home during the daylight hours week-ends only. It isn't the easiest schedule but Mike seems to enjoy and thrive on it.

Chances the little fellow could stand all the hardships the old-timers had because the chances are the old-timers exaggerate their hardships just a little anyway.

All this talk about Russia's moon satellite may lead them to overconfidence. One of these days we'll top 'em. Eisenhower will make a hole in one.—Jack Sylvester.

Start of a Busy Day

Michael Kraemer, 8 son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kraemer, rt. 3, city, who was chosen as a typical rural pupil in city schools, races the clock to get ready in time to meet his school bus. He also has to compete with three sisters who attend the same school for washing facilities while getting ready, so the Kraemer home is a busy place until the four youngsters hike to the bus stop about 8 a.m. each week-day. Mike is a student at Washington elementary school here and was quite proud to be the subject of this photographic essay on a day in the life of an elementary school pupil from the rural area. Mike is shown dressing here as he notes the clock says he's behind schedule about a half-hour.

A Hearty Breakfast—and Off to School!

Rural Children Ride Bus to Consolidated Schools

After the Kraemer children board their school bus in the morning they separate to sit and talk with classmates their own age. Mike enjoys the ride to and from home on the bus driven by Ray Bren, who is also a city policeman. Mike is shown here surrounded by classmates, as they make the rounds with the bus to pick up other children. Identified here are, extreme rear of bus, Holly Knutson; back row, left to right, Allen Rawk and Orville Rolandson; Larry Offerdahl (in parka) and Mike. Girls are JoAnn Bruggeman, Nancy Prestebak, Jill Prestebak and Sandra Bruggeman (extreme front, blurred).

Reading Exercises Take Good Part of Typical Day

Mike, the typical rural youth attending Washington Elementary School, is still learning the fundamentals as spends much of each day learning to read well. Here he gets a few pointers rom his second grade teacher, Mrs. Robert Randorf. Larry Johnson is preoccupied with something else, while Cheryl Meyers is interested in the photographer.

Lunch Program Assures Adequate Diet

One of the many advantages children in the modern schools of today have over their counterparts of some years ago is the wholesome food served under the school lunch program. The meals are simple, but wholesome throughout and twice each day the children have a milk break in the lower grades. Mike Kraemer, typical rural school pupil, is shown here as he takes a well-filled plate from Mrs. Barbara Horejsi, while Emil Hageman awaits his turn.

Second-Graders Play Call-Ball in School Gym

Play is an integral part of every day in the life of children inour elementary schools and there are excellent facilities provided in all Thief River Falls schools.

Plays with Burro After School

His school day ended, typical pupil Michael Kraemer spends the time before dark playing with the pet burro, Pedro, he won at a drawing in Thief River Falls some time ago. Michael's father, Robert Kraemer, farms southeast of the city and Michael thinks it is a wonderful place for a growing boy to live and play. Mike gets home about 4:30, thus ending his school day, which began about 8½ hours earlier when he boarded the school bus at 8:00 a.m.

In Memorium

In loving memory of a dear wife and mother who passed away one year ago:

Time can ne'er erase the memory of a wife and mother's smile. We loved her, but we lost her; we miss her all the while. God in his glorious Heaven, a place for her has found. Where there are no cares and sorrows, but peace and joy abound. Then, some day we shall meet her, our wife and mother dear. We'll find that home up yonder, a far better place than here! Sadly missed by Walter Wengo and family. 11tp

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Children Need Grandparents, Too

Nowadays TV often pulls together two or three generations into one living room, just like the "good old days." Hurrah for TV — on this score anyway — because family group recreation which spans generations is having a hard time surviving the modern menu of fast-paced, highly specialized and commercialized entertainment. Off by themselves go the teenagers; into quiet spots go the old folks, caught on a treadmill of money making, homemaking, taxi-cabbing, clubbing and shopping go the middle-aged; into the playroom go the youngsters. It is downright amazing how few families sit down together to eat even one meal daily.

When families sit, held together tenuously by TV or other recreation enjoyed unequally, complete compatibility is rare, and sometimes the problems seem greater than the gains, but at least they sit together and one thing leads to another:

Freddy, age 4, saw a commercial about cake icing. He was curious about spreading it and why it hardened. Grandma Hall spoke up, "I'll make a cake tomorrow afternoon, Freddy, and you can help me." Freddy's mother asked, "Do you really want to bake tomorrow, Mother Hall? Because if you do I could shop for drapery material and help Mary find a dress for the high school party. You wouldn't mind being left alone with Freddy?"

"Mind, I'd love it — I mean we'd love it. There would be one to warn us not to sample everything or lock pans or spoil our supper. We're going to have fun even if we DO spoil our supper. Aren't we, Freddy?" "Oboyoboy", was all Freddy could manage.

Now the premise is hereby set forth that what inconsistencies in child rearing result from children having full measure of pleasurable contacts with grandparents, for aunts and uncles, etc.) are far and away offset by the family flavor life takes when everyone plays an active role in the family living. This calls for liberal allowances for differences in personality and attitudes in order to reduce or reconcile inconsistencies, but all of life is like that, and children may as well learn it early. For infinitely worse off than the family with inconsistent grandparents is the family without grandparents.

In casting "Battle Hell" director Michael Anderson made a perfect choice in selecting Richard Todd to play real-life hero, Commander John S. Kerans. The central figure of "Battle Hell," a DCA release, Commander Kerans made Naval history when he plotted and executed the H.M.S. Amethyst's 140-mile escape down the Yangtze River in 1949 under the watchful guns of Chinese Communists. The film is showing Wednesday and Thursday at the Avalon Theatre.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

A productive duck pond is what Jeff Tikkanen, New York Mills, developed by blocking a ditch and letting the water back in. Tikkanen had plenty of wild rice and other food in the pond, so he offered to let 4-H members have what they could harvest. He provides a boat for them to use. All the club members need to do is help harvest and promise to plant the rice at home in one of their ponds. Sherman Mandt, East Otter Tail county agent, says this gives the youths duck food at no cost and gives them experience in wildlife protection.

Corn yield increased nearly 17 bushels per acre for Norman Berger, Lake Benton, supervisor of the Lincoln county soil conservation district last summer. The increase came from using tractor track planting. The practice also resulted in less erosion and saved gasoline and labor.

Contour strips saved the topsoil on a hill on the Leonard Roers farm in Douglas county last summer. Roers recently told Bob Amborn, U. S. soil conservationist assisting the Douglas soil conservation district that after summer's 40 inches of rain, he is sold on benefits of contour strip farming. He plans to contour another field next year—a field which had been farmed up and down hill and is eroded as a result.

A grassed waterway paid for itself in one year, according to Ray Bolke, a farmer in Chippewa county. Bolke built this waterway last year with help from Robert Anderson, U. S. soil conservation technician. Purpose was to drain surface water from a low area which had been tiled. In past years, about 5 acres of alfalfa flooded out annually. This year, it all came through fine, reports Clair Kess, U. S. soil conservationist.

7,647 GOVERNMENT AGENCIES IN STATE

The report of Public Examiner Raymond B. Vecellio for fiscal 1955 covers the State of Minnesota, all 87 counties, all 95 cities and villages down to 2,500 population, 676 of the 719 municipalities under 2,500; all 1,837 townships, all 4,201 school districts; 622 of 647 other governmental agencies, including the University, 9 county sanatorium, 9 housing and redevelopment authorities, 94 agricultural societies, 66 soil conservation districts, 400 retirement and relief associations. In towns with population between 2,500 and 10,000 the percentage of total revenue derived from public service enterprises ranges from 15.1% to 20.5% of the total revenue, in the smaller communities this ratio is considerable higher, ranging from 25.6% to 35.1%.

SCANNING THE NEWS

OUR juvenile delinquents of a few years ago have grown into older delinquents.

Such is the observation that one is likely to make in scanning the year-end report of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Although based on preliminary figures, the report to the Attorney General shows that more serious offenses were committed during 1957 than ever before.

Mr. Hoover told the Attorney General that statistics received from law enforcement agencies across the Nation under the Uniform Crime Reporting Program indicate that an all-time high of 2,756,000 major crimes occurred during the year just past. And, what's more, this represents a 7.9 per cent increase over the record of 2,556,150 serious offenses which was established in 1956.

Largest increase were in crimes committed against property—robbery, burglary, larceny and auto theft. Preliminary tabulations indicate that murder represents the only category of major crime in which there was no increase.

In what was apparently a busy year, the FBI located 16,000 automobiles which had been transported across state lines. Compared with the previous year, there were twice as many convictions for fraud against the Government violations. Federal kidnaping convictions increased over 30 per cent, and convictions under the Federal Bank Robbery Act were more than 10 per cent higher.

The FBI located 9,300 fugitives during 1957, including nearly 1,100 criminals who were being sought at the request of state and local authorities after fleeing interstate to avoid prosecution, custody, confinement or giving testimony in violation of the Fugitive Felon Act.

Since J. Edgar Hoover had a big year, it figures that James V. Bennett, Director of the Bureau of Prisons was also a busy man. Overcrowding in Federal prisons has already reached a critically dangerous point and the present pattern of crime seems to indicate that the situation will get even worse.

Bennett reported that during fiscal year 1957 he had received 2180 prisoners aged 21 and under and 2230 young men aged 22 to 25. Existing facilities were stretched to provide housing, training and treatment for these offenders. Many of the younger group committed under the indeterminate sentence provisions of either the Juvenile Delinquency or Youth Acts.

Bennett reported that diagnostic classification techniques were focused on nearly 16,600 offenders who were committed to his institutions during the year. After pursuing programs of employment, training, and treatment, over 16,000 prisoners were released, more than one-fourth of these by parole. The Federal prison population at the end of December stood at approximately 20,800, having risen by 800 since the beginning of 1957.

St. Paul Carnival Opens January 24

State Capitol to Offer Annual Salute to Winter

America's celebrated salute to snow and ice—the St. Paul Winter Carnival—will unfold its 1958 spectacle of parades, pageants, and winter sports Friday, Jan. 24.

The "Centennial Holiday" festival will be launched Friday noon with the arrival of 20 visiting queens and the dedication of a 30-foot-long ice palace located alongside the downtown skating plaza. The ice palace will be a hub of Winter Carnival gaiety for 10 days ending Sunday, Feb. 2.

King Boreas XXII will receive his crown Friday night in the free King's Coronation program at the St. Paul auditorium. Jim Backus, radio comedian and "Mr. Magoo" of the cartoon series, will emcee the festive show.

Saturday's program will be highlighted by the Grande Parade, which winds up inside the heated auditorium after a tour of downtown streets. Grand Marshal of the procession will be Gen. W. G. Wyman, commanding general of the U. S. Continental Army command. Other featured guests include Fran Allison, radio and TV hostess noted for her "Aunt Fanny" characterization, and Michael Ansara, better known as Cochise on the "Broken Arrow" TV show.

Other opening week-end attractions include the massive square dance festival, world's original ice fishing contest, ski jumping championships, national speed skating meet, mutt races, indoor archery tournament, national majorette championships, and the musical jamboree. Two long toboggan slides will be opened in front of Minnesota's beautiful state capitol.

Examinations for Game Warden Set

Applications Due Not Later Than January 31

Qualified individuals interested in becoming a game warden will have an opportunity to take a civil service examination for this position in February.

The civil service department and the division of game and fish have announced that in order to fill current and future vacancies in the Minnesota warden service, a written examination will be given on February 8.

Examination announcements and application blanks can be obtained from local game wardens or from any Minnesota state employment service office. Forms can also be obtained from the civil service department in St. Paul.

Candidates for the examination must submit their completed application forms to the civil service department before January 31, 1958.

This examination will not be held again in the near future and applicants are urged to submit their applications without delay.

Prowler Quintet Tip Warren 61-42

Coach Alan Adams' basketball Prowlers continued undefeated in district conference competition as they trounced the Warren ponies, 61 to 42, in a game played at Warren on Friday night.

The Prowlers will engage in one of their more important conference tilts on Friday night when coach Harold (Snooks) Sullivan brings his husky East Grand Forks Green Wave into town. Tip-off time for the varsity game is at 8:15 p.m.; with a preliminary game being slated for 6:45 p.m.

Except for the first period, when the Prowlers held a bare two-point lead, 10 to 8, the locals were in control of the game played at Warren on Friday night.

Scoring heavily in the second and third period, racking up eighteen points in each quarter, the Prowlers moved into a 46 to 31 lead entering the final period.

The Prowler scoring in the second and third was very evenly distributed. Dave Rasmussen, in the two period, scored a field goal and a pair of free throws; Phil Hanson rolled up five field goals; Ken DeLap chalked up two field goals and a pair of free throws; Mikey Hanson had three field goals and a free throw; and Jim Bennes totaled three field goals and three free throws.

Phil Hanson added a pair of field goals in the first period, and three fielders in the fourth quarter to win high-point honors with 20 points.

Thieves Six Scores Two More Victories; Roseau Here Sunday

Coach Paul Bedard's senior hockey Thieves picked up four valuable points in Northwest Hockey league play over the weekend by scoring a pair of important victories. On Saturday night, playing on the Roseau ice, the Thieves defeated the Roseau Cloverleafs, 5 to 3; and in a Sunday afternoon game played on the Arena ice sheet here, the locals defeated the Grand Forks Jets, also by a 5 to 3 score.

One of the big games of the local senior hockey season is slated for next Sunday afternoon, Jan. 26th, when the Roseau Cloverleafs make their second and last appearance on the Arena ice. In a season-opening game here in December, the Thieves defeated the Leafs, 8 to 3.

A two-goal rally in the second period, with Darryl Durgin and Monty Markstrom scoring, broke a 2-all tie and gave the Thieves a "bulge" to carry into the final period at Roseau on Saturday night.

Roseau's Dickie Johnson, who tallied two of the Leafs' goals, pared the Thieves' lead to 4 to 3 with a score at the 6:23 mark of the third period; but Al Steenerson's "insurer," at 14:24, put the game beyond the reach of the hustling Leafs.

The Thieves center Gordy Bjerken, received a skate slash near the nose, the cut requiring several stitches. Bjerken "sat out" the Grand Forks game on Sunday afternoon.

The Markstrom-Durgin-Carlson trio, rapidly building up a fine point total, sparked the Thieves in their 5 to 3 win on Sunday afternoon. Against the Leafs on Saturday night, this line racked up three goals and two assists; and on Sunday the trio accounted for three goals and five assists.

After a scoreless first period on Sunday, the Thieves drilled three goals past goalie Bob Kennelly. And the locals increased their lead to 4 to 0 at the 10:25 mark of the third period. With Jim Reese sitting out a penalty and the Thieves' shorthanded, the Jets shattered goalie Jack McGill's hopes for shutout when Glen Wallor picked the corner on an angle shot. Veteran Johnny Noah followed with an unassisted tally at 13:08, with Mike McMahon in the penalty box. Paul Bedard, who tallied two goals in the game to move ahead of Mouse Efteland in their personal scoring race, took a point pass from Durgin and scored at 18:47. Ron Geatz, who played very effectively for the improving Jets, notched the game-ending tally at 19:37.

Baudette Trims Prowler Six 7 to 2

Fritzinger Registers Five Goals for Burbots

The Baudette Burbots, with center Bill Fritzinger personally escorting the puck into the net five times, defeated the hockey Prowlers, 7 to 2, in a conference game played at Baudette on Saturday night.

Only in the first period did the Prowlers keep the game on even keel in the scoring column. After Fritzinger and Jack Nielson had given the Burbots a 2 to 0 lead, Dale Wennberg, on an unassisted tally, and Archie Schneider, with Wes Halvorson assisting, knotted the score at 2-all.

A pair of Fritzinger goals in the second period pushed Baudette into a 4 to 2 lead; and in the third period a three-goal cluster, with Fritzinger hitting the twin twice, boosted the lead for coach Al Godfrey's team to 7 to 2.

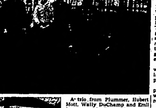
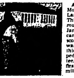
Mid-January in the Far North





A trio from Plummer, Hubert Mott, Wally DuChamp and Emil Larson, with Ray Wagner of Thief River Falls, enjoyed a round of golf here on Sunday, January 12. Wally DuChamp came through with a 44, the low score for the day. The picture was taken by Bert Brosseau of this city who in turn was snapped as he started on the first tee. Old timers agree that the first half of aJnuary was the mildest in their memory.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Prowler College All-Stars

We were in a group of basketball enthusiasts who engaged in a lively discussion the other day on the former Prowler cagers who have gone on to greatness in college. This conversation was ignited by Art Johnson's 36-point effort set at ETOINETAOIN performance for the Concordia college Cobbers in a conference game against St. John's college the other night. Incidentally, that 36-point effort set a new individual scoring record for the Cobbers. And Art followed that record-breaking effort by turning a 25-point game on last Tuesday night as the Cobbers upset the heavily-favored Hamline Pipers, 68 to 57.

The consensus of the group was that Art Johnson, who is in his senior year at Concordia, and captain of this season's Cobber team, was entitled to be named to the Prowler college all-stars at center. Art, who was a high-scoring center for the Prowlers during the 1952-53-54 seasons, captained the locals in his senior year.

Moving up the forward positions, it was generally agreed that Gil Mickelson, who captained the Ohio State Buckeyes in the 1930's, had rated a berth at forward. At the other forward, Don Lorentson, who was co-captain of the 1938 Prowler state champions and who played a year at St. Olaf college before entering the service, would be an ideal mate for Mickelson.

The back court positions were awarded to Gordon (Boomer) Dahlow and Grant Mickelson. Boomer, a Prowler captain in 1929, played his basketball, and football, at North Dakota, and in his senior year he captained the Sioux basketball and football squads. The burly Boomer is one of the Prowler all-time greats. Grant Mickelson, the other guard, is an older brother of Gil Mickelson, graduating with the Prowler class of 1931, and he played on a championship team at North Dakota A. C., and then played a year at Illinois.

How would you like to coach an outfit like that? Gil Mickelson and Don Lorentson at the forwards; Art Johnson at center; and Boomer Dahlow and Grant Mickelson at the guards.

It must be understood that this mythical lineup refers to Prowlers who have gone on to college, and it isn't a compilation of the greatest players in Prowler basketball history. That's something else again, and a much more difficult problem.

Wanted: A Finger

For want of a healthy left forefinger, Duane Glass' hockey career, and it appeared promising, has come to a halt. Temporarily, we hope.

Duane was a stand-out performer on the 1956 Prowler state champions, and that season he was named to the all-state tournament team as a defenseman. Last year he played with a Great Falls, Montana, club, participating in the fast semi pro league out there. Glass apparently impressed the scouts that toured that area, for he was offered a tryout by the top-ranked Canadian junior hockey club, the St. Catherine's TeePees.

Last August, Duane had the misfortune of dropping a beverage case on his finger, smashing and splintering the digit badly. Since that time, has been under medical care, but the finger proves to be a stubborn healer. Just lately a couple of "pins" have been driven into the splintered bones in an effort to aid the mending process.

Duane, in spite of being warned by a bone specialist not to engage in physical games, attended the St. Catherine's tryout, having the finger protected by a cast. Handicapped as he was, Duane did not survive the final "cut".

One of our most vivid memories of that 1955-56 hockey season, occurred in the state championship finals games between the Prowlers and the International Falls Broncos. And all those fans who were in attendance will readily recall the incident. We are referring, of course, to that terrific body check that Duane threw into the Broncos' flashy right wing, Oscar Mahle. Mahle was cartwheeled into the air, and crumpled onto the ice in a near-shock condition. From then on, Mahle's effectiveness was cut by fifty percent, and the Prowlers went on to win the game, and the title by a 3 to 2 score.

State Employment Service Locates 170,892 Jobs in '57

Commr. Frank Starkey Says Statewide Total Was Lower Than in '56

The Minnesota state employment service last year found people to fill 170,892 jobs' says an annual summary of placement activities issued this week by Frank T. Starkey' commissioner of the department of employment security. In his annual report, Starkey lists 12 of the agency's field offices as being in a Blue Ribbon class, by reason of having made substantially more placements in 1957 than in 1956. No. 1 office in this list is St. Cloud, with a 18% increase. The Hopkins office is a close second. The other ten offices are Albert Lea, Brainerd, Fairmont, Faribault, Fergus Falls, Mankato, Moorhead, Red Wing, Rochester and Winona.

A feature of last year's placement operations was a 17% increase in the number of referrals to professional and managerial jobs. This increase reflects, to some extent, Starkey said, the operation of a national register for these high type openings that was instituted in October.

Statewide, the department's 1957 placement record, down 5% from 1956, reflects the fact that during the closing calendar quarter of the year, employment declined from the high levels that had been reported during earlier months.

Roseau Rams Whip Prowler Six 6-2

Coach Oscar Almquist's defending regional champion Roseau Rams, showing strong skating and sharp team-play around the nets, defeated the Prowlers, 6 to 2, in a regional conference game played on the Arena ice sheet Friday night.

This week's schedule will find coach Johnny Matchefts' Prowlers "on the road" for a couple of conference games. On Tuesday night, Jan. 21st, the locals will play the Warroad Warriors at Warroad; and on Friday night, the Prowlers play a return game with coach Ken McFadden's Hallock Bears at Hallock.

Friday night's game, which was a fine exhibition of high school hockey, was closely-contested until Roseau's superior weight, power, and team balance became a factor in the second and third period. The Rams clicked off a quick goal to open the game's scoring, with center Dave Wensloff hitting the corner of the south net at 0:38 of the first period.

The second period was the most active from a scoring viewpoint, with the Rams tallying three goals and the Prowlers racking up a pair of goals. Wensloff, Larry Anderson, and Don Ross scored for Roseau, while Curt Ness and Dale Wennberg notched the Prowlers goals.

Wensloff, getting a Roseau goal at the 6:28 mark of the third period, tallied his third goal of the game to turn in a "hat trick". The other Roseau goal in the final stanza was Don Ross' marker on an assist from Jim Stordahl.

Important Forces in State Agricultural History Are Outlined

Ten major forces which have played a key role in the development of Minnesota agriculture during the past 100 years were explained Thursday to Farm and Home Week visitors on the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota.

T. H. Fenske, associate dean of the University's Institute of Agriculture, and chairman of the Minnesota Centennial agricultural committee, said these forces are:

1. Mechanization of most farm operations.
2. Introduction of electricity on a broad scale, through the Rural Electrification administration.
3. Development of new varieties of crops and livestock and other knowledge by agricultural experiment stations around the country.
4. Growth and development of agricultural education through colleges, schools, vocational courses in high schools and the Future Farmers of America.
5. Development of the Agricultural Extension Service and 4-H Club work.
6. The cooperative movement in agriculture.
7. Development of general farm organizations, such as the Grange, Farm Bureau and Farmer's Union.
8. Organization of the Soil Conservation Service and Soil Conservation districts.
9. Government agricultural programs.
10. War—especially World Wars I and II.

Fenske pointed out that there were only 157 farms in Minnesota territory in 1850. The 1954 census showed 165,225 farms in the state.

When Minnesota gained statehood in 1858, there was very little wealth, no established industries or railroads no sound banks or currency and not a dime in the state treasury, Fenske said.

To top it all off, the farm harvest in 1858 was almost a complete failure.

Agriculture made some rapid growth in coming years, Fenske stated. From 1860-85, wheat and other small grain were the major products. By 1880, wheat farming was well established in the Red River Valley.

Livestock farming was on the gain in southern Minnesota between 1885 and 1905. The first cooperative creamery was started in Freeborn county in May, 1890.

From 1897-1917, Minnesota farmers in general were more prosperous than they had been up to that time. Markets were good. The population was growing.

Then after World War I, there was a big price drop and the farmer's dollar in 1921 was worth only 77 percent of its prewar value. There was some recovery in the late 1920's and then came the great depression of 1929, when corn on Minnesota farms brought 26 cents per bushel, hogs brought less than 4 cents per pound and potatoes sold for 28 cents per bushel.

In reviewing government agricultural programs since 1932, Fenske said that "Only war has succeeded in cutting surplus. The solution to farm surplus problems," he said, "will not be found in the next year or in the next five years no matter which political party is in power."

Recognition was given to all winners in 1957 summer home project work at the annual awards assembly held at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, on Tuesday, January 14.

Barbara Thureen of East Grand Forks was named Reserve Champion in girls' home project work and Joel Riendeau of Red Lake Falls and Roger Odegaard of rural Crookston tied for reserve championship honors in boys' home projects.

Northwest School students made enviable records of production and achievement in their farm and home economics summer projects on the farms and in the homes during the summer of 1957. Instruction in the home project work is given by the heads of the respective departments at the school and supervision on the farm and in the home is given by home project supervisors.

State Share of U.S. Budget $1.2 Billion

Average Minnesotan Will Pay $362, Report Shows

Minnesota taxpayers will be required to pay out approximately $1,197,180,000 in federal taxes in fiscal 1958-1959, if President Eisenhower's $73.9 billion budget is adopted, according to Norman A. Borgen, executive secretary of the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

"This estimate, compiled from figures prepared by the Council of State Chambers of Commerce, is based upon the premise that Minnesotans in fiscal 1958-1959 will pay 1.62 percent of the tax burden of the nation," Mr. Borgen stated.

In fiscal 1956-1957 Minnesota taxpayers paid $1,220,277,000 in federal taxes.

"The fact that Minnesotans may be called upon to pay a smaller share of the total Federal budget in fiscal 1958-1959 than in fiscal 1956-1957, in spite of a higher expenditure program, would appear to indicate that we must be lagging behind some of the other states in obtaining our share of the advances in the national economy," Mr. Borgen concluded.

$118,300 Is Given for the Retarded

Arthur L. Gluek, state chairman for the Retarded Children's Friendship Day campaign has anounced that receipts for the Minnesota Association for Retarded Children drive held last November were $118,300.

Of this amount, $52,000 was raised in Minneapolis, $19,300 in St. Paul and $17,000 in the rest of the state.

Mr. Gluek said, "Public response was very gratifying and communities throughout Minnesota are showing by interest and support that they realize the need to tackle this problem which affects approximately 3% of our population."

Dry Milk Industry 'Boon to Mankind'

State Produced 425 Million Pounds During Past Year

The dry milk industry, which originated in Minnesota and occupies a major place in Minnesota industry has been a boon to mankind all over the world, Byron G. Allen, Minnesota commissioner of agriculture, said this week.

Commenting on efforts of the state of Louisiana to bar Minnesota milk powder, he said, "It might be a good thing for the people of the state of Louisiana if their state officials would study the good uses to which powdered milk has been put the world over, instead of trying to put up fences against the product.

"They might do well to consult the World Health Organization, which has used powdered milk in successful campaigns against dietary diseases, and officials of the African, Asian and American countries where these baffling diseases have been wiped out (thanks in part to milk powder from Minnesota and other northern states."

It has been estimated that Minnesota produced 426 million pounds of powdered milk products in 1957. This is equivalent to about half of the state's total milk production, Mr. Allen pointed out.

160 Minnesotans Serve as Speakers for Centennial

List of Names Will Be Made Available at State Headquarters in St. Paul

More than 160 distinguished Minnesotans have enlisted as members of the Minnesota Centennial Speakers Bureau, Dr. J. O. Christianson, speakers Bureau chairman and superintendent of the University of Minnesota School of Agriculture, announced today.

The speakers list can be obtained by writing to Speakers Bureau, Minnesota Statehood Centennial Commission, 1058 University Avenue, St. Paul 4.

"We will furnish the list of distinguished leaders in various fields who have offered to devote as much time as their busy schedules permit," Christianson said.

"However, it will be necessary for the individual or organization to contact the specific speaker directly . . . the Centennial staff cannot schedule the speakers," Christianson stressed.

He said it is hoped that "by utilizing this list of fine men and women, groups will obtain an effective speaker for their Centennial event."

More speakers are being added to the list daily, Christianson said. He said most of the speakers are available without charge except travel expense.

Beet Sugar Plants Finish Their Runs

Valley Plants Received 1,134,000 Tons of Beets

One of the longest sugar beet campaigns in the history of the East Grand Forks plant of the American Crystal Sugar Co. came to a close last week-end.

According to O. A. Holkesvig, district manager, the total harvest of 1,134,000 tons of beets in the Red River Valley is an all-time high, though quality of the beets is down due to the wet muddy weather that plagued beet growers during harvest season.

The American Crystal plant in Moorhead finished its run Jan. 5, the shorter run due to a higher percentage of beets lost in that aera due to the weather. The Crookston plant finished this weekend.

THE MINNESOTA CENTENNIAL STORY

CHAPTER THREE

The Father of Waters

★ One of the world's greatest rivers rises in Minnesota. La Salle called it the Colbert, in honor of the great minister of France. The Algonquins had a word for it, "missi-sippi," the great river.

The story of the Mississippi is to a great degree the history of mid-continent America. The story of the great river is also, very largely, the story of Minnesota. This magnificent river drains more than a million square miles of land extending from the Appalachians to the Rockies. Into the Mississippi pour the water of a hundred thousand streams.

The early Indians worshipped the river. The first people to come to Minnesota pushed their way upstream against its current. The pine forests floated southward. The power of the river ground the wheat of the western prairies. More than half of the people of Minnesota now live in communities that were first founded on the usefulness of the Mississippi and its tributaries.

A Twisting Stream

The big river rose in a small lake fed by rivulets. As the stream widened it sought a passage to Hudson's Bay. It was stopped by the glacial drift left by the ice age. Then the river turned eastward to seek the blue waters of Superior. The hills of the Mesabi blocked this course. Then the river turned southward to cut a channel to the Gulf of Mexico.

Schoolcraft at Lake Itasca

The Mississippi is more than 2500 miles in length. Seven hundred fifteen miles are found in the torturous course of the waters from Lake Itasca to the Iowa border. The river twists and turns, particularly in its earliest stages, sometimes almost to meet itself and go backwards.

The Mystery of Its Source

In 1700 De L'Isle drew the most reputable map of his day. He put the source of the Mississippi in Hudson's Bay.

In a book and map published in London in 1781 Jonathan Carver designated the source of the river as White Bear lake west of the Red lakes.

Lewis and Clark prepared a map of Minnesota in 1806 and revised it the following year. This was not based upon their own explorations but upon the most reliable information. These maps gave the source of the Mississippi in Cass and Turtle lakes.

In 1820 Governor Lewis Cass of Michigan made up an expedition to explore the great domain under his government. He crossed Superior, entered the St. Louis river and then followed the hard trails to Sandy lake and the Mississippi. Rowing upstream was hard work. As the days shortened the party came to Red Cedar lake. This was designated as the source of the river. The name of the lake was changed to that of the governor. Minnesota now has not only a Cass lake but a Cass county.

Men from Far and Near

Giacomo Beltrami was an Italian lawyer. He thought that if Columbus could bring honor to Italy by the discovery of America he could also add lustre by finding the source of the Mississippi. Coming to the United States he was attached, in 1832, to the Stephen H. Long expedition that was to explore the headwaters of the Minnesota and Red rivers. He left this expedition at Pembina and after many adventures and misadventures he designated Lake Julia as the source not only of the Mississippi but of the Red. He was wrong in both his conjectures but he went on to New Orleans and wrote of his travels. He left his name on a Minnesota county.

The Great Expedition

Henry R. Schoolcraft had been the historian of the Cass explorations. In 1832 he headed an expedition that was to find the true source of the great river.

As the expedition made its way up the river in the path and course which Cass had followed, Schoolcraft selected an Indian guide, Ozawindib or the Yellow Head. He knew the country and obtained light canoes and more Chippewas to help.

On July 15, 1832, Schoolcraft and his men decided that the Mississippi had its source in Elk lake, now known as Lake Itasca. That truth has never been successfully denied, and the years that followed proved its rightness.

The Name for the Lake

Itasca is one of the best-known geographical names of America. Its origin is not clear.

According to one story, the Rev. William T. Boutwell, a member of the great expedition, was asked for the Latin term meaning "true head." He gave it as "veritas caput." Schoolcraft crossed off the first and last syllables and coined the word "Itasca."

An old Indian legend claims Itasca was a beautiful maiden, the daughter of Manabosho, the spirit god of the Chippewas. She was wooed by Chebiado, the keeper of the souls of the dead, but she would not go with him. Chebiado tore her away from friends and family. Although a great storm came to protect her, Itasca was killed and buried in some heaps of sand. The rills that flow into the lake are Itasca's tears as she cries for home and friends.

There is another explanation. In a government report Schoolcraft suggested the name I-TAS-CA, from "ia" which means "to be," from "totosh" which means "the origin," and from "ka", a terminal inflection. This, Mr. Schoolcraft said, was the name which he applied to the lake from which the Mississippi rises.

THE UNION STATE BANK OF THIEF RIVER FALLS

Under its present name the Union State Bank will soon have 28 years of banking service to the community to its credit. Its real origin, however, dates back to 1892 when Thief River Falls was still looking forward to the coming of the railroad and the State of Minnesota was only 34 years old.

The parent, or maybe we should more properly say the grandparent bank, was the First State, organized the year the Great Northern extended its branch line to this city from St. Hilaire. It was located on Main Ave. at Second, in the Dobner-Meehan block, the officers being H. G. Dobner, C. L. Dobner, Matt. Barzen and George G. Johnson.

In 1906 the Peoples State Bank was organized and operated in the building now occupied by Mayor Orlon Belch, and associated with this bank were D. B. Bakke, H. A. Loken, T. P. Hamre, Oscar Sponheim and H. S. Dahlen. In 1920 the First State and the Peoples State merged and became the First & Peoples State Bank, located on a portion of the site of the present Union State. Prominent in this merged organization were H. S. Dahlen and Ralph Sheldon.

In May of 1930 the First & Peoples became part of a group of banks organized by the Union Investment Co. of Minneapolis which later became a part of the Northwest Bancorporation. Leon J. Kalliher served first as cashier and later as president, until 1938, when he was succeeded as president by E. O. Peterson, still serving in that capacity. Mr. Peterson had come heer from Belle Plaine in 1935, as vice president and cashier.

Checking the figures back to the hectic days of the big depression, the Union State Bank has a record of consistant growth as evidence of its steadily increasing importance in the community, and the large area served by Thief River Falls as a growing commercial center. The bank footings in 1930 were less than half a million dollars. By 1935 they were up to nearly a million and by 1940 they had grown to a million and a quarter. With the war years they sky-rocketed to nearly four million in 1945 and have continued to grow year by year to the end-of-the-year total recently reported of nearly seven million dollars.

Much needed additional room for this growing business was provided in 1953 when an expansion and remodelling program more than doubled the bank's floor space and provided the most modern facilities for efficient operation and customer convenience. A seperate installment loan department was established, a night depository provided for the after-hour safety of commercial accounts and a drive-in teller service was made available for the convenience of motoring depositors.

As a member of the Northwest Bancorporation group of banks the Union State has behind it an organization with approximately two billion dollars in assets.

As a local industry, in terms of payroll, the Union State has 26 employees. In terms of years of service Miss Laura Lund, assistant cashier, is the undisputed champion, having served as an employee and as an officer since 1920 when she joined the staff of the consolidated First & Peoples.

Editorials . . .

"It would be thought a hard government that should tax its people one-tenth part of their time, to be employed in its service. But idleness taxes many of us much more, if we reckon all that is spent in absolute sloth, or doing of nothing, with that which is spent in idle employments or amusements that amount to nothing.—If time be, of all things, the most precious, wasting of time must be the greatest prodigality, since lost time is never found again."

—Benjamin Franklin

Happy Harry

Harry Truman manages to break into print quite regularly. He has a knack for publicity that is refreshing, and while his comments are seldom constructive they generally pack a punch that provokes a healthy chuckle. His recent observation that his one-time hired man, General Ike, was a great fellow as long as he had someone to tell him what to do, had all the earmarks of being a nasty dig. But the public, and Ike himself, accepted it for what it was, a friendly rib by an old-timer who doesn't want to be forgotten.

Harry Truman was an unusual product of the American political system. While he lacked many of the qualifications for leadership that we ordinarily associate with the high office he held, he did have a pleasing personality that won for him many friends. It was because he had friends that he was selected to take the post of vice president, and which fate decreed should be the stepping stone to the presidency. There were times, we thought, when he was a truly great president.

And we hope that he with his wisecracks, will keep on reminding us now and then that he still is with us.

City Management

Acting on the recommendation of a committee appointed to study various forms of government for small cities, Grand Rapids has decided it needs an administrator, and the council is seeking applications for the new office it has authorized. In commenting editorially on the action the Herald-Review points up the fact that the success of this type of municipal management will depend largely on the capabilities of the person who is selected to do the managing. It commends the council for its decision not to be hasty in making a selection.

Over a period of years the city-manager form of government has become increasingly popular. In many small cities, as here in Thief River Falls, municipal government has become a big business, and as the operations have become more extensive the problems of management have become more difficult.

Opposition to the city-manager type of control generally is based on misunderstanding of the intent of such a management organization. Many people have the notion that a city-manager form of government becomes a one-man government and that we abdicate all our rights as citizens to this hired official. Actually a city manager is merely an executive officer selected by the Council, or whatever the governing body may be called, to direct the city's activities according to the instruction of that governing body.

In a small city, such as ours, service on the Council is a part-time job, and the members of the council cannot be expected to give personal supervision to the city's many activities. The city-manager plan provides an agency through which their directives and policies can be enforced.

But as Editor George Rossman of the Herald-Review points out, the success or failure of a city-manager plan depends largely on the qualifications of the person who is selected to do the job. "A capable administrator will be worth much more than his cost. But an incompetent administrator would be a burden to the village."

Pork Barrel Tactics

It now appears likely that Congress will use the need for an expanded missile program and the pause in the inflation spiral as excuses for another spending spree. The debt ceiling is being boosted, which proves again that a statutory debt ceiling is a lot of nonsense. Pressure groups demanding appropriations for new or expanded programs will have their usual campaign-year field day. Liberals are going to be very liberal with the government's credit and the taxpayers' dollars.

But maybe it isn't fair to charge all of the responsibility for irresponsible action to the liberals. Much of the pressure for spending comes from groups that are conservative in their general approach to problems of government policy, but lend their support to a program of unwise spending because of their selfish interest in one small item in an appropriation bill. In order to achieve their little victory they subscribe to an overall raid on the treasury that eventually will mean a cost to them much in excess of what they had gained.

This is what is called pork-barrel spending. By this method a large number of measures of doubtful value, but with strong local appeal, are wrapped into one big omnibus bill which congress passes without much argument because it contains a tempting morsel of pork for enough of the members to assure a majority. And there will be a lot of pork-barrel tactics in this session.

One remedy for this method of buying votes with taxpayers' dollars is the item veto which permits a chief executive to strike from an appropriation bill any item of which he disapproves without vetoing the entire bill. Here in Minnesota that is possible and by virtue of this authority a governor may curb legislative spending excesses. Unfortunately that power has not been given to the President of the United States, and he must veto the appropriation bills in their entirety or approve of all the pork they may contain.

Correction

In reporting a recent Rotary Club program presented by Lincoln high school instructors in science courses, a Times representative stated that of six biology classes now being conducted, only two "would meet college entrance requirements."

Paul Anderson, director of secondary education, says that this was not a correct statement of the proper distinction between the courses offered in these classes. Both of the courses meet college entrance requirements, he says.

We gather that both of them are excellent except that the courses offered in two of the classes are more so.

While we are happy to make the correction in behalf of the Times reporter, we share in his bewilderment and admit that, we too, are becoming more and more confused as we try to follow the developments in our rapidly expanding public education system.

Probably Right

(John Weber in Murray County Herald)

Secretary of state John Foster Dulles looks upon everything the Soviets suggest with caution and suspicion, and he's probably right. At least, past performance would so indicate.

Talks of "immediate" meetings between the top leaders of the Communist and free worlds receive little enthusiasm from Dulles. For this he is berated by many of the western European diplomats. But at a time like this it is always wise to take a look at the record.

We can go back to the Franklin D. Roosevelt days of World War II and examine the results of every "Summit" meeting since that time without finding a single successful conference. The Russians, particularly since the end of World War II, use such meetings as nothing more than propoganda utensils.

They would of course, follow the old line of suggesting types of disarmament which would leave the free world in a weakened condition and give Communism a real chance to upset the present balance of power in their own favor. Naturally, the United States could not go along with such suggestions and as a result our Kremlin friends would again have an opportunity of pointing: "See, they don't want peace. They want war, or they would stop arming themselves to the teeth."

No nation is more desirous of peace and prosperity than America. Still, we have learned through bitter experience that the Communist world is not to be trusted. Yet, some of our own top government officials and many others in Western Europe believe that Russia is now sincere. How, in the light of Communist history, can they possibly reach such a conclusion?

We'll go along with the cautious and suspicious Mr. Dulles on this one.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

During the past few days I have been giving my interim report to the people of Minnesota in many cities and towns throughout the state. In spite of a schedule of as high as ten meetings a day, this has been one of the most encouraging experiences I have had as governor.

Youth is Interested

Students in Minnesota schools, present at many of the meetings, have asked penetrating questions about our government. Their comments show deep and intelligent interest in public questions. They show that our young people, even our teen-agers, are interested in the serious problems of today, and are eager to help solve them. Their participation confirms my faith in the rising generation.

Interest in All Aspects

Adult citizens who attend these meetings likewise have been asking questions that show they are meeting their responsibilities in making their government work effectively and democratically. We have discussed issues that relate to almost every aspect of the people's business. I have had an opportunity to learn at first hand what they think and what they want.

One of the most encouraging aspects of these meetings has been the attitude of our citizens. Their desire to cooperate with each other and with their government to build a better Minnesota is clear. They are showing that, while they are happy about the progress we have made in Minnesota, they are by no means complacent. Recognition of achievements we have already made serves to bring about enthusiasm to work harder toward even greater achievements in the future. This experience certainly confirms my faith in the soundness of our democracy.

Attention to Education

One further development in these meetings has real significance. If there is any one field of government activity in which the public interest seems to be greater than in other fields, it is the area of education. Our citizens want to know about our progress in education at all levels; elementary and secondary schools, junior colleges and the entire field of higher education, and special education of all kinds.

This deep interest indicates why, here in Minnesota, we did not need Sputnik to alert us to the need for increased effort to provide the best possible educational opportunities. This explains why the 1957 Minnesota Legislature was able to enact bills that increased the amount we invest in education at all levels by nearly one third, and that provided the greatest boost for education ever enacted in a single session.

State Departments Participate

At these meeting, particularly at those held in the evening, I have been assisted by other state officials and representatives of major departments of state government. These men, busy as they are, are taking time to report to the people. It is time well spent. I know that our citizens join me in appreciation of their efforts to promote a greater understanding of the many complicated aspects of state government.

THIS WEEK —In Washington

With Clinton Davidson

Sit in the gallery of either the House or the Senate this week and most of the talk you will hear will be about increased government spending for a big build-up in the defense program.

Probably none of the orators will say anything about how a big increase in spending is to be financed, yet that is almost as important as building intercontinental missiles. Will it mean more taxes, or more debt?

That is a question to be faced, sooner or later, and the man who is expected to provide the answer is a quiet Arkansasan named Wilbur Daigh Mills, Representative from the Second District of Arkansas and new chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

This is the committee through which all tax and fiscal policies must first clear before reaching congressional debate. It has first jurisdiction over all revenue legislation. Mr. Mills has been a member for 15 years.

I have known Wilbur Mills for the entire 20 years he has been a member of Congress, and my estimation of his ability and integrity has grown in each of those years. At 48 years of age, he is one of the youngest and most capable committee chairman under a seniority system that gives years of service priority over ability. Fortunately, Mr. Mills has both.

Probably no man in Congress, and few, if any, men in the country know more about taxation and fiscal policy than Mr. Mills. In those matters he has the respect and complete confidence of members of both parties in Congress.

Little given to old-fashioned oratory, Mr. Mills relies instead on a thorough knowledge of his subject, painstaking preparation and a clear, convincing delivery to win the support of his colleagues in Congress.

Some of them have told us there have been times when they followed his advice against warnings that to do so was "bad politics," but that invariably his advice was both sound and good politics.

An example of this occurred last spring when Democratic leaders decided it would be a good idea to put a tax-relief bill through the House and have it ready for Senate action in the 1958 congressional election year.

Mr. Mills torpedoed that move by holding hearings of a Fiscal Policy subcommittee, of which he was chairman, and producing expert witnesses to show that tax cuts in a period of declining revenues and rising expenditures would be fiscally irresponsible and politically unwise. Events have shown that Mr. Mills was far-sighted in his action.

Mr. Mills was born at Kensett, Ark., the son of a country banker, and graduated from Hendrix College and Harvard University Law School. He hung out his shingle in 1933 and was elected county judge in 1934. He was elected to Congress in 1938, and has been re-elected nine times.

Physically, he is 5 feet, eight inches tall and weighs a compact 180 pounds. He is married to his childhood sweetheart and they live, with their two teen-aged daughters, in a quiet apartment here.

Visitors at the Adolph Wold home Sunday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Wold and family. Evening visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wold and boys of E. Grand Forks, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Peterson and boys and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Wold and girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wold were hosts to a group of the Sanders 4-H club for a skating party Sunday. The afternoon was spent skating and Mrs. Wold served lunch to the group which included Mr. and Mrs. Richard Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. George Swanson and Sharon, Mrs. Wallace Nelson, Ronnie, Marcia and Joey, Mrs. Thelma Larson, Loralee, David and Teri, Tommy Welsch, Donny Hoefer, Kathy, Barbara and Eddie Wold.

1947—TEN YEARS AGO

Higher telephone rates will go into effect here Jan. 28, the rate for one-party residence phones rising to $2.75 a month compared to the former $1.75.—St. Bernard's parish of this city is raising funds to finance the construction of a $400,000 combined church and school.—Gust Hillyer was elected to the board of directors of the Union State bank.—The school board increased its insurance coverage on school buildings to $688,000.

OUR LAND

Starter Fertilizers will always be needed in Minnesota, even though bulk spreading is becoming much more common. In fact, a farmer often gets more for each fertilizer dollar spent for starter than he does for any other kind of fertilizer. Some recent field tests in Minnesota bear this out, says A. C. Caldwell, University of Minnesota soils scientist.

Take, for example, results of test plots in Mower county. There, corn yields went up 14-27 bushels per acre where 100 lbs. of 5-20-20 fertilizer was used as starter. It's easy to see that such an increase pays for the fertilizer and leaves a big profit besides.

A similar story was told by field tests in the Red River Valley. When soil scientists applied 30 pounds of phosphate as starter fertilizer in sugar beet rows, yields went up by more than a ton per acre. This was more of an increase than resulted when on nearby plots that received 400 pounds of phosphate broadcast before planting time.

Does this rule out broadcast fertilizing? Definitely not, says Caldwell. Starter fertilizers alone are not enough if soils are low in available phosphorus. There's one way to make sure the soil gets the plant food it needs: Apply fertilizer according to a complete soil test.

Shopping Made Easier

Small children in stores and supermarkets are becoming more of a problem. Equally true is that stores and supermarkets are becoming more of a problem to children. The increase in self-service, colorful, handy-low displays, eye-catching packaging—all lure small children to compulsive, exciting grab-as-grab-can.

Actually this is to be expected, because merchandising has taken on many motivational devices which have long been part of the stock in trade of the teacher. When merchants hide staple items in inconspicuous places and feature the exotic, they invite poking about, loitering and time for mischievous hands to find mischief.

In a society which spends more money on its young than any other, children deserve a place in the shopping pattern. At any rate they are in by sheer force of numbers. It is a perfectly normal reaction for children to want to see and to touch merchandise, which adults have deliberately made attractive, so what is to be done about it?

Shopping with children creates problems related chiefly to their feet, hands, eyes, ears, mouths and—bodies—without much of them left over. Let's take them one at a time: Feet get tired, so shoes are important and the newest ones are not usually the best ones for shopping. Also a careful plan puts shopping when freshest and alternates footwork with sitting.

Hands—a good preventive for hand trouble is full hands. Give children something to hold, preferably related to the shopping—a list to cross off items as purchased, a small parcel with something for him inside, a favorite toy. Eyes and ears we can encourage. Urge children to take in everything with eyes and ears, even making a game of it. Well worth the extra time is a little more leisurely pace which permits parent and child to talk about the rich sources of education all around them.

Mouths can be fed a snack while restign the feet, and the relaxation will help to keep the voices down to the quiet level best for everyone. Bodies? Oh yes, the first door to the left by the elevator. Rest rooms must be considered as "home base" of you are with children and shopping is to be made easier.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information of assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—I am a Korea veteran, just out of military service. What is my deadline for starting training under the Korean GI Bill?

A—You must begin your training within three years from the date of your discharge or separation.

Q—I have named the beneficiaries of my GI insurance policy but I haven't yet chosen a method of payment. If I should die without designating a payment method, how will the insurance money be paid out?

A—It will be paid to your beneficiaries in 36 equal installments. However, your first beneficiary has the right to choose payments under any other installment plan available.

Q—Who is supposed to apply for War Orphans schooling, the prospective student or his living parent?

A—If the prospective student is under legal age, his parent or guardian must apply in his behalf. If he is of age, and has no known legal disability, he may apply on his own.

Q—I understand that persons getting VA pensions will receive annual income questionnaires after the first of the year. I received a gift of money during 1957 from relatives. Do I have to report that as income?

A—Yes, money gifts are considered as income for pension purposes and should be reported on the questionnaire.

Increase profit feeding with STAR-HI EGG FEEDS

Did you know that two-thirds of the feed you give your layers is non-productive? Only one-third of the feed converts to egg productivity, while the other two-thirds goes for body maintenance. Don't gamble — Make sure that ⅓ ration pays off in higher egg output per layer with Star-Hi 18 and 20% Egg Feeds. Star-Hi 18 and 20% Egg Feeds conform to latest University Research Farm and U.S. Government recommendations. They are high-energy, nutritionally balanced feeds that keep your flock in tip-top shape. Remember, . . . they come in mash, pellet or crumble form.

Here's another saving for you too. There's a local Star-Hi feed mill in your area. Thus, you don't pay for high transportation costs on your feed—charges that add nothing to the value of your feed.

Council Acts on Numerous City Matters

Group Is Notified Tuesday of 3 Claims Filed Against City

Action on a wide variety of municipal affairs was taken by the city council at its regular January session Tuesday evening, disposal of other matters being deferred to a later meeting.

Harold M. Johnson, superintendent of the water treatment plant, discussed the need for a new and larger pump and motor to replace a present unit, and the council voted to open bids in February on a 1,200-gallon pump and 75-horsepower motor.

At the request of Harry Hendrickson, superintendent of electric distribution, the council also called for bids on a carload of light poles.

G. A. Frahm, chairman of the municipal airport commission, submitted several proposals, including one to increase the rent being paid by North Central Airlines for a portion of the airport building.

Frahm also endorsed a request submitted by the Thief River Falls Flying club that it be authorized to arrange a dedicatory program for the airport in the summer of this centennial year. A program scheduled several years ago was canceled because of unfavorable weather.

Cliff Bjorkman and Roy J. Oen appeared in behalf of the Pennington county centennial committee to ask if any decision had been reached by the council as to the possibility of acquiring a 3½ acre tract at the east end of the Eighth st. bridge as the site for a wayside parking area and historic marker. The council indicated that it had not yet reached a decision on the matter.

A letter from Don L. Olson, chairman of the county board, was read, stating that a county appropriation of $1,500 for the centennial observance could be used to aid in financing the purchase of the site.

In behalf of the Carnegie library board, Richard G. Mabey, president, invited the council to attend a joint meeting of the two groups February 12.

A building permit was granted to Land O' Lakes Creameries to erect a large addition to its tur-

The Rev. Marvin Carlson, pastor reported that the congregation has again grown numerically. This past year 95 were added to the church membership to make a confirmed membership of 397.

It was also reported that the Sunday School has had a steady increase in growth with 233 pupils and a staff of 28 teachers.

The financial report of the congregation as presented by Floyd Litstrom indicated a good growth in stewardship over the past year with an income of nearly $17,000. It was noted that when all the financial reports were given by organizations of the church, income reached a record breaking total of over $23,000.

The congregation adopted a budget for this year in the amount of $17,106.

The members decided to continue their plans for the future building of a parsonage. They also decided to purchase the new Intersynodical Lutheran Hymnal and Service Book to be used in many Lutheran churches in America.

Andrew Skaar Named Outstanding County Farmer-Sportsman

At Dai[illegible] Meeting

LEW CONLON

Manager of the Minnesota dairy industry committee, who will speak this afternoon at the annual meeting of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association in the municipal Auditorium. Directors will be elected and plans discussed for the association-sponsored ninth annual Northwest Dairy Day to be held in Thief River Falls June 10.

Andrew Skaar has been selected as the outstanding farmer-sportsman of 1958 in Pennington county, according to County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk. Skaar will compete now for honors as one of Minnesota's four outstanding farmer-sportsmen for the year. There will be four nominees — one from each of the four sections of the state.

One of the four district winners will then be named Minnesota's Farmer-Sportsman of the year and will be honored at the Northwest Sports Show in Minneapolis, Sunday, April 13.

District and statewide winners will be picked from county nominations by a committee of sportmen, conservationists and agricultural specialists. Heading this committee is Parker Anderson, extension forester at the University of Minnesota.

The local winner was selected by a committee including Don Lawrence, soils technician, SCS; Carl Sundstrom, game warden; and County Agent Stelmaschuk. Andrew Skaar was picked for his success in farming, wildlife conservation and forestry practices, soil management and leadership in improving farmer-sportsmen relations.

He will receive a special recognition certificate for his outstanding efforts.

Skaar is serving on the district soil conservation board, is a registered seed grower and has implemented extensive soil conservation practices. He has also constructed two large water ponds which are used by ducks for nesting, several ditches of the Skaar farm are used by ducks. Four other ponds are being planned and prepared which will also be good game areas.

A shelter belt is being planned around the feed lot area where Skaar is fattening seventy-five head of cattle. Game will have access to feed and shelter in this area. Swaths of grain are also left along fence lines when harvesting. This provides feed for game over-winter.

Brush and wood cover is plentiful for bigger game such as deer and also partridge and grouse. An effort is made not to remove all of the native vegetation around field so that game can have extra protection and cover.

A recommended rotation plan has been adopted for the farm. Stubble mulching and fertilizer used properly and pasture rotation is practiced on the farm.

Emergency Loans for Farmers Made Easier, Says Thye

Says FHA to Loan Money to Help Meet Payments on Farm Machinery

Emergency loans to help disaster stricken farmers keep up installment payments on farm machinery will be easier to obtain from now on, the office of Sen. Thye said Monday.

Thye's office said the farmers home administration (FHA) had informed the senator that it has broadened its lending program to allow loans of up to 15 per cent of the value of a farmer's equipment to help him meet installment payments on machinery already under lien to a lender.

Such loans will be available in Pennington, Marshall, Red Lake and other counties that have been declared "disaster areas" because of flood, drought or other natural disaster, Thye's office said.

The new emergency FHA credit can also be used to make principal payments on outstanding equipment loans, he said.

He said the new program, providing three per cent loans, "will help farmers in disaster-stricken areas get their feet on the ground at the start of a new crop year." The loans are repayable at harvest time.

Lincoln School PTA to Sponsor School Discussion Session

For its program next Monday evening, January 27, at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium, the Lincoln school PTA unit is sponsoring the first of a series of laymen-faculty discussion sessions dealing with the school curriculum and other matters, Mrs. Robert Bredeson, president, announced today.

Paul Anderson, high school director, stated that the topics to be discussed will include the following: Should more science and mathematics classes be offered in Lincoln high school? Should these courses be required of all students? Should students be required to take a heavier subject load? Should Lincoln high school offer a summer school session? Should the school day be lengthened to provide for a seventh period? Anderson said that these are but a few of the many topics which could be studied by the groups. He urged, however, that the participants introduce topics in which they might be interested.

Anderson also stated, "It must be recognized that the school cannot go far toward the solution of many of its problems without the active participation of those who pay the school's costs. It is important that a large number of school lay-people attend the January 27 evening meeting and express their opinion on how Lincoln high school can improve its education program."

325 Unemployed in TRF This Month

An estimated 325 Thief River Falls residents currently are unemployed, about 125 more than last winter at this time, it was announced Thursday by H. S. Eldevik, manager of the local employment office.

This situation, he said, is due to heavier local layoffs and to the return to this area of a larger number of local residents who have been laid off their jobs in other communities.

Eldevik stated that many workers now unemployed have seasonal construction jobs to return to as soon as weather permits in the spring. The only job classification with a fair demand at present is office workers.

Immunization Work in Local Schools Was Success, Says Nurse

The Thief River Falls schools had a very successful immunization program this year, Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse, reported. Grades due for their protection against small pox and diphtheria-tetanus responded almost 100 percent in all elementary schools.

A total of 147 children received small pox vaccinations and 295 had diphtheria boosters in the four grade schools. Most sixth graders received both a smallpox vaccination and a diphtheria booster, while third graders were due for a diphtheria booster only. A few kindergarten children who had not completed their pre-school immunization were completed at this time also.

The program in high school was very encouraging too, but percentages are not as high as elementary schools. Of the 205 ninth graders, 142 received diphtheria protection. This was approximately 90 percent of those needing their boosters this year, which is very good, said Mrs. Race. A total of 156 diphtheria boosters were given in high school and 61 smallpox vaccinations.

"With this kind of response each year," Mrs. Race said, "We need not fear an epidemic of either diphtheria or smallpox in the Thief River Falls school system. Will we soon be able to feel the same security from Polio? There are still many school children who have had no Salk vaccine protection. Many more have had only one or two, without completing the series of three shots. Now during the March of Dimes drive, let's remember to protect our own children against this dreaded disease. Check on your family today."

Champagne Twins Wed In Double Ceremony

St. Joseph's Catholic church at Brooks was the scene of a pretty double wedding January 4 when Miss Lorene Champagne and Glen Westman, and Miss Dorene Champagne and Maurice Cote were united in marriage. The vows were spoken after Rev. Father Henry Carriere, before an altar graced with baskets of gladioli and assorted flowers. The music was furnished by the Audette girls of Terrebonne.

The brides' are the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Amedie Champagne of Brooks. Glen Westman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Westman of Newfolden and Maurice Cote is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aristide Cote of Terrebonne.

Given in marriage by their father, the girls wore identical gowns of white Chantilly lace over ruffled tiers of nylon net and satin fashioned with Mandrin collars, sheer tulle yokes, which enhanced an all lace bodice with long sleeves. Tiny buttons descended down the back of the gowns. They wore rhinestone earrings and necklaces, gifts from the groom. Their fingertip veils were of French illusion net and were held in place by sweetheart shaped hats of lace, outlined with pleated net and trimmed with seed pearls. They carried cascade bouquets of red roses and white carnations. Following the ceremony they placed a red rose at the foot of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Miss Marian Champagne, sister of the brides, and Miss Madeline Merell, cousin of the brides, were the maids of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Elaine Gibeau of Grand Rapids, cousin of the brides, and Miss Arlene Gauthier of Plummer, friend of the brides. They wore identical gowns of blue net over taffeta with an overlay of white scalloped lace. To complement their attire, they wore white angora hats and their blue necklace and earring sets were gifts of the brides. They carried bouquets of pink roses and white carnations.

Mr. Cote was attended by his twin brother, Myron, of Terrebonne as bestman while Mr. Westman's bestman was Philip Gibeau of Grand Rapids, cousin of the brides. Groomsmen were Dale Westman of Newfolden and Vern Cote of Terrebonne. They all wore navy blue suits with white carnation boutonnieres. Serving as ushers were William Champagne and George Desseiller.

Mrs. Champagne, mother of the brides, chose a metallic gray and black dress with black and rose accessories. Mrs. Cote wore a royal blue dress with matching accessories. Their identical corsages were of red roses and white carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Westman were unable to attend because of illness.

Following the 10 o'clock ceremony a dinner and luncheon was given by the brides' parents in the church parlors with 65 guests present. The bridal table was centered with a tiered wedding cake which was cut and served by Miss Gladys Westman and Mrs. Onezime Champagne of Cudahy, Wis. A dance was held in the Oklee Hall in the evening with the music furnished by the Stardusters.

Mr. and Mrs. Cote are now at home in Austin, Texas where he is stationed with the United States Air Force. Mr. and Mrs. Westman will make their home in Minneapolis where he is employed.

International Falls Man Fined $130 on Driving Charges

$55.70 Costs Also Levied Against J. A. Morin, Who Led Police in Fast Chase

Several traffic law violators provided most of the business in the Monday municipal court session before Judge H. O. Chommie.

Only one highway patrol case was heard. Samuel H. Campbell, Goodridge, pleaded guilty to having no brakes and was fined $5 plus $3.50 costs.

No cases were brought by Sheriff Charles Richards.

Several city ploice cases were in court, however. Conard M. Lyane, Crookston, charged with driving too fast for conditions leading to an accident, forfeited $15 bond by non-appearance.

Appearing in court were:

Richard Hruby, city, who pleaded guilty to making an improper U-turn and was fined $5 plus $3.50 costs.

Floyd S. Dalton, city, pleaded guilty of speeding, and was fined $10 plus $3.50 costs.

Oliver LeRoy Danielson, Alvarado, careless driving, plea of guilty, fined $15 plus $3.50 costs.

Judge Chommie dealt severely with John A. Morin, International Falls. Morin had to be brought to the city to face a reckless driving charge and as a result, drew fines on three violations.

Morin had led local police a merry chase several nights ago, doing up to 80 m.p.h. in a 30-mile zone. Twice he pulled away from the police after being stopped and they were about to apprehend him, finally making what he thought was a getaway when the squad car developed mechanical difficulties.

However, police traced him through his license number and he was apprehended in International Falls and brought here for trial.

Charged with reckless driving, Morin pleaded guilty and was fined $100 plus $18.70 costs.

For leaving the officers after being commanded to stop he was charged with failure to comply with directions of a peace officer and his guilty plea resulted in a $25 fine plus $3.50 costs.

On a third charge of having an improper muffler on his car, Morin also pleaded guilty and was fined $5 plus $3.50 costs, making total fines levied against him $130 and costs of $55.70, for a grand total of $185.70.

Morin is still in custody.

Lincoln High Math Teachers Speak at Rotary Luncheon

Report Steady Increase in the Number of Math Students in Recent Years

Lincoln high school math instructors provided the program at the Rotary Club luncheon Monday noon. Robert Gramstad, algebra teacher, and Joe Forberg, teaching geometry and trigonometry, reported on the courses offered here. Their talks were supplemented by a discussion of guidance problems by Dennis Rolle, director of the school's guidance program.

A steady increase in the enrollment in math courses in recent years was cited as a healthy trend that probably will continue. This was attributed primarily to more effective guidance and helpful parent influence obtained through conferences conducted by faculty members with parents and students.

The general decline in interest in math and other solid subjects was attributed to the shortcomings of both teachers and parents.

There was agreement that there should be more required subjects and fewer electives. At the present time only one year of math is required and for this one year students have a choice between algebra and a course referred to as general math. The school offers excellent opportunities for students who wish to take the more advanced work.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

Your Chamber of Commerce has just given me the pleasure of a look at your issue of the 5th of December last, complete with a Shoppers' Guide full of attractive offers in anticipation of Christmas. That happy season is now over and is worth looking back to as an occasion one should be content occurs once a year. The enthusiasm it creates lasts long enough into the New Year to make the next incidence of the festival not too distant a prospect.

Your journal contains much more news space than any we have here, and rather less advertising inserts than I had expected.

It's news is homely, local and mainly parochial which means you cater for a clientele certain of finding the items they want most to know about. You aim, I should think, to cultivate local pride in your immediate homeland, local patriotism being more important to develop thoroughly, so that then national interests and international affairs fall into proper perspective. It is a great idea to concentrate on keeping one's own doorstep scrupulously clean, a task you seem to discharge admirably well.

There are indications throughout your paper that your folk keep steadily at grips with the problems likely to confront them at any time. I find a refreshing lack of unfeeling, unimaginative criticism such as tortures one's reading at other times. You must realize in balanced judgement preferring to wait that day or two to ensure that the supposed "scoop" may not prove on closer examination to lack substance.

The impression I conjure up in my mind is an altogether happy one. I am glad to have had this brief encounter with a country which must necessarily be largely otherwise unknown to me.

Good luck,
Alexander R. Campbell

Sunnyrest San Cost $115,273 to Run in '57, Dr. Flancher Reports

A meeting of the commission for Sunnyrest Sanatorium was held at the sanatorium on January 14, at which time the superintendent and medical director, Dr. L. H. Flancher, submitted the yearly report covering the work done at the sanatorium and in the six counties comprising the district (Polk, Norman, Red Lake, Pennington, Roseau and Marshall).

The total cost of running the sanatorium, including the salary and expenses of the field nurse, was $115,273.99. This was approximately $6,000 more than the cost in 1956. The six counties contributed $72,973.55 towards the total cost.

However, there were many needed repairs necessary. Both of the wells were overhauled and a new pump was installed on one of them. It was necessary to rewire the boiler room, because old wiring did not comply with state code.

The salaries were increased in order to obtain nurses and employees in competition with the hospitals and clinics in Crookston. The total cost of the items alone above mentioned totaled $10,442.45. This did not include increased cost of foodstuffs.

"Cash receipts were slightly larger than 1956," said Dr. Flancher, "because after July 1, 1957 we received $2.50 per day patient where formerly we received only $7.50 per week. The cash receipts have been reduced somewhat due to some x-rays for Mantoux tests now being taken in their own counties, paid by Christmas Seals, in order to avoid long bus trips to the sanatorium. Also we had fewer out-of-county patients during 1957.

"The daily average patient load remained practically the same for the past three years, 1955 (38); 1956 (38) and 1957 (34). This would tend to show that in spite of our extensive field work and follow-up of ex-patients, contacts and suspects, and the number of cases discharged as arrested cases of tuberculosis, that our case load or number of active cases remains about the same.

"The out-patient department with a full-time field nurse, Mrs. Mary Vattendahl in charge, under supervision and assistance of the superintendent and medical director has continued the work as outlined in last year's report, with a few changes which we hope are for the better. All parents of new positive Mantoux reactors, are X-rayed now in addition to the students because x-rays of parents are now paid for by Christmas Seal Sale Funds.

"All ex-patients are visited by the field nurse, also contacts and suspected cases, urging them to continue to have check-ups and x-rays. Practically all cases are interviewed by the superintendent when reporting for x-rays. Several active cases have been found by checking former cases, and suspects.

"We are quite proud of the fact that all of the counties in our sanatorium district are now accredited counties, Marshall being the last county."

The council was advised that Vernon Scholin, 404 Duluth av. S., had filed a claim for $500 against the city, alleging damage to his basement resulting from a broken water main. Also filed were claims for $10,000 each by Gerald Belland and Tom Belland for personal injuries sustained in a car accident resulting from an icy spot on East Third st. City Attorney Robert A. Wurst stated that the city's insurance company had been notified of the claims.

Bruce Reski, city-county director of civil defense, announced a regional C-D meeting will be held in the Legion club rooms Monday, January 27. He also told the council that a 300-bed mobile civil defense hospital had been allotted to Thief River Falls, provided that the community supply the necessary storage facilities.

The council felt that this should be a joint city-county responsibility. Aldermen Bob Carlson and S. A. Honebrink were named on a special committee, and Reski was asked to arrange a conference with the county board.

Mayor O. D. Beich appointed Dr. H. Paul Wendt as city health officer, and Alderman Stanley Sandvig and Carlson to the airport commission. All were confirmed by the council. Council President Carlson also announced the personnel of standing committees for the year.

It was voted to advertise for bids for official city depositories and city newspaper, the bids to be opened February 18.

Before adjourning, the council discussed the stop sign situation in the Washington school area. The opinion was expressed that the present signs impede traffic unnecessarily, since they halt traffic even when the schools are not in session. It was voted to experiment at the Knox school with a new type of stop sign which can be turned down when not needed to control traffic. If the test proves successful, the new signs would be placed near the other schools.

Mercury Slumps to 13 Below Zero Here Monday

Northwest Minnesota residents might take the motto of a major auto maker in years past and reword it to read, "Watch the Storms Go By," to describe the weather this winter.

Another storm, a bad one, passed to the south of this area this week, paralyzing Kansas City, Mo. and wreaking havoc and tying up traffic all the way to the New England coast, while the upper midwest basked in sunny, above-zero weather for the fourth consecutive "cold" month.

Temperatures have dipped below zero only two days in the past week. A below-zero reading was registered Monday, with a 13-below, and this morning when we had a 4-below reading. Highs ranged from 30 above Tuesday to 7 above Wednesday, while the lows ranged from 13 below to 15 above.

Only a trace of precipitation fell during the past week.

Mild weather is still in prospect, according to the KTRF forecast. Skies will be mostly cloudy today, tonight and Friday with possible light scattered snows tonight and Friday. There will be little temperature change today, not so cold tonight.

Warmer weather is predicted for Friday. Highs today will range from 10 to 15 and lows will be 5-10 above zero. Winds will be light and variable.

Plan Dedication of Local Airport

TRF Flying Club Is Now Making Arrangements

Kenneth Wendel, president of the Thief River Falls Flying Club announced today that, with approval by the city council of a club resolution calling for dedication of the municipal airport this summer, the flying club will start planning sessions for the dedication at the next meeting Feb. 12.

The nature of the dedication celebration is indefinite at this time, Wendel stated. However, emphasis will be put on how the airport benefits the city and surrounding area, with displays and demonstrations to show how such benefits are derived.

An air show by outside professional pilots is not planned, Wendel said. However, aircraft manufacturers and agencies will be invited to have displays at the dedication, along with displays of private and experimental airplanes. If possible, displays and fly-overs by military aircraft will be arranged.

"However," Wendel said, "We do not want to make a lot of promises we can't keep in regard to attractions offered at the dedication." If possible, the show will be made free to the public, or at most, only a slight admission charge per carload of persons will be made in order to defray expenses, if necessary.

The dedication of the municipal airport here will follow the Minnesota centennial theme and probably will be held sometime in June.

BE IT RESOLVED by the City Council of the City of Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota, as follows:

1. It is hereby found, determined and declared that the City of Thief River Falls has, by resolution adopted on May 20, 1957, after notice and hearing as prescribed by law, ordered the construction of an improvement pursuant to and in accordance with the provisions of Minnesota Statutes, Chapter 429, consisting of the construction of stabilizing gravel base, bituminous surface and concrete curb and gutter, together with incidental drainage work and installation of water and sewer service connections and replacement of iron pipe water service connections all on certain streets as set forth in said resolution of this Council, that the City has approved plans and specifications for said improvement, received bids thereon pursuant to advertisement for bids as required by law, and awarded contracts therefor in the total base amount of $[illegible], that the total estimated cost of said improvement is $[illegible], that the City has heretofore duly levied special assessments upon benefited property on account of said improvement in the amount of $25,912.87, including $[illegible] of special assessments upon City owned property, and the remainder of the cost of said improvement shall be paid by the City from funds available for said purpose, that it is necessary at this time to issue bonds pursuant to said Chapter 429 in the amount of $30,000 for the purpose of financing a portion of such cost, that the proposal of the Union State Bank of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, to purchase said bonds at par and accrued interest and subject to the further terms herein set forth is reasonable and advantageous to the City and is hereby accepted, and that it is necessary at this time to establish a fund for the construction of said improvement and a debt redemption fund for the payment of said bonds and interest thereon in accordance with said Chapter 429 and with Minnesota Statutes, Section 475.61, and to prescribe the form and terms of such bonds in the manner herein set forth.

2. For the purpose of paying the cost of said improvement and in anticipation of the collection of special assessments the City shall forthwith issue its negotiable coupon general obligation Street Improvement Bonds, Series of January 1, 1958, to be dated as of January 1, 1958. Said bonds shall be 30 in number and numbered from 1 to 30, inclusive, each in the denomination of $1,000. All bonds shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per cent (4½%) per annum, payable July 1, 1958, and semiannually thereafter on January 1 and July 1 of each year, and shall mature serially on January 1 in the amount of $3,000 in each of the years 1960 through 1969, provided that each and all of said bonds shall be subject to redemption and prepayment on July 1, 1958, and any interest payment date thereafter at par and accrued interest. Not less than 30 days prior to the date specified for the redemption of the said bonds the City Treasurer shall mail notices to the holders, if known, and to the bank at which principal and interest are then payable, and said treasurer shall maintain a record of the names and addresses and serial numbers of holders of prepayable bonds, so far as such information is made available to him, for the purpose of mailing such notices. Both principal and interest shall be payable at the Union State Bank, in Thief River Falls, Minnesota, and the City hereby agrees to pay the reasonable and customary charges of said paying agent for the receipt and disbursement thereof.

3. Said bonds and interest coupons to be thereto attached shall be in substantially the following form:

No. $1,000

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS that the City of Thief River Falls, a duly organized and existing municipal corporation of the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, acknowledges itself indebted and for value received promises to pay to bearer the sum of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS on the 1st day of January 19...., or on any date prior thereto on which this bond shall have been duly called for redemption and to pay interest thereon from the date hereof until said principal sum is paid, or until this bond has been duly called for redemption, at the rate of four and fifty hundredths per cent (4.50%) per annum, payable July 1, 1958, and semiannually thereafter on January 1 and July 1 of each year, interest to maturity being payable in accordance with and upon presentation and surrender of the interest coupons appurtenant hereto. Both principal and interest are payable at the Union State Bank, in Thief River Falls, Minnesota, in any coin or currency of the United States of America which on the date of payment is legal tender for public and private debts. For the prompt and full payment of such principal and interest, the full faith, credit and unlimited taxing powers of the City have been and are hereby irrevocably pledged.

This bond is one of a series in the aggregate principal amount of $30,000, all of like date and tenor except as to serial numbers and maturity dates, all issued by said City for the purpose of paying a portion of the cost of a street improvement in said City, and is issued pursuant to and in full conformity with the resolutions duly adopted by said City after hearings as required by law and pursuant to and in full conformity with the Constitution and laws of the State of Minnesota thereunto enabling, including Minnesota Statutes, Chapter 429. This bond is payable primarily from the 1957 Street Improvement Bond Sinking Fund, but the City is required to pay the principal and interest hereof out of any funds in the Treasury in the event moneys on hand in said fund is at any time insufficient to meet the payment of maturing principal and interest.

All bonds of this series are each subject to redemption and prepayment at the option of the City on July 1, 1958, and any interest payment date thereafter, at par and accrued interest, upon notice of call mailed not less than thirty (30) days in advance of the date specified for redemption to the bank at which principal and interest are then payable and to the holder, if known, of each bond to be redeemed. Holders who wish to receive such notice may register their names, addresses and bond numbers with the City Treasurer.

IT IS HEREBY CERTIFIED, RECITED, COVENANTED AND AGREED that all acts, conditions and things required by the Constitution and laws of the State of Minnesota to be done, to exist, to happen and to be performed preliminary to and in the issuance of this bond in order to make it a valid and binding general obligation of said City according to its terms, have been done, do exist, have happened and have been performed as so required; that the City has duly determined the necessity and contracted for the construction of said improvement, that the 1957 Street Improvement Bond Sinking Fund has been duly created and provision made for the support thereof by special assessments heretofore levied for the years and in aggregate amounts not less than 5% in excess of sums sufficient to pay the interest hereon and the principal hereof as they respectively become due, and ad valorem taxes, if needed for such purpose, will be levied upon all taxable property in the City, without limitation as to rate or amount; and that the issuance of this bond does not cause the indebtedness of said City to exceed any constitutional or statutory limitation.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the City of Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota, by its City Council has caused this bond to be executed in its behalf by the signature of its Mayor and City Clerk, and sealed with its official seal, and the interest coupons hereto attached to be executed and authenticated by the facsimile signatures of said Mayor and City Clerk, and this bond to be dated as of January 1, 1958.

4. Said bonds shall be prepared under the direction of the City Clerk and when so prepared shall be executed in behalf of the City by the signature of the Mayor, attested by the City Clerk, and the seal of said City shall be affixed to each thereof, and the interest coupons shall be executed and authenticated by the printed, engraved, or facsimile signatures of the Mayor and the Clerk. 5. There is hereby created and the City Treasurer shall hereafter maintain on the books and records of the City a separate and special fund designated as the "1957 Street Improvement Fund", in which fund there shall be credited the entire proceeds of the sale of the improvement bonds herein authorized and the entire proceeds of the sale of any additional bonds which may hereafter be authorized for the purpose of paying the expenses of said improvement, together with sufficient additional moneys to complete payment of the cost of said improvement to the City, which moneys are now on hand and available for said purpose in the amount of $7,018.75. 7. It is hereby estimated that the collections of the special assessments heretofore levied on account of said improvement will be sufficient to produce sums at least 5% in excess of the amounts needed to meet when due the principal and interest payments on the bonds herein authorized. The City hereby reserves the right to issue such additional series of bonds as may be necessary in order to complete the financing of the costs of constructing said improvement, payable from the funds created in paragraphs 5 and 6 hereof, provided that the City shall first have levied special assessments and/or general ad valorem taxes, appropriated to said funds, for the years and in the amounts sufficient to provide sums at least 5% in excess of the amounts needed to meet when due the principal and interest payments on all of such bonds.

8. The City hereby covenants and agrees that if any assessment levied for said improvement shall be at any time held invalid, due to any error, defect or irregularity in any action or proceeding taken or to be taken by the City or by this Council or by any of the City's officers or employees, either in the making of such assessments or in the performance of any condition precedent thereto, the City and this Council will forthwith do all such further acts and take all such further proceedings as may be required by law to make said assessments a valid and binding lien upon said property. The City further recognizes its obligation, in the event that moneys in said 1957 Street Improvement Bond Sinking Fund are at any time insufficient for the payment of the principal and interest coming due or past due on any bonds payable from said fund, to levy each year a sufficient amount to take care of accumulated or anticipated deficiencies.

9. The City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to file with the County Auditor of Pennington County a certified copy of this resolution together with such other information as the County Auditor may require, and to obtain from said County Auditor a certificate that such bonds have been entered upon his bond register.

10. Prowler Six Wins Overtime Tilt 3-2

Arlan Hjelle's goal at 3:35 of the overtime period, after getting a fine pass from Wes Halvorson, broke up a 2-all deadlock and gave the Prowlers a 3 to 2 win over the Warroad Warriors in a regional conference game played at Warroad on Tuesday night.

The Prowlers will play at Hallock on Friday night, move back into the Arena rink for a game against Red Lake Falls on Saturday night, and meet the Williams Wolves here on Tuesday night.

After a scoreless first period at Warroad on Tuesday night, the Prowlers entered the scoring column at the 8:25 mark of the second period when goalie Jerry Lindsay just got a piece of Dale Wennberg's shot, and the disk entered the cage for a goal.

The Warriors bounced back in the third stanza to tally a pair of goals, with Dick Huerd notching a counter in the opening minute and Jack Foster sending the Warriors into a 2 to 1 lead at the 10:55 mark. The Prowlers racked up the equalizer at the 12:30 mark when Jerry Jorgenson and Dale Wennberg combined for a marker, seting the stage for Hjelle's game-winning goal in the overtime period.

The Thief River Falls Thieves increased their margin over the runner-up Roseau Cloverleafs this past week as a result of the pair of victories that coach Paul Bedards' locals registered, and the result is a six-point lead in the league standings. The Thieves defeated the Cloverleafs and the Grand Forks Jets by identical 5 to 3 scores.

The Crookston Pirates picked up a four-point win on Sunday as they defeated the Fargo Flyers, 7 to 5, at Crookston, moving into third place in the league standings.

This week's feature game will be the Roseau vs. Thief River Falls tilt slated for the Arena rink on Sunday afternoon. There is a possibility that the Leafs will be bolstered by the return of several top-flight players who have been playing in the Great Falls, Montana area.

VFW Midget Six to Face Roseau Midgets Sunday

As an added attraction to the Thieves vs. Roseau Cloverleafs Northwest Hockey league game here on Sunday afternoon, a preliminary game has been arranged, with the face-off slated for 1:00 p.m., between the highly-rated V.F.W. midgets of Roseau and the local V.F.W. midget aggregation.

The two midget teams expected to enter the state midget tournament at St. Paul next month, and Sunday's exhibition game should be special interest to the fans of Roseau and Thief River Falls.

Evangelical Free Church Presents Film This Evening

"Great Discovery" is the title of a film which will be shown at the Evangelical Free Church of Thief River Falls tonight, Thursday, at 8 o'clock.

Colleen Townsend is the leading character in the film which gives the Christian answer to questioning youth. Noel Reyburn, Geraldine Hall, Charlie Turner and the Haven of Rest quartet are all seen in the picture.

The film is sponsored by the Youth Fellowship of the church, and it extends a cordial invitation to all to attend.

Fire losses in the U. S. in 1956 amounted to almost $1 billion, or about $6 per capita.

Renewed proof of the strangeness of truth over fiction is the theme of Twentieth Century-Fox's CinemaScope production of "The Three Faces of Eve," which stars screen newcomer Joanne Woodward, David Wayne and Lee J. Cobb. The film opens Sunday at the Avalon Theatre.

Taken from the true account of a case of multiple personality treated by two Georgia psychiatrists, the never-before-filmed story, produced, directed and written by Nunnally Johnson, concerns a housewife who had three personalities at once: a drab, mousey introvert, a wanton woman and a mature, normal young lady.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The Indispensable Man

As Lester Patrick, the former coach of the New York Rangers, and who is all-time hockey great in Canada, stated: "A good goalie is seventy percent of a hockey teams' strength." And the North Dakota Sioux learned that fact when they had to cut Bob Peters from their squad. Peters, a sophomore from Fort Frances, and rated so highly that the Detroit Red Wings have him on their negotiation list, was declared ineligible for NCAA competition because of a taint of professionalism. The Sioux had to go with an inexperienced goalie in the series opener against Minnesota, which they dropped by a 7 to 5 score.

The Prowlers, too, who are in a rebuilding process, have had to rely on a pair of inexperienced youngsters. If Ken Sauve had remained eligible, it's probable that the Prowlers would have shown stronger on defense. Sauve was just reaching maturity as a goalie, and when he was pared from the squad an unfair burden was placed on Neil Carlson and Wayne Erickson. The two boys, considering their lack of experience, have done real well.

That a good goalie is indispensable to a team's success can be judged by the record of the Eveleth Golden Bears in high school hockey. The Bears have posted a phenomenal won-and-lost record, and have won numerous state championships, and it's a fact that whenever Eveleth has come up with an extra-fine team, that club has had an exceptional goalie.

It's been uncanny the number of noted goalies that Cliff Thompson has produced at Eveleth. Just look at this list: Oscar Almquist, Matt Ceryance, Frank Brimsek, Sammy and Al LoPresti, Mike Karakas, Willard Ikola, and Tom Yurkovich. And at that we may have missed a few.

Of this group, Brimsek, Sammy LoPresti, and Mike Karakas gained a measure of fame in the National hockey league. Almquist and Ceryance played professional hockey in the American Association. And Ikola was a goalie of Olympic team caliber.

Pertinent Information

We are in receipt of a kind note from Will Gullickson of the Fargo Forum in which he states that the Bemidji vs. Moorhead basketball game of the other week was played on the Concordia college floor and not on the Spud's home court. The inference we are to derive from this information is that the Moorhead Spuds won the game, by that 68 to 66 score, on merit, with the "home" floor not a factor.

And, too, Will adds that Moorhead had an important game on the Friday night preceding the Lumberjack clash, playing the Detroit Lakes Lakers.

He adds, "With four juniors in the starting lineup the Moorhead future is bright for the Spuds for the next two tournament seasons. A guard named Stan Stevenson is really the boy to watch. He gave Bemidji a dose of its own speed and defensive tactics."

All this is of interest to local cage fans, for the Moorhead Spuds will appear here in a schedule-ending game on Friday, Feb. 28th.

Dietary Note

This is to inform the local baseball fans that the Thieves' second baseman, Frank Gunderman, has begun spring training. He is restricting himself to tomato-and-lettuce sandwiches washed down by a half-glass of non-fat milk for his noon-hour lunches.

Setting up exercises, such as shaking dice for lunch or picking up his friend's dinner check, he hasn't started yet.

Could be that Frank will be the Thieves hit-and-run man this season.

An Indication

The basketball Prowlers really haven't been tested in district competition since losing Dave Hanson a couple of weeks ago, but that test will be coming up on Friday night when, on the local court, they play coach Snooks Sullivan's East Grand Forks club.

While the Little Green Wave took a 70 to 35 shellacking at Bemidji on Friday night, in a Northwest conference tilt, that defeat by a two-to-one score, isn't a fair indication of the East Side team. The East Siders won the greater Grand Forks city championship in a tournament held during the holidays, and that's quite a performance.

Snooks has one of his rangiest teams of the past several years, and the burliest, too. They will give the Prowlers quite a tussle on Friday night.

Ice Fishermen Are Warned of Rules

Fish Houses to Be Removed by Feb. 28, Warden States

Ice fishermen were warned today by Francis W. Johnson, chief game warden, to adhere closely to the laws controlling their sport or face prosecution.

"With the ice fishing season well underway, many fishermen are forgetting some of the regulations," said Johnson, "and are falling into bad habits. Our wardens have been instructed to be especially watchful for violations during the remainder of the season."

Johnson lists the following regulations which he says are the ones most commonly violated:

1. The name and address of the owner of a fishing house must be plainly and legibly posted on the exterior in letters and figures at least 3" high. These may be printed on board and affixed securely to the house or painted directly on the structure.
2. No hook on door — must be constructed so door can be opened from outside at all times while in use.
3. No angling from a dark house.
4. License affixed securely to the fish house — license not transferable.
5. Fish house must be removed by February 28.

Warden Johnson also warned the ice is not safe in many places and fishermen should use caution. He also urged anyone having knowledge about thefts or vandalism of fish houses to report it to the local police authorities.

Cineramo Show to Aid Retarded

The Northwest premiere of the newest Cinerama production, "Search for Paradise" at the Century Theatre, Minneapolis, on March 4, will be a benefit for the Minneapolis Association for Retarded Children, Melvin D. Heckt, president of the society, announced today.

The entire receipts from the premiere will go to the Association for the support of the summer day camp it operates for retarded youngsters of Hennepin county.

Children's Home in Fergus Falls to Care for Retarded

Home Has Facilities for Twenty Children, Director Midthun Says

The Lake Park-Wild Rice Children's Home of Fergus Falls, has begun a new program of service to handicapped children. Beginning this month, the home is accepting mentally retarded children for custodial care. Referrals will be made by county welfare boards throughout the state and the home is handling its own intake procedure. Norman Midthun is the director of the home.

The facility is located on the southeast edge of Fergus Falls. The building is modern in every detail and would accommodate 20 youngsters. A spacious playground surrounds the housing unit. There is an abundance of needed playground equipment on the premises which would be ideally suited to the program. There are twelve on the staff including seven group care workers, a housemother, cook, laundress, and building custodian.

The decision on this type of program was made recently by the board of directors following a survey which determined the greatest area of need for service to handicapped children. When considering that there are over 1,200 boys and girls in Minnesota awaiting placement in the state institutions of Cambridge and Faribault, the members of the board voted for this project.

The Children's Home, which is owned and operated by the Evangelical Lutheran Church, has been serving children for nearly seventy years. The present site of the institution came about in 1948 following a merger of two similarly operated homes at Lake Park and Wild Rice, Minnesota, respectively. During the many years of its existence, it has been a shelter for homeless, dependent and neglected, and emotionally disturbed children.

Pennington Co. Leaders Hear Talk by Miss Brill

For good health, every adult and child should have at least two servings of meat or other protein every day, including some protein for breakfast.

That fact was brought out today in a lesson, "Protein in Everyday Meals" given by Miss Grace Brill, extension nutrition specialist, University of Minnesota, to delegates from homemakers groups.

Protein is important to build and repair bones, blood, skin and all other body tissue as well as to help the body to resist disease. Protein foods include fish, meat, eggs, milk, dried beans and peas, nuts, bread and cereals. Highest quality protein is found in meat, fish, eggs and milk.

A good breakfast, it was brought out, should include some protein, such as cereal and milk, or an egg or a serving of ham or sausage.

Miss Brill met with delegates from one half of the groups in Pennington county today. She will meet with the delegates of the other groups on Friday afternoon. The meetings are being held in the meeting room of the court house.

Welcome Gov. Freeman

Governor Orville Freeman will visit our city tomorrow and at a breakfast meeting will report to local citizens on problems of state government.

Whether we are for or against Governor Freeman, in terms of partisan considerations, is not important on an occasion of this kind. This is a public, and not a party, meeting. We like that distinction.

There is a time, and a place, in our system, for the rough and tumble of politics, and we know that Orville Freeman, with his Marine service background, is not averse to the rugged give-and-take of a political campaign. But there also are times, in the conduct of public affairs, when governors should meet citizens without regard to partisan considerations. And the breakfast meeting tomorrow morning is called in this spirit.

Our city is always honored by the personal appearance of the state's chief executive. We are happy on this occasion to extend to Governor Orville Freeman a sincere welcome to a community where he has many friends.

Postal Rate Increase

President Eisenhower has asked once again that congress increase the charges for postal services, and this is a request that deserves immediate consideration. There is no justification for an inefficient postal service being subsidized at the expense of the taxpayer. Those who use the service should pay their fair share of the cost, and this principle should apply to all classes of mail.

Reorganization of the postal service in the interests of efficiency has been shelved time and again because postal employees are a powerful group politically. Vote-conscious congressmen do not like to antagonize an employee group that is represented at every crossroad in their districts.

Service charges that would be in line with service costs probably would arouse the public to the need for reorganization and increased efficiency.

The Important Question

In a recent issue of Capper's Farmer the opinions of seven of "the nations top farm thinkers" on the question of "Where Do We Go From Here?" were summarized. It was an impressive list of names, selected from those who were to appear as experts at a congressional subcommittee hearing on agricultural policy.

All of the views expressed by these authorities were interesting, although they offered little that might be considered new in this field of ideas. The summary was interesting mainly, however, because of the wide differences of opinion among these experts as to what should be done.

In groping about for a basic difference among those who are qualified to discuss this problem intelligently, we find on one side the point of view of those who look upon the farm problem as a thing to be dealt with by the government as a temporary responsibility. And on the other side is the approach of those who believe the government has a permanent obligation to make farming profitable.

The views of those who believe the purpose of government assistance should be to help agriculture to help itself probably will never be reconciled with the thinking of those who would have the government treat agriculture as a permanently helpless special ward of the state.

So far our approach to the surplus problem has been based on the fact that it is the result of a special war time need when the government encouraged increased production. The measures adopted have been limited largely to surplus disposal and an attempt at a cut-back of production of a few basic commodities to normal peace time needs. Up to now the government has not accepted as its responsibility an across-the-board, fair-price structure, for agricultural products.

Most of our farm products are still sold in a free market, and organizations speaking for important segments of our farm production are opposed to government price supports. Several commodity groups have already made good progress in controlling their own production and marketing. Others now have plans in the making for such self-help operations.

The administration has now proposed drastic revisions in the present price support program, and these proposals are being attacked bitterly by many farm-state representatives in congress. The Minnesota delegation, in both the House and the Senate, has been especially vocal in its criticism of the administration recommendations.

These critics seem to agree that the present program has failed to accomplish its purposes, but they are not agreed upon any alternative plan, and all they ask for is more of the same. Except for the few who frankly advocate a socialist system of government controls and subsidies, those who speak for agriculture in congress are pathetically lacking in ideas.

The important question to be answered at this time, as we see it, is whether agriculture is going to be encouraged to develop in the freedom of the American tradition or if, through the regimentation of agriculture, we are going to take our first decisive step toward socialism and the end-of-the-road communism, from where society will have to start once again the slow march of progress.

Sen. Humphrey's Newsletter

Inadequate Budget—After listening last week to President Eisenhower's promising words in his State of the Union address, it was a disappointment to study details of his budget message. Perhaps it was best summed up in the first sentence of a Washington Post editorial: "The President's budget does not measure up to the challenge of the times." The Eisenhower program, as revealed in the Budget, is tragically short of meeting the nation's needs in this space age.

It grossly underestimates the nation's capacity, as well as the necessity, to rebuild its defenses and at the same time to build its social and economic strength by which the competition with communism will finally be won. Once again it is apparent that in spite of his brave words, the President is unable or unwilling to rise above the bookkeeping mentality that shackled the Government's programs under the height of ex-Secretary Humphrey and brought the United States into mortal danger.

Turning back Clock—For the sake of bringing the Budget into precarious balance, the President has not only skimped on defense and foreign aid but has proposed turning back the clock on conservation, housing, urban renewal, vocational education, social welfare, and other programs vital to the national welfare. His proposals for education are inadequate to the demonstrated needs. The increase in the defense budget is less than military and civilian experts have said is necessary. Research and development for penetrating outer space have again been slighted and starved, virtually assuring that we will have to negotiate with the Russians on unequal terms Budgeted expenditures for international economic and technical development—in spite of the President's eloquent words in the State of the Union message—are below what we should be doing anyhow, and much below what is required to match and counter the Soviet economic offensive.

Ignores Recession—There is no recognition of the economic recession that continues to grow. If we are to engage in an all-out struggle with the Soviet, the first requisite is full employment and fullest utilization of our productive resources. The new budget fails to keep pace with our normal economic growth, let alone provide any incentive for accelerating that growth to meet any emergency. Under present international circumstances, any recession in the United States is dangerous and all to costly. While our built-in safeguards may prevent a recession today from blossoming into the kind of full-fledged unemployment reflects against our free economic system at a time when it is on trial before the world in competition with the State Capitalistic system of the Soviet. We cannot forget that.

Waging Peace—Many of us took our greatest hope from the portion of the President's State of the Union message talking about 'waging peace.' Yet no provision has been made for any effective action on this front. In fact, as the Washington Post commented editorially: "The lack of boldness in this area raises the question whether the Administration is not beginning to think of a defense budget and the security it will buy as ends in themselves. Where are the "works" of peace"? What is it that we are trying to protect? Is the United States to be concerned with freedom's institutions, its hopes and its promise of a richer and fuller life?"

Shirks Responsibilities—"Americans," said the President, "do not shirk our clear responsibilities when new challenges arise." Yet that is exactly what the new Budget does. It is a statement of lack of confidence in the American people, in the American economy, and in the Government of the United States to meet "the promises and dangers of the dawning age of space conquest." It is the triumph of a balanced budget over a balanced program.
